Shepilov Out, Gromyko In As Soviet Foreign Minister

Sudden Switch Puts Stalinist In Key Post

(From UP and CP Dispatches)
MOSCOW—The Soviet Union dropped Dmitri Shepilov as foreign minister today after only nine months in office—the nine months of Hungary and Poland.

Andrei Gromyko was promoted to replace him. Action taken following a secret meeting of the Soviet Communist Party central committee Wednesday and Thursday.

Shepilov, 51-year-old former editor of the Communist party organ Pravda, replaced V. M. Molotov only last June. Gromyko was first deputy to both.

Shepilov now becomes one of the eight secretaries of the Communist party central committee under party chief Nikita Khrushchev.

The official Tass News Agency announcement of Shepilov's removal gave no reason. It said only that he was transferred to other work.

Gromyko is regarded as a Stalinist. He rose to prominence in the Soviet hierarchy under former foreign minister V. M. Molotov. Nikolai Patolichev replaces Gromyko. Patolichev has been deputy foreign minister since July. He is a member of the Communist party Central Committee.

He was known as a leading champion of a vigorous Soviet policy in the Middle East. Gromyko is a career diplomat who has been close to Molotov through the post-war period. He became as well known as Molotov for repeatedly saying "no" to Western proposals in the United Nations.

Square-jawed, unsmiling and rarely ruffled, Gromyko lacks the verbal pyrotechnics of the late Andrei Vishinsky. Shepilov's last major task was the launching of the new Soviet "hands off" doctrine for the Middle East.

The shake-up came as a complete surprise to Moscow observers. Shepilov had been regarded as the leading Communist spokesman on foreign policy even before he was named to replace Molotov.

Since his appointment Tito's relations with the Soviet Union again become strained. Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal and war burst in the Middle East. Revolution wracked Hungary and Poland threw off its Stalinist leadership.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly Thursday unanimously approved resumption of five-power talks aimed at breaking the deadlock on world disarmament. The secret talks began in London March 18.

CITY GIRL TELLS SATURDAY OF HER AMAZING ESCAPE
Sole survivor of a shipwreck on the coast of Spain which took the lives of her father, photographer Helmut Goertz of Victoria and the rest of her family, 13-year-old Anita Goertz believes "it must have been a miracle that saved me." She tells the story of the tragic wreck, in her own words, in Weekend Magazine, to be distributed with Saturday's editions of the Victoria Daily Times.

DEMARA PLEADS GUILTY, MINISTER SENTENCED
Canadian Impostors Unfrosted

ELMDALE, Kan. (AP)—Who is Calvin Laskey, Canadian whose masquerade as minister and war hero melted away to expose a 29-year career of thievery, army desertion and jail breaking?

"He has a genuine humanitarian drive—he wants to do good for people," says William Pringle who prosecuted Laskey to six months in jail on a charge of illegally marrying a couple while posing as a minister.

Police in Calgary said Laskey passed himself off as U.S. air force colonel there in 1945... that he flew in the Doolittle air raid on Tokyo in 1942... and that they believe he is a native of Saint John, N.B.

The Elmdale Church thrived under his ministry. He was in great demand as a speaker and told a gripping story of his experiences as a prisoner of war in Korea.

But he was never in Korea. When Laskey went to jail Monday he asked for his books, his Bible and his cricket needles.

"We didn't let him have the needles," said Pringle.

BAIL SET AT $10,000 FOR HOLD-UP SUSPECT

Bank robber suspect Barry Irwin Keele, 26, of Victoria, was granted $10,000 bail and remanded without plea today to appear Monday in city police court.

He is charged with the armed hold-up last Monday of Canadian Bank of Commerce James Bay branch, from which $3,000 was taken.

Bail bond was not expected to be filed before next week. A second suspect, detained after Keele was arrested in his company early Thursday in Saanich, was released after questioning by city detectives.

Lawyer J. Ronald Grant represented Keele.

Maggie Pulls Tug Under; Two Drown

HALIFAX—A navy tug helping to moor the aircraft carrier Magnificent on its return from Europe was capsized and sank today by a line attached to the carrier.

Two men lost their lives. Seven were rescued by other tugs.

The accident occurred opposite the navy's dockyard in Halifax's north end where the Angus L. MacDonald bridge connects Halifax and Dartmouth.

The Magnificent arrived in port about 6.30 a.m. PST probably for the last time, after a rough-and-tumble trip across the Atlantic.

Part of her starboard bow was battered in during the trip but her deck load of 49 Sabre jets escaped with a salt water drenching.

About a dozen light floats had been washed overboard by high-running seas that destroyed one motor cutter, damaged two others and a steel barge used for in-shore work.

The jets, 49 of them on the deck and 11 in below-deck hangars, were brought here from Glasgow, after service in Europe with the RCAF. They will be taken to an aircraft plant at nearby Eastern Passage.

The Magnificent is scheduled to return to the Royal Navy and will be replaced by HMCS Bonaventure, now on trials out of Belfast.

Canada is said to have expressed willingness to supply naval or air components, or both, should the idea prove acceptable.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States, Britain, France and Norway have agreed on a temporary arrangement for the Suez Canal but Egypt firmly refuses to take any action, diplomatic sources reported here today.

Canada already has about 1,100 administrative and service troops in the force, dispatched to help restore peace to the area.

Under the new Canadian proposals the UN would maintain either air or sea patrols, or both, to meet Israel's insistence

Socreds Win House Vote On Wenner-Gren Deal

HITLER WAS PIKER SAYS MINING HEAD

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ozzie MacDonald, president of the Cowichan Copper Co., said Thursday when asked to comment on the Wenner-Gren development project: "This guy Hitler was crazy. He went to war for a country. He should have come to B.C. (Premier) Bennett would have given him one."

IN COMMONS

'Expenditure' Key to B.C. Plan—Harris

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Harris said today impact of a reported big development program in central British Columbia on the national economy would depend on the rate of expenditure.

"Until we know when it is proposed to proceed with the development one could not express any intelligent opinion as to the possible effect on the economy," he told Colin Cameron (CCF-Nanaimo) in the Commons.

Mr. Harris said he doesn't know whether there is anything substantial about the reports. There was much untapped wealth in British Columbia and the government welcomed foreign capital for developing Canadian resources. But effect on the national economy would depend on rate of expenditure on such a project.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O Thou who art Creator of all things beautiful, create within us symmetry of character, that we may in turn present to Thy world an inner beauty that shall attract those whose friends we would like to be. May we then be so used of Thee that Thy purpose of redemption may be furthered through us as well as through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

By PETER MURRAY and NORMAN CRIBBENS

Mounting public concern over a multi-million-dollar plan to industrialize B.C.'s northland reached a climax in the legislature Thursday night, as opposition members hurled criticism and questions at the government.

The decision to enter an agreement with Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren was defended by Premier W. A. C. Bennett in a fiery, election-style speech and by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston.

The heated debate ground on until a few minutes past midnight, and closing moments brought back memories of the epic all-night sitting last year over government handling of accusations against former lands and forests minister R. E. Somers.

Premier Bennett accused critics of "smear" tactics, and made a fighting defence of Einar Gunderson, under fire for

Wenner-Gren 'Bad Character'
Victoria Liberal George Gregory, who termed Wenner-Gren a "bad character," said:

"I have the most serious doubts as to whether this project is truly in the best interests of British Columbia."

The hottest words came from CCFer Tony Gargrave who said the scheme was "a minerals grab with the railway thrown in as a gimmick."

Mr. Gargrave said he doubted the 400-mile monorail railroad the firm has agreed to start by 1960 will ever be built.

The government should spend $5,000,000 itself to survey the area and should extend the PGE through northern B.C. to the Yukon.

The night sitting, first of the session, was precipitated by the CCF.

At the start of the afternoon sitting, Mr. Strachan proposed that the House adjourn the Throne Speech debate and take up a full discussion of the development plan.

He was ruled out of order by Speaker Thomas Irwin, who was upheld by the government in a vote.

Later in the course of his speech fledgling CCF member Gordon Dowding of Burnaby moved that:

"This House regrets that matters arising out of disclosures by the lands and forests minister... were not disclosed in the Speech from the Throne."

All the CCF members voted for the amendment, supported by Independent Labor member Thomas Uphill of Fernie and Liberal George Gregory. The other Liberal member of the House, P. A. Gibbs of Oak Bay, was absent because of illness.

No Deals, No Giveaways—Premier
Premier Bennett denied the Wenner-Gren interests had been given any special privileges.

In a charged voice he said: "There are no deals. There are no concessions. There are no giveaways."

Then, shooting a fiery glance at the Opposition group: "If this is true—and it is—how can you be against it? I challenge you to vote against it."

Just before sitting down, the premier repeated "there are no deals of any kind and there will be none as long as I am premier of this province."

"I assure you there won't be."

He urged the Opposition to "rise above partisanship and carping criticism and give support to this project."

The premier said of Mr. Gunderson: "There is no finer man in British Columbia tonight."

Mr. Gunderson, "a great Canadian," has been the victim of "snide remarks," Mr. Bennett said.

The premier said he had sought out Mr. Gunderson for

TOO MUCH WATER

Socred Flays Liquor

Cyril Shelford's rum poodle business is "on the rocks."

What put it there? The government's increase in liquor prices last fall.

The genial Social Credit member for Omineca, who never hesitates to castigate the government when he thinks it needs it, explained the situation to a highly amused legislature Thursday.

Last year Mr. Shelford brought the House down with a story of how a couple of bottles of rum froze in the trunk of his car during sub-freezing weather in his far north riding, and his only recourse was to make poodles.

This year, what with the increased prices, it just isn't profitable.

ASKS SECOND LOOK
He hoped the Attorney-General would take a "second look" at the decision to boost prices.

The distillers should be told, Mr. Shelford said, that unless they reduce the price the Liquor Control Board would cancel all orders and import all liquor from outside the province.

Both the distillers and LCB hiked liquor prices "when it looked like they were making out all right and we were too." Both reported record profits.

And don't think that increasing the price will stop people drinking, Mr. Shelford said.

"It won't. It will only take more money away from the families of those that do."

Mr. Shelford clinched his argument by saying that now he can understand why there is such a fight over B.C.'s water resources: "If you will divide up last year's profit of the Liquor Control Board you will find that the water contents were sold for $14,430,000 (of profit) and the alcohol contents for $7,700,000."

"In fact with that much water in the liquor I don't see how these Vancouver police sniffing stations can ever detect any liquor on anyone's breath."

Mr. Speaker
Cracks Down

OTTAWA (CP)—Speaker Rene Beaudoin Thursday cracked rules like a whip in an apparent move to subdue a pre-election restiveness in the Commons.

His sharp application of the rules cut the daily question period to a bare 20 minutes. Both Liberal and Opposition members were brought up short.

Later, as debate got under way, he ruled a statement by John Blackmore (SC, Lethbridge) unparliamentary and ordered the offending word retracted. It was.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Gunderson Caught With Directorship Showing—Gregory

Temper erupted in the legislature Thursday for the first time since the session opened and the clash of viewpoints over the multi-million dollar development plan for northern B.C. produced scenes reminiscent of the famous all-night sitting on the Sommers case last year.

But the battle, which lasted until two minutes after midnight, was also peppered with humorous sallies and rapid-fire exchanges of wit.

"Einar Gunderson has been caught with his directorship showing," quipped George Gregory, Liberal member for Victoria, in a criticism of Mr. Gunderson's association with the Wenner-Gren company.

The House laughed explosively, as if surprised at hearing this sort of thing from one of its most serious legislators.

The next sally came from Bob Strachan, leader of the CCF Opposition, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston (envied for his equanimity) assured the House they would see the full fruits of the northern project in four years time.

"You'd better call another election next year just in case," urged Mr. Strachan. "Remember you launched the PGE with the last one."

Watered Whisky Worries Northern Member

Earlier in the day, the House heard a dissertation on watered whisky from lanky Cyril Sheldford from Omineca, one of the original members of the Socred government.

He complained that in spite of the recent price increase approved by the government, contemporary whisky was compounded of 35 per cent alcohol and 65 per cent water.

Mr. Sheldford had the temerity to ask that these figures be reversed.

"I don't see how the police, when they set up these sniffing stations of theirs, can tell whether a driver has been drinking whisky or water," he said.

Premier Shows Flash Temper to House

A flash of temper by Premier Bennett touched off the first night sitting of the session.

It came when Gordon Dowding, local CCF member for Burnaby, criticized the government for not revealing its northern development plan in the Speech from the Throne.

Leaping to his feet, eyes flashing, the Premier said: "That is unfair. Members of this House know full well you cannot explain matters of this nature in the Throne Speech. It was kept secret so that members of the House would be the first to be informed."

The Premier then launched into a defence of his government's action.

Interrupted by Mr. Strachan, the Premier exploded a second time.

"You have had your say," he replied. "Now you are going to listen to me, whether you like it or not."

Then, as if sentencing a class to stay in after school, he said: "There will be a night sitting and we will continue this debate then."

W. J. Asselstine, a Liberal turned Social Creditor, showed me a telegram from Willie St. Dennis, one of his constituents in far northern Atlin.

"Get us all the money you can," Mr. St. Dennis said. "We don't care if it's funny money or not so long as it's money."

Mr. Justice Macfarlane was unable to preside at the first three cases heard because of his laryngitis attack.

The present court house was built in 1885, and the large new addition at the rear is expected to be fully occupied by late summer. Some offices in the new wing already are occupied.

KINGSTON (CP) — A national campaign to raise $4,000,000 for Queen's University will open March 11. N. R. Crump, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and general chairman of the campaign, said Thursday night.

U.K. to Cut NATO Troops By 30,000

By MILTON MARMOR
LONDON (AP)—Britain formally told her NATO allies on Thursday she must cut the number of British troops in West Germany.

A strained economy and a new nuclear concept of military strategy lay behind the move, details of which are still secret. But it is reported the measures will reduce the number of British troops in Germany to about 50,000 from the present 80,000.

Britain's decision was announced as French Defence Minister Maurice Bourges-Maunory arrived in London and told reporters that France too desires to streamline her military set-up.

The British decision to change the pattern of her military program went simultaneously to the Atlantic Treaty members in Paris, the permanent council of the Western European Union in London and West German Foreign Minister Volfrum Brentano in Bonn.

Britain's 80,000 troops now in West Germany are in three armored division and one infantry division. Speculation has been that she would cut the number to 50,000 but seek to maintain present firepower by streamlining the divisions and adding weapons obtained from the U.S.

The first British steps likely will be the cut in manpower—by universal conscription replaced by a form of selective service.

But Sandys has said the changeover will not come overnight despite talk in the British press of ballistic missiles and guided rockets.

Passmore Balks On Joint Hall

Proposal Called 'Non-Essential' By Councillor in Clash With Ash

Victoria-Saanich committeemen Thursday advanced planning toward joint municipal hall construction and integration of some municipal services despite a spoke-in-the-wheel move by Saanich Councillor Leslie Passmore.

"A majority of people in Saanich are not in favor of a joint hall," he stated.

Saanich voters in a December referendum registered 2,154 yes votes and 919 no votes on the question of whether the two municipalities should continue studies of possible construction of a joint municipal hall.

Coun. Passmore pointed out there were three questions to be voted on—building of an addition to the present hall, building a new hall or continuing city-Saanich talks.

He said 798 voters favored a new hall in Saanich, 1,543 favored an addition, and these together totalled more than the 2,154 who voted for the joint hall.

The two Saanich members argued again when Coun. Passmore pointed out Saanich was entitled to three delegates to the joint hall committee. Since the resignation of Coun. T. P. O'Neill, there were only two.

The reeve said a third member would be appointed following by-elections to be held March 9.

"Someone who has never been on council before and does not know what it's all about?" asked Coun. Passmore.

"I know you don't look kindly on us greenhorns, as you call us," said the reeve, "but if someone who approaches it with some common sense..."

Ald. Dowell interrupted with a request discussions of integration of services get underway.

"We both have equipment which is used only 50 per cent of the time."

Coun. Passmore also objected that all sites so far recommended for a joint hall had been located in the city.

"Aren't we anticipating the heaviest growth in Saanich?"

"We might be glad to have it in Saanich—to avoid having more tax-free lands in the city," joked Victoria's Ald. Austin Curtis.

The committee decided to invite Capital Region Planning Board officials to the next meeting, set for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., to discuss possible sites.

Municipal engineers, police and fire chiefs will also be on hand.

Saanich has to borrow for a sewer by-law ($800,000), and must meet its share of school by-law costs, as well as prepare for a share of Royal Jubilee Hospital costs of extension.

He said the municipality has the money to build an extension to the present hall suitable for 10 or 15 years' use.

The federal government had asked municipalities refrain from borrowing for non-essentials, he said.

"In view of these considerations, I don't feel justified in going ahead with these investigations," although, he added, there was merit in co-operation in protective services.

He suggested a new committee which would include as advisers the city and Saanich police and fire chiefs.

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash said he was amazed at Coun. Passmore's stand.

"After the December elections... Coun. Passmore said he would co-operate 100 per cent... and at the first meeting he violently opposes doing anything about it."

The reeve added he had put Coun. Passmore on the committee because he knew he opposed the project and wanted to be fair.

"We are not here to interpret votes," he told the councillor and reminded him, "We don't know if it is a minimum vote... only 23 per cent voted."

IN PARLIAMENT

Divorce Law Changes Approved by Senate

(From Times News Services)

Broad changes in the rules governing parliamentary divorce, now going through at the rate of close to 400 a year, were approved Thursday by the Senate.

Main change in the rules of the Senate's hard-working divorce committee means that after Sept. 1 co-respondents—the third party in adultery charges—must be named where possible. They will be advised and given a chance to defend themselves if they desire. At present co-respondents need not be named.

The rule changes, first in almost 50 years, have been occupying the Upper Chamber for nearly a month. No senator made mention of the fact that approval came on St. Valentine's Day, traditional day of lovers.

But one senator, Dr. F. W. Gershaw, 73-year-old Liberal from Alberta and father of four children, said adultery—only ground for divorce—should be made a crime in law.

"Divorce is too easily obtained on the ground that adultery was committed or was said to have been committed," he said in supporting the amendments. "Co-respondents should be punished. Adultery is a moral crime and nearly a month. No senator made mention of the fact that approval came on St. Valentine's Day, traditional day of lovers."

Prime Minister St. Laurent defended the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization against Social Credit charges that the UN body is subversive and atheistic.

It would be "unfair," said Mr. St. Laurent, "to leave on the record any indication that we consider it a subversive organization."

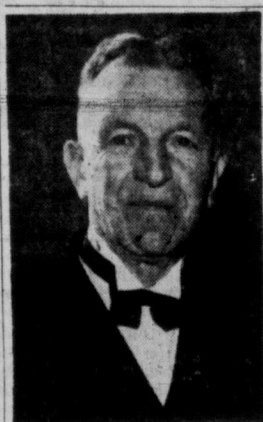

He added: "To suggest that the Canada Council is being set up merely to serve as an agent for UNESCO is to suggest a pretty short tail to wag the dog."

He spoke as the House gave detailed study in committee to a government bill which would provide the council with $100,000,000 in public funds.

Earlier, the House gave second reading—approval in principle—to the bill by a vote of 163 to 16. Only the Social Credit group and two Quebec independents voted against it. Senator Thomas Reid, sharp-tongued Scot from British Columbia, said the Canadian Wheat Board is "one of the greatest government-owned monopolies in Canada."

The outspoken Liberal speaking during Senate debate on a bill to extend compulsory grain marketing powers of the Canadian Wheat Board for five years beyond next July 31, said he had nothing against the bill.

Defence Minister Campney indicated Thursday that the Canadian army is abreast of any changes in organization dictated by weapons developments.

Hazen Argue (CCF, Assiniboia) had asked whether, in line with changes planned in the United States and the United Kingdom, Canada is giving consideration to reductions in expenditures on conventional weapons. He also asked whether Canada plans to acquire thermonuclear or guided missiles. Mr. Campney said Canada keeps her military structure under constant study "and we are making such changes as the facts appear to warrant."

Blast in Race-Torn Town Wounds Negress, Baby

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP) — A dynamite-laden suitcase exploded in the heart of Clinton's Negro section Thursday night, wrecking a restaurant and injuring a Negro woman and baby.

The blast was the area's eighth, and by far the most destructive, since Clinton High School admitted 12 Negro students last August under a federal court order.

The suitcase, which contained "several" sticks of dynamite, was placed across the street from a restaurant where several Negroes were eating. The Negroes said they saw a white man stop, leave the suitcase, jump back into his car and speed away.

The restaurant, located in a basement, was wrecked. Its ceiling and inner walls were caved in and its windows blown out.

The woman, identified as Emma Simmons, was hit by falling plaster. The 11-month-old girl, Jacqueline Gallaher, was cut by flying glass.

Saud, Franco Agree To Friendship Pact

MADRID (AP) — The Spanish foreign ministry announced Thursday King Saud and Generalissimo Francisco Franco have agreed to sign a friendship treaty soon linking Spain and Saudi Arabia.

A communique issued after Saud departed for a visit to southern Spain said the two leaders also explained their viewpoints on the Middle East situation and reached agreement "on objectives necessary to assure peace and prosperity in that region" through the United Nations.

The Great Optimist

MR. HOWE IS OPTIMISTIC about inflation, as about everything. He says, in effect, that it is not as dangerous as many people suppose and therefore, apparently, does not require the drastic remedies widely advocated in Canada and the United States.

His latest speech reveals publicly the private split in Government thinking which has been mentioned lately in The Times' correspondence from Ottawa.

The Bank of Canada, the Finance Department, the Prime Minister and Mr. Harris have been warning us that the inflationary danger has been increasing and threatens to get worse before it gets better. President Eisenhower and the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board have been saying the same thing in the United States.

Mr. Howe and his experts of the trade and commerce department do not deny that inflation is with us and has been worsening. But they believe that the pressure on our total supplies of manpower and materials will not increase, this year, as rapidly as it has increased in the last year. That is to say, the boom will continue but at a somewhat slower pace.

No doubt this is true and could not be otherwise. Canada can certainly produce more this year than ever. It lacks the materials and manpower to maintain last year's rate of increase.

Mr. Howe himself calculates that the governments and industries of Canada intend to spend this year about $8.5 billions on capital investment, this investment being the central cause of inflation.

The question is whether we have the physical resources to support this gigantic program, by far the largest ever undertaken by a nation of our size. Insofar as the spending of this money exceeds the available manpower and materials we shall have an inflationary rise in prices as the spenders scramble for the available supplies.

On this account the central bank, Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Harris have been urging governments and industrialists not to halt their expansion but to moderate it a little, to keep it within the nation's means. To this end the Government and its bank have not themselves raised interest rates but have limited the total supply of money. The demand for this money has naturally raised interest rates.

Presumably Mr. Howe agrees with his Government's policy but his recent statements are bound to undermine it in some degree at least. They will be used by politicians in search of votes and investors in search of money as an argument for an easier credit policy, probably for tax reductions and higher spending generally. No doubt the Government will regret Mr. Howe's intervention but no one, of course, can control him.

In view of his almost unlimited power in Ottawa, are we to take it from his latest speech that the Government is about to weaken its anti-inflation policy, appease its critics and, by a somewhat softer treatment, seek popularity in the forthcoming election at the expense of further damage to the Canadian dollar?

Mr. Harris' budget speech will give us an answer to that question. He will need all his wisdom to resist the pressure of inflation. He will need all his courage to resist the pressure of Mr. Howe.

Aid for the University

OPPOSITION MEMBERS IN THE Legislature have protested the Throne Speech's failure to mention aid for the University of British Columbia.

Premier Bennett has replied that "the time to discuss finances is when the budget is brought down." Mr. Bennett's words indicate clearly that the door is not closed against relief for the university. He will be expected to demonstrate his appreciation of the institution's difficulties and his willingness to ease them when he delivers his major speech as finance minister.

In the meantime, the premier will have gained a very clear understanding of the public's desires in this respect. The petition signed by thousands of citizens urging better accommodation for out-of-town students and improved facilities for different faculties represents a broad cross section of opinion which no politician can safely ignore. When to it is added the unanimous voice of the opposition—representing as it does a majority of the voters—the government doubtless will be impressed.

This is not, of course, a party question. The welfare of students at the University of British Columbia and the provision of adequate accommodation are matters of concern to everyone interested in higher education.

It would have been gratifying to learn in the Speech from the Throne that action is to be taken by the government on the question. Since that word was not given in the opening address, it will be awaited with keen interest when the budget is brought down.

The Man With the Abacus

IN WHAT RUNS A GREAT DEAL deeper than a study of semantics, western observers have been analyzing the recent words of Mr. Khrushchev, Mr. Chou En-lai and other figures of the so-called "people's democracies."

The study arises from the recent statements by Mr. Chou in which he referred to the pre-eminence of Russia.

Mr. Chou, making his political tour of east European satellites to shore up Moscow defences after events in Poland and Hungary, spoke repeatedly of China's solidarity with the socialist commonwealth "headed by the U.S.S.R."

This was a notable shift from Chinese phraseology last year. Late in 1936 Chinese speakers, Mao Tse-tung among them, discussed the "socialist commonwealth" in terms placing China in a position of equal importance with the U.S.S.R., or mentioned Peking before Moscow in their assertions of unity.

It seems obvious that Chou En-lai has adopted the different attitude, the implied deference to Russia, at the request of the men in the Kremlin—a request of some urgency in the light of trouble among the other "people's democracies."

It seems obvious also, that this change, making Russia "more equal" than others in the Communist orbit, has come about at a price. What that price is has not yet been divulged, but in the light of previous Chinese assertions of equality it will not be small.

Perhaps the situation can be phrased in football terminology. Chou, the "ringer" appears to be carrying the ball while Nikita Khrushchev calls the signals, as quarterback. No one can yet discern the figure on the bench directing the entire strategy. It could be a man with an abacus.

As Paul Wohl writes in The Christian Science Monitor, "Despite Mr. Chou's lip service to Moscow, European observers feel that China, rather than the Soviet Union, is becoming the mainspring of Communist activities and ideas."

Wired for Sound Operation

SPECIAL ATTENTION IS BEING drawn at this time to household electrical wiring. One of the most serious causes of fire in homes is defective wiring. Bad joints in electrical circuits, often the result of novice workmanship; overheating of wires due to improper fuses; general overloading of circuits not designed for use with modern high-powered appliances—these all contribute to the toll of fires.

All can be prevented, and the expense of prevention will be less than the loss that can result from neglect of adequate precautions.

Most new homes are wired to cope with the greatly increased use of electricity in day-to-day living. But older homes—as high as 80 per cent of local dwellings, according to the city wiring inspector—are not properly equipped. A moment's thought will convince every homeowner of the need for care. A word to the wise, whether in National Electrical Week or not, should be sufficient.

Goldilocks and the Three Bears

INCIDENTS AT SEA

By STUART KEATE

Victory or Defeat?

THE Mainguy Report's recommendation that the Canadian Navy be "Canadianized," referred to here yesterday, was not exactly new.

Indeed, the senior commissioner, Rear-Admiral Rollo Mainguy of this city, had had a personal experience with this sentiment which may have affected his 1949 judgment on the matter. It stemmed from the simple—and, I feel, honorable—desire of Canadian sailors for "a sense of identity."

Early in 1945, the then Captain Mainguy was in command of HMCS Uganda, the first "big ship" commissioned for the RCN in Second World War and the first Canadian ship to fight in the Far East. Her assignment: to join the British Pacific Fleet in the Pacific war.

No Maple Leaf?

The juncture was effected Sunday, April 8, 1945. The only other non-British ship in the fleet of 26 was the renowned HMNZS Achilles, of River Plate fame.

Shortly after this union, a rating of Uganda wrote a letter to the ship's newspaper, asking why the familiar red maple leaf had not been painted on the ship's funnel, as a means of identifying her nationality? Hadn't it been promulgated as a naval order the year before?

Indeed it had. But when the request was forwarded to the captain, he refused. His explanation was: "We haven't earned our place here yet."

That this was a disappointment to the men was known to most officers, and became strikingly evident three months later. In the meantime, trouble had developed in the ship over the government's "volunteer" policy and a vote had shown 605 out of a crew of 900 in favor of returning home. The Captain went on the ship's broadcasting system for a 90-minute question and answer session, and the second undertaking given the men (I quote now from the ship's newspaper) was:

"The maple leaf will probably be put up on the funnel on our return to Canada—that is, on the way back."

What Happened?

Which brings us to another point: the Navy's manner of handling this incident.

Any fair-minded person, I submit, would agree that the Uganda's "volunteering" of the war was a debacle and a disgrace. But what happened?

As the cruiser neared Esquimalt, an escort of frigates and fairmiles steamed out to meet her. "Welcome home" signals were blinked. "Well done" messages were passed. The ultimate embarrassment occurred when a tug steamed out into the harbor with the Naden band on board, playing "Hearts of Oak."

An officer standing at attention beside me on the after-deck whispered out of the corner of his mouth: "God, what a farce!"

It was with utter amazement that we read some months later that half a dozen officers and men had been decorated for their services in what came to be known as "the ship with the six-inch shell boxes." The Navy's official account of this retreat, in the book "The Far Distant Ships," is a fantastic glossing-over of the facts.

Pretentious Humbug

It seems to be easy for the armed forces (of all nations) to turn defeats into victories, to conceal egregious boners and to glorify the inglorious. To the newspaperman-in-uniform, hardened by the sham and hypocrisy of public affairs, this sort of approach is nothing more than pretentious humbug.

On page 40 of the Mainguy Report, under the heading "Public Relations," is this sentence:

"In peace time, at least, a prompt statement of the plain truth is the public's interest and right."

This is quite a radical, even heretical, step for the "Silent Service." But it indicates progress.

TIE REMAINS

For a long time now, our colonial policy, however mixed its origins, has had self-government as its objective, and fundamental in that policy as a nation-building agency has been education. The tempo of progress has been transformed in the post-war world: the orderly trot has broken into a breathless gallop: peoples whom we have long guided are one by one obtaining independence or passing through successive phases of self-rule. But by a happy and far from accidental paradox, as the time when these young countries will be running their own affairs gets closer and our direct colonial responsibilities in education contract, the calls upon Britain's educational resources, visibly multiply: the number of overseas students over here, of educational visitors, of requests for education workers and counsellors has mounted by leaps and bounds. For as the colonial relationship fades out, it seems to be replaced, quite naturally, by a continuing association of special intimacy.

—Sir Christopher Cox, K.C.M.G., Educational Adviser to the Colonial Office.

As Our Readers See It

Swift, Firm, Fair

Your recent editorial on mollycoddling of juveniles was timely but reflects a confusion of thought all too current in the problem of handling young offenders.

The problem is to maintain order. When a juvenile commits a disorderly act the paramount necessity is then to apprehend him and restore order. Prompt, firm, decisive action is essential, for such action is also the deterrent to future outbreaks. Apprehended, the offender is at once subjected to a fair penalty. This penalty is a further deterrent to would-be offenders.

Unfortunately, in the case of juveniles, utter confusion of thought ensues when disorder occurs. Much wondering develops about the causes of the disorderly action. This wondering paralyzes action and confuses all thinking on the immediate issue of maintaining order. The fact that order in society must be maintained at all costs is lost sight of. The juvenile carries on, utterly confused himself and not knowing where to stop. Disorder becomes rampant.

Law breakers, young or old, are to be dealt with swiftly, firmly and fairly. Order must be maintained. That is the issue in dealing with juvenile rowdism.

Meanwhile, the subsidiary problem of seeking to ameliorate the conditions which breed crime can proceed as a worthy work. But this work must not be allowed to confuse our thought and energy in dealing with youth or we will be overwhelmed by disorder, as at Hal-loween here.

BURKE CAHILL,

For Rent

Every day your columns offer a large number of housing premises of all types for rent.

The number of these for rent appear to be greatly in excess of the number of people who are looking for housing accommodation.

Does this not suggest that, for the time being at any rate, there is ample accommodation without the building of new premises? And may this not be responsible for the decline in residential "starts"?

We have over-built before in Victoria with lamentable results, both privately and publicly.

AN OBSERVER.

Penurious

Referring to your editorial on the 5th inst. entitled "The Pensioner's Plight," I am of the opinion it is not one of which you should be proud. You appear to be grudgingly building up a case for the plaintiffs (the pensioners) and then tear it in shreds by raising all kinds of difficulties—financially and politically—which should have no decisive weight when dealing with the crying needs of hundreds of thousands of Canada's senior citizens who are trying to exist in a condition of almost abject poverty.

Every angle of this question has been discussed (both orally and in the press) during the past decade. It would, therefore, be idle to argue the pros and cons further. The fact remains, however, that we cannot allow the men and women, who have done so much towards the building up of this country to its present position, to live any longer in a state of semi-starvation.

We loudly acclaim our wonderful prosperity, our vast natural resources and our great ability to overcome difficulties.

FROM KUIBYSHEV

By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Boom Town

IN deep snow, with the glory of the city's broad sweep of the Volga frozen and snow-covered into semi-invisibility, Kuibyshev is singularly lacking in outward charm. The people hurrying purposefully through the streets are reduced to mere dark bundles by their waddings against the cold. The new buildings on the outskirts are stolidly utilitarian. The old buildings at the centre display an occasional fantasy, but all are marred by cracking plaster and peeling paint. The goods in the shops are mostly shoddy. The theatre and the opera, the movie houses, the two rather jolly but expensive restaurants, the bleak, cheap "dining halls" and above all the warrens that pass for human living space are uniformly overcrowded to the bursting point.

Yet this almost totally graceless city is still an absorbing experience mainly because it is a roaring boomtown, and boomtowns, with their vitality and dynamism, are always exciting in one way or another.

The statistics tell the story. When Kuibyshev was still Samara and young Lenin hung out his lawyer's shingle here, this was an easy-going little mercantile centre with a population of 130,000. Today, Kuibyshev is a big industrial city of 760,000; and the Kuibyshev boom continues unabated.

First Priority

The first part of the secret of Kuibyshev's boom is of course the Soviet government's stern enforcement of an unchallengeable first priority, an absolute first call on all resources for the expansion of this country's industrial base.

Yet I think, perhaps too boldly, that I have found two other important parts of the secret here.

One of these I began to discover when I visited a "technicum." The boys and girls looked bright and alert, but their school had none of the glossy finish and little of the elaborate equipment that you would find in a technical high school in a big American city. Only the most brilliant five per cent were expected to go on to college. The friendly, sensible principal, Efim Yefimov, made no bones about it:

"The state needs at least three qualified technicians for every graduate engineer," he said. "And the chief job of every technicum is to train skilled workers—technicians."

He was training new recruits from the construction industry, the ferrous metal-

We also seem to find no difficulty in raising billions for defence purposes (which will not, in all probability, be needed in this age of atomic and guided missile weapons).

When, however, we come to dealing with the pensioners we are penurious in the extreme, and find all sorts of difficulties to contend with in dealing with this matter. Why not hold a plebiscite, at the next general election, to ascertain the will of the people as to the amount of the pension and whether the pensioners should be allowed to live where they please without losing their pension?

Finally, our Members of Parliament did not raise any difficulties, or let their consciences prick them when, a few years ago, they increased their own indemnities from $4,000 to $10,000 per annum whilst at the same time increasing the old age pension from $360 to $480. Ten dollars per month increase for the latter, $500 for the former.

T. FOX-DECENT,
2551 Florence Street.

Clever?

With further reference to the strike of the firemen employed by the CPR, I have gone on record to the effect that the firemen have a meritorious grievance and from later information I am of the opinion that the whole business of the strike was prompted as something in the nature of a conspiracy by the railways in North America.

There is the opinion in political and labor circles that the CPR was selected as a "guinea-pig" to "try out" the idea of dispensing with the employment of firemen along with engineers in the cab of diesel locomotives.

That is something that should be enquired into by the Commission that has been set up by the Liberal Government, the leader of which, Prime Minister St. Laurent, has, in my opinion, been entirely derelict in not forestalling the strike which took place.

The Prime Minister did not consider the controversy serious enough to return to Ottawa from his vacation and left it to Messrs. Howe and Gregg to act as conciliators. One does not have to use one's imagination to any extent to realize what a poor conciliator Mr. Howe would be under any circumstances and how little effect the gallant and honorable Mr. Gregg would be at any conference table presided over by Mr. Howe.

General Peakes was more than correct when he stated that the strike could have been avoided and it is easy to see that the Liberal Government has dodged the issue completely in that the special Commission that has been set up need not bring in its report until October 1937 and there is an election pending in June of this year. The Prime Minister has been very clever indeed!

Shrewd Head

Besides Muravlenko, there was the slender, precise, shrewd head of the Kuibyshev branch of the State Bank, Vasily Romanovich Volubuyev, who provides the city's industries and trading establishments with almost capitalistic banking and credit facilities.

And besides Volubuyev, there was the Chairman of the City Soviet (or mayor), the solid, commonsensible Vladimir Ivanovich Semenov, who has been promoted from chief power station engineer and talked so knowledgeably about his desperately urgent municipal problems of housing, water supply, sewage disposal, and the like.

I think anyone who talked for hours with these men who make Kuibyshev's wheels go round, as I did, would have agreed that they all appeared impressively competent and self-confident. And well they might be, having come up the hard way to the highest posts in their city.

It was decidedly striking, this Kuibyshev boomtown combination of a growing army of skilled workers and a top echelon of highly qualified managers. But I wondered whether this interesting human combination would not eventually demand some modification of the Soviet order of priorities, that would make Kuibyshev outwardly pleasant as well as inwardly dynamic.

My Psychological Blocks

WHEN we were youngsters learning new dives from the 10-foot board we followed one cardinal rule. If we took a bust, we tried the same dive again immediately.

The theory was simple. If we quit just after we'd smashed flat out on the water, front or back, we figured the stunt would have us baffled. So we'd stagger back up to the board and go through the routine again. Our hope was that the repeated attempt would produce a non-painful dive and convince us that we could do it.

That way, we figured, we'd avoid a psychological block.

I didn't then, and don't now, know exactly what a psychological block is. I have the general idea, though, that it implies a sort of mental hurdle which can grow so high you can't get over it. It's sort of reverse Couesism. You're sure you can't do a thing—and, by golly, if you're sure enough, you can't.

Suppose, for instance, you're a kid trying to learn a two-and-one-half front somersault. For that dive you hit the board hard, ride high, spin just before you get to the top of your lift, keep your chin in and slide out of your tuck with your head down. If you come out with your head up and a little too soon, you hit the water with your face about PAINFUL LESSON.

As hard as Ted Williams clouts a baseball, it's infinitely distressing and you can't disguise your pain even by saying it's the force of the water on your eyeballs that cause the tears.

Obviously you have to fry it again. Might get a psychological block if you didn't. So you climb onto the board and repeat the performance. Chances are you'll look up too soon on the second effort. Eventually you'll learn.

If you don't, your coach will haul you out and say to you: "Wipe that silly grin off your face, quit looking cross-eyed, stop walking on your heels and don't say 'Da-a-a' when somebody speaks to you."

When your coach says that, you're on your way to something worse than a psychological block. But you tried to overcome it, anyhow.

It isn't only physical punishment that can cause that block. It can emerge from acute embarrassment. I got one from a receiving line episode. I was floating along in the queue with my mind as vacant as usual. Suddenly I found myself being presented to our very distinguished host. My place was to acknowledge his greeting with a subdued and mannerly "How do you do, Sir?" Instead, and for no reason, I yelled, "Hello! Hello! Hiya? How ya doin'?" I don't know why, but I did it. And I've never been back to see the gentleman. Never been invited again, for that matter.

BLOCKS IN QUEUES

Queues and blocks seem to go together for me. Once I followed along a cafeteria line in this town, picking myself out a sumptuous luncheon as we moved from station to station. It was a lovely meal. I had to keep dabbing my chin with my hankie to stop drooling.

Just as I got to the cashier, I put my hand in my pocket and found my wallet gone. I had no money.

There must be more embarrassing experiences than going back to the waitresses at the different stations, replacing pie, soup, cold plate and rolls with the repeated explanation, "Suddenly I'm not hungry any more," and going out with a falsetto laugh. There must be, but I've never suffered them.

That gave me a block that kept me out of the place for nigh on a year. This week I decided to conquer it. I did. I went to the same place, picked up the same meal, paid my cheque and gulped down my food so fast I've had indigestion ever since. Still, I haven't got a psychological block on that point any more.

Mind you, there are psychological blocks and psychological blocks—some of them quite useful.

Ordinarily, I like my job. It's the kind of work that pleases me. But every now and then, like everybody else, I want to walk up to the boss and tell him what he can do with the job. That's where one of my beneficial psychological blocks comes in. For some reason I never make my dramatic statement—just can't do it.

Probably that's bad for my psyche—must be, an inhibition like that. Still, it keeps me eating regularly.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

New Multiple Sclerosis Drug

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

A number of people have been asking me where they could get the Russian vaccine of Margoulis and Shouladze for multiple sclerosis. I just received a letter from Dr. Thomas L. Willman, medical director of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society of 270 Park Avenue, New York, 17, who tells me that they have had some studies made of the Russian vaccine and the results were not encouraging. Also, the Multiple Sclerosis Society has heard from research workers at Bothenborg in Sweden—men who have studied the medicine, and have not been well impressed with it. They thought it unlikely that the vaccine has any value. They said that some medical travellers who, when in Russia, visited Margoulis and Shouladze, were not impressed with what they had seen.

DRUG TO HELP BLEEDERS

I am happy to learn that one of America's fine drug houses is now producing for sale the fibrinogen fraction of human blood, for lack of which some persons with a hereditary defect in their blood-clotting mechanism, nearly bleed to death. Unfortunately, it is very expensive since the amount necessary for the treating of one patient is derived from blood taken during 25 bleedings, and the processing and testing of the material takes three months of ticklish work. But it is very good to know that this life-saving material is now available.

A RUG WITH TOYS ON IT

I often marvel when I see people come up with a new idea that no one had even thought of before. One of the problems that mothers with small children face when they go into a hospital to see someone or to be examined is that of parking one or more children. Usually hospital rules forbid their entering a sick room; the child can so easily bring in a bad virus of some kind.

I was just reading that in a New York hospital some bright person put down a rug with plenty of toys on it and got some good volunteers to oversee the activities of the children placed on that rug. The women distribute the toys; they wipe noses, they dry tears, and they stop fights. Now, with the children playing on the rug, one doesn't hear the constant admonitions of "Don't touch, don't run, don't shout." There are so many things to do on the rug—what with toys, paper and scissors for cut-outs and plastics for moulding—that the children are happy. The mothers are happy because they know the children are being well cared for.

One point about such a project is that the hospital wouldn't have to buy a lot of expensive new toys. Anything that looks like a toy is likely to be fascinating if it is new to a particular child.

FOOTBALL NOT FOR YOUNG BOYS

In the opinion of the American Academy of Pediatrics—a group of physicians who specialize in the care of children—teenage boys are not ideal subjects for football. Most persons do not know that our long bones in the legs and arms grow from two ends, called epiphyses. If one of these epiphyses should get knocked off in a football game, the bone is likely to stop growing, and that will mean a short arm or leg.

Many a boy is not built ruggedly enough to stand the severe blows he must take on the football field. Any surgeon of experience knows of boys who, in a football game, have had their spleen or a kidney torn in two. Many get their knees badly injured. Those boys who have inherited a tendency to fibrositis or arthritis are poor candidates for football teams because, with any bad blow, they are likely to be laid up for a while with painful muscles, tendons and joints.

All of this advice is probably of no value because most fathers haven't the heart to deny their sons the coveted right to play football.

Stephenson Named Chief of Sooke Volunteer Firemen

SOOKE—W. S. Stephenson was elected chief of Sooke Volunteer Fire Department at a recent meeting held in the fire hall. New assistant chief is Jubiel Wickheim, and captains are Wesley Carlow and Eric Phillips, Jr. President is L. Rumsby and secretary is Mr. Wickheim.

Mr. Stephenson said a new constitution has been adopted and that from now on elections will be held annually. Don Morrison, retiring chief, held that office for eight years with Bill Stephenson as assistant.

The department now has 24 firemen. Recently a pool table was purchased for their recreation room, made possible by donations from residents in appreciation of their services.

Mr. Stephenson says the department will sponsor a dance in the near future to augment its funds.

CUP SOCCER

MADRID (AP)—Real Madrid, last year's winner of the Europe Cup, defeated Olympique of Nice 3-0 today in their first quarter-final soccer match for this year's trophy.

FACES DRUG CHARGE

VANCOUVER—A 31-year-old guard, John Keverkamp, in the drug addicts' wing of Oakalla Prison Farm, has been charged with illegal possession of drugs.

Last Horse Trough Vanishes From City

Last of Victoria's horse-watering troughs, where small boys of years past delighted to splash about, has just been removed.

The sole remaining relic of the horse era was on the "island" at Oak Bay Junction. It was installed a generation ago, but has been dry as a wooden god the past 10 years.

Second-last horse trough to go the way of all horse troughs was one at the Roundabout, hoisted and dumped about 1936.

Only evidence of horses on city streets now is during the summer months operation of tally-hos.

'Alcohol-Sick Persons' Need Aid From National Drive, Says Baptist

A strong temperance movement should be initiated across Canada to help cure "alcohol-sick citizens," Dr. John A. Linton, Toronto, told a meeting at First Baptist Church Thursday.

General secretary of the Canadian Temperance Federation and a field secretary in Ontario, he charged that Canada has done nothing for work among alcoholics.

Other countries, such as Switzerland, India and Turkey, allot government grants for such projects," he said.

"The people of the Mohammedan world (where drinking is against the religion) feel very superior to us," he said.

They say drink is a part of our whole culture—our movies, literature, poetry, even our religion.

The former Baptist minister claimed Canada has been self-ing "a miserable phoney" of its culture to overseas countries.

He blamed Hollywood movies emphasizing drink, sex and a facade of wealth as "one of the worst influences."

Coin Designer Otto Hahn Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Emanuel Otto Hahn, 76, German-born Toronto sculptor who designed the Canadian 25 and 10-cent pieces, died Thursday.

Mr. Hahn was born in Reutlingen, Germany, but moved to Canada in his childhood and received his early training at the Central Ontario School of Art and Design.

MISSIONARY DIES

WILLIAMS LAKE — Father Thomas, 88, beloved pioneer missionary of the Cariboo, died at St. Joseph's Villa in Edmonton. He lived and worked among the people of this north country from the time he was first posted here in 1897.

Labor Victory in U.K. Stirs Election Demand

LONDON (Reuters) — A cabinet disturbed by Labor's by-election victory in London's North Lewisham district conferred urgently today on the causes of defeat.

The result was: Niall Macdermont, Labor—18,516.

Norman Farmer, Conservative—17,406. Miss Leslie Greene, Empire Loyalist—1,487.

This turned a previous Conservative majority of 3,236 votes in a straight fight against Labor into a Conservative defeat by 1,110 votes.

The standing in the Commons now is 340 Conservatives or allies in the 630-seat House with 277 Labor members, five Liberals, one Independent and seven vacancies.

Labor, jubilant over its first victory since the Conservatives returned to power in 1951, said the outcome is a demonstration of public anger over the government's plan to allow higher house rents throughout Britain.

Although the issue of Britain's armed intervention in Egypt started as a key topic, it was overshadowed by the domestic controversy as the campaign developed.

TORY HOPES SHATTERED

The verdict shattered Conservative hopes that the switch from the former Eden administration to the new government of Prime Minister Macmillan already has helped restore party prestige.

The government is facing seven more by-elections, and in six contests is defending seats. Labor said the drop of more than 7 per cent in the government's share of the total North Lewisham vote, if repeated throughout the country in a general election, would bring the Opposition to power with a majority of more than 150 seats.

Both the Labor Daily Herald and the right-wing Daily Express agree a general election should be called as a result of the Labor victory.

"North Lewisham has done what the nation wants to do," the Herald says. "The by-election, fought on national issues, proves that the country wants a general election to turn this government out."

"Macmillan has been a prime minister without a mandate," The Express says. "He has only one course. He should appeal to the electors with no further delay."

Trade Deputy Slated To Be Envoy to Japan

By VICTOR MACKIE
OTTAWA.—W. F. Bull, deputy minister of the department of trade and commerce is to be appointed as Canadian Ambassador to Japan, it was reported here Thursday.

Mitchell W. Sharp, at present associate deputy minister of trade and commerce, would succeed Mr. Bull as deputy minister.

The present Ambassador to Japan, Hon. T. C. Davis, is scheduled to retire this spring and return to Canada to take up residence in Victoria.

Another move in the diplomatic corps involves the appointment of Terence W. L. MacDermot to the post of high commissioner to Australia. Mr. MacDermot is scheduled to return to Ottawa this weekend from Greece where he has been ambassador. In Australia he will replace Arthur Irwin, who is going to Brazil.

United Church Approves Housing Plan

Victoria presbytery of the United Church Thursday approved plans for a low-rental housing project at Gorge and Harriett Roads.

Construction of small cottages for married couples will start "as soon as we begin to receive money," housing committee chairman Mrs. F. H. Parsons said. A lodge for single persons will be built later.

Funds will come through public donations, United Church grants and a provincial government grant.

The housing unit will be open to senior citizens of all faiths.

James Carey Refused New Trial, Police-Killer to Hang March 19

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today refused a new trial for James Carey, 26, of Vancouver and fixed March 19 as the date of his execution for the murder of a Vancouver policeman.

The court allowed an appeal by the attorney-general of British Columbia against granting Carey a new trial. It also set aside a judgment of the Court of Appeals for B.C. granting Carey a new trial on grounds that the trial judge's charge to the jury was incorrect in law.

Carey was convicted last April 27 of murder in the shooting of Constable Gordon Sinclair Dec. 7, 1955.

The hanging of Joseph accord. The two men can apply to the cabinet to have their death sentences commuted to life imprisonment. The cabinet can also take such action on its own.

Shirley Booth Hurt In Two-Car Collision
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Shirley Booth got a bruised shoulder Thursday in a two-car collision that also slightly injured the other driver. Miss Booth was driving to work at a film studio. Her car was demolished. The other car was driven by Paul Scheres, North Hollywood.

Lake Huron, "second largest of the Great Lakes, covers 23,000 square miles compared to 31,800 for Lake Superior.

Gordon also convicted of murder in the slaying, was postponed last month in Vancouver to March 19 from Feb. 12.

The two men can apply to the cabinet to have their death sentences commuted to life imprisonment. The cabinet can also take such action on its own.

COUGAR JOB IN GOOD HANDS

Standing between Edmonton Flyers and a victory over Victoria Cougars at Memorial Arena tonight will be the 10 busiest, and stickiest fingers in the Western Hockey League. Hoping his pinkies will look this big to the youthful Flyers tonight is Cougar goalie Marcel Pelletier, who leads league netminders with a total of 1,594 saves and a .915 shot-stopping percentage. (Photo by Irving Strickland.)

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

The moon didn't turn green this week. It didn't rain grape juice nor snow Gundy buttons. But an even more unexpected thing did happen. Tony Leswick missed a hockey game. When the Edmonton Flyers skidded on to the ice at Seattle Wednesday night, they must have felt slightly nude because the little hardrock, Leswick, wasn't there, looking around for thick skins which he could puncture with his barbed tongue. On Tuesday night, in Vancouver, a Canuck defenceman named Hugh Currie gained himself a measure of questionable immortality when he did what all the bone-crushers in the National Hockey League had been unable to do in 11 big-league seasons. Currie knocked Leswick out of a game. Tony was smeared freely about the end boards by Currie, was taken out of the game with a badly bruised knee and was forced to miss Edmonton's game at Seattle the following night. Tony made history by not playing. It was the first time in 11½ seasons of hockey that he ever missed a game because of an injury. During his National Hockey League career with New York Rangers, Detroit Red Wings and, latterly, Chicago Black Hawks, Leswick played 718 out of a possible 720 games. Those two games he missed were nights off, given to him at the end of the season to rest his over-worked bones for playoffs.

Often Aimed at—Never Hit

Tony never scaled more than 160 pounds when he was in the big-time and his cocky, needling temperament made him a target for all sorts of guided missiles. But Tony was never hit hard enough to incapacitate him. Burly defencemen, anxious to have his pelt, soon learned that creaming Leswick was like trying to swat a fly with a sledge hammer. It was reported in Vancouver that Currie felt so bad about snapping Tony's longevity record that he sought Leswick out after the game and apologized for the unintentional injury. Tony has had his night off and it's probable that he will be in action tonight against the Cougars. He is of the old school which dictates that one night off is sufficient for any injury short of a multiple fracture. Certainly, if Tony is fit, Flyer coach Bud Poile will want him out there. Bud and the Flyers had been doing right smartly against the Cougars up until the time the Victoria club met the Flyers in Edmonton a couple of weeks ago.

Wrong Question to Ask Bud

Prior to that game, an Edmonton reporter had asked Poile if he did not feel a certain twinge of brotherhood towards the Cougars as so many ex-Edmontonians were playing for the Victoria team. But Poile, in his usual polished and free-flowing speech, allowed as how the Cougars could up and fall down dead for all he cared. That was the night when the Cougars smote the Flyers, 8-7 in overtime, in a game that Bud must have trouble keeping pushed back in a dark hole in his memory. Bud was in such heavy anguish after the game that he threatened to start calling all Flyer practice sessions at 5.45 in the morning, since his club appeared to be doing its deepest sleeping between 8.30 and 10.30 on hockey nights. Tonight, Bud brings his flyboys back to a place where they haven't tasted defeat yet. The Cougars have a big spoonful ready. All they have to do is catch the Flyers with their mouths open.

They Sure Have Fun In Interior Hockey

TRAIL (CP)—Trail Smoke Eaters moved into a tie with Spokane Flyers for first place in the Western International Hockey League Thursday night when they turned back the Flyers 6-1 here.

More than 3,000 fans watched the clubs battle for three hours in a wild game that was studied with 88 minutes in penalties.

Spokane picked up 14 of the 26 penalties called with majors going to defencemen Larry Plante, centre Doug Toole and goalie John Sofak. Majors also went to Trailmen Harry Smith, Dick Warwick and Bill Warwick.

Plante and Smith battled toe to toe for more than a minute in the third period and later every player but goalie Seth Martin of Trail joined in a fight. Plante and Smith finished their battle on the ice as players and referees stood around and cheered.

Before play ended another battle started between Doug Toole and Dick Warwick. Players streamed from the benches and everyone swung their sticks at everyone else.

When the battle was over seven men were sitting in the penalty box—four from Trail and three from Spokane. Smokies built up a 3-0 first period lead and increased it to 4-0 in the second.

$5,000 PLASTER DIDN'T STICK

Ted's Fine, 'Lotta Ear-Oil'

By AUSTEN LAKE

BOSTON (AP)—Maybe you won't gasp "gee" or "gosh" about this. But the Red Sox didn't collect a copper of the phony "fine" they pretended to sock Ted Williams with last summer, after his several "sali-vated salutes" to Boston's fans and press.

The money plaster didn't stick! The Red Sox office just ignored the whole thing, and just as well.

My authority is Ted himself. During his fly-casting act in Boston last week, he told a friend that, after Joe Cronin made his announcement that he (Ted) had been fined $5,000 for "intolerable" behavior, the subject was never mentioned again. It just died by mutual, unspoken consent of both parties. "Lotta ear-oil," was Ted's expression.

That begs up the question of whether baseball fines, big or little, are legal. True, fines have been accepted custom, unchallenged since baseball was organized.

TED WILLIAMS ... wallet untouched

No legal test was ever made of a team's right to snatch back any part of a player's earnings while he continued to perform on the field, as Ted did. If such a system had been put to a court issue the "fine" custom would be put out of business.

Let's imagine that the Red Sox actually did fine Williams $5,000 and amputated the sum from his $100,000 salary. Meanwhile, he was obligated to play at risk of personal injury.

A well-known Boston lawyer who lectures on contract law at one of our universities says it would've been a clear violation of labor relations, subject to federal fine, possibly in excess of the one the Sox socked! Ted with.

Only legal way, he says, that the Sox could've grabbed Ted's dough was to suspend him from duty for a period commensurate with his money loss. Even then he could've appealed.

Jack Bionda to Direct Rocks' Minor Boxla Plan

Takes Job As Full-Time Kids' Coach

By DENNY BOYD
Victoria Shamrock officials Thursday night unveiled the details of a plan that was hailed today as "the greatest boost that minor lacrosse in Victoria has ever had."

Executive members of the Intercity Lacrosse team plan to install import player Jack Bionda as a full-time salaried minor lacrosse coach.

Bionda, who informed the Shamrocks this week that he will be returning as a player this season, will work in conjunction with Doug Fletcher, president of the Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association, and will be head coach for all leagues from junior down to the diaper division.

It will be a salaried, eight-hour a day job and he will be contracted to the Shamrocks and their sponsor, B.C. Cement Co.

Bionda's duties will be coaching youngsters in the diaper, midget, pee wee, bantam and juvenile divisions. He will set up lacrosse clinics in the city and surrounding municipalities, will visit various parks during the summer months, arrange schedules and referee games and will act as an overseer to individual team coaches.

Fletcher said today, "I am elated at the idea. This is the greatest boost that minor lacrosse in Victoria has ever had. I am sure the reaction from the youngsters will be tremendous."

Shamrock manager Ralph Baker said, "This is the first time that such a plan was ever carried out for any amateur sport in Victoria, the hiring of a full-time coach. As the top lacrosse player in Canada, we feel that Bionda is ideally suited to bring out the potentiality in the youngsters. The kids idolize him and he will bring many more youngsters into the game. It could be that in a few years we will be able to export lacrosse players to the east, rather than be forced to import them."

Shamrock coach Whitey Severson added, "This move is aimed at building lacrosse in the city by providing the best possible coaching. Jack will go anywhere there is room to swing a lacrosse stick, and I am sure interest in lacrosse will mushroom all over the lower Island from his clinics."

A similar plan met with great success in Peterborough, Ont., in recent years. Both Harry Whipper and Don Ashbee, former Peterborough stars now playing with Nanaimo, were retained by the city as full-time minor league coaches and built a powerful minor league system.

Typical parent reaction was that of Mrs. C. Southern, whose son, Murray, won a cup as the most improved player in the bantam division last year. Mrs. Southern said, "This is wonderful, just what the kids have needed. Lacrosse is a great game for combating juvenile delinquency but it has been pitiful to see the lack of help given to the kids in the past except by a small handful of parents and coaches. Jack Bionda is a hero to the kids and I'm sure he will be a successful coach."

In Twin Hoop Win

Victoria High School junior basketballers emerged triumphant Wednesday and Thursday as they swamped Esquimalt Junior Dockers, 41-19, on Wednesday and edged St. Louis College Bantams, 46-40, on Thursday.

Using a tight zone defence, the Vic High crew ran away in the third quarter in Thursday's exhibition match after suffering a 21-20 deficit at half-time. Wednesday's contest, a regular league game, compensated for an earlier five-point loss that Vic High had absorbed at the hands of the Dockers.

Hab-Land Wails As Heroes Whiff

By The Canadian Press

There is no joy in Montreal, the mighty Canadiens are striking out.

The extent of the Habits' recent slump was brought home to 13,702 Montreal fans Thursday night as they watched, sometimes in stunned silence, while Toronto Maple Leafs bottled up the National Hockey League's most feared attack and hung on for a 2-1 victory.

It was Toronto's first win in 10 starts and left the Canadiens with only one victory in their last 10 games.

In Detroit, the first-place Red Wings were going six points ahead of Montreal with a 3-2 win over New York Rangers on Gordie Howe's 33rd goal of the season. The loss and Leafs' win pushed Rangers back into fifth place, a point behind Toronto.

CHECK LIKE MAD

Leafs got their win in the most embarrassing fashion possible. They scored both their goals in the first period and then forechecked and backchecked the league's highest-scoring team almost to a standstill, allowing only Jean Beliveau's second-period goal.

Four youngsters sparked the Toronto win. Dick Duff, the second-year left-wing sensation, scored his 33rd goal of the season, rookie Ed Chadwick stopped 32 shots and rearguards Bobby Baun and Marc Reaume rocked the Habits along the blue line. Veteran Rudy Migay scored Leafs' second goal.

Beliveau's goal, his 27th of the season, was a 40-footer that whistled past Chadwick and kept the sparkling centre ahead of Howe and Ted Lindsay in the scoring race, but even he looked bad on several occasions and once stickhandled past the whole Leaf team, only to slide the puck across the goal mouth.

Montreal had won seven of 10 previous games with Toronto this season.

QUIET CONTEST

The Detroit match, before 13,515 fans, was a quiet, six-point affair that saw 1-1 and 2-2 ties at the end of the first and second periods.

Red Sullivan gave Rangers a 1-0 lead but Johnny Bucyk's eighth goal of the season tied it for Detroit in the first. Alex Delvecchio and Ron Murphy scored for Wings and Rangers in the second before Howe's third-period winner.

WILL RETIRE

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Infielder George Kell, who needs only 38 more major league hits to reach the 2,000 mark, said Thursday he plans to retire from baseball after this year.

Lions Want Joe; Offer Ted Duncan

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions are seeking the services of Joe Yamauchi, Japanese-Canadian fullback who played the last two seasons with Calgary Stampede.

Acting general manager Phil Webb of the Western Conference football club said Wednesday night the Lions will try to work a trade involving quarterback Ted Duncan of the Lions and Yamauchi, Duncan is going into law practice in Calgary.

Webb said he had heard that Yamauchi would like to become an undergrad in architecture at the University of British Columbia. The Lions would be "more than happy to have him."

Clippers, Pils Tangle for Coast Crown

NANAIMO (CP)—Nanaimo Clippers open their Intermediate Hockey playoffs here Saturday night against the Vancouver Pilseners. A four-game series will be played to decide the coast champion. The winners will travel to the interior for the Coy Cup semi-finals.

The Clippers, last year's B.C. intermediate champions, have gone through their regular season. They tied only one game—with the Pilseners midway through the season.

The second game will be played in Vancouver, the third in Nanaimo and the fourth in Vancouver. If each team wins two games the winner will be decided on total goals.

Dates of the second, third and fourth games are Feb. 23, March 2 and 9.

Hopes Higher Than Hoops

Optimism was the keynote as eight school teams from the Victoria area prepared today to battle for three places in the Vancouver Island high school basketball playoffs at Duncan, March 8-9.

Although Victoria High Totems ruled as slight favorites to collect top honors in the annual Lower Island High School basketball tournament, which opened at Victoria High School this afternoon, none of the teams was ready to concede victory to coach Porky Andrews' charges.

All eight teams will see action in two games today and finalists will be decided in games starting at 8.30. The tourney finishes Saturday night and the top three clubs will advance to the Island final.

Both the old and new gymnasiums will be in use at Vic High today with one game on each gym at 3.30, 4.30, 7.30 and 8.30.

Starting the action in the old gym was a clash between Mount Douglas, coached by Jack Lowther and Gerry Horne's Esquimalt Dockers.

Mount Douglas, which squeaked through to a narrow win in a previous meeting with the Dockers, depended on the fast-moving attack that also gave Lowther's crew wins over Oak Bay and Mount View.

Dockers, confident of gaining revenge for the two-point loss to Esquimalt, was expected to base their attack around centre Dave Shaw and guard Jim Whalen.

On the new floor at 3.30, Len Hawkins' Mount View Hornets, boasting the tallest player in the tourney in six-foot four-inch Brian Carver, and a high-scoring two some in Dave Black and Dave Emery, tackled North Saanich.

Oak Bay, which should give the Totems the toughest run for the top spot, swings into action against the accurate-shooting Belmont Braves on the old gym at 4.30.

Totems, who start on the other court at the same time, may have their hands full against St. Louis College. The college squad tripped Oak Bay by 16 points in an earlier outing and coach Brother Drayton feels the club could also upset the Totems.

Totems, with a starting string of six-footers and drilled in a fast-breaking attack by coach Porky Andrews, have played only one of the tourney entrants this season, also scoring a victory over Oak Bay.

Teams get back into action at 7.30, when losers of the Mount Douglas-Esquimalt game meet the defeated squad of the Mount View-North Saanich tussle in the old gym. Losing teams of the other two afternoon games, meet at the same time on the new court.

At 8.30, winners of afternoon games meet in the old gym while winners of the 7.30 tussles tangle on the new floor.

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

British Columbia's salmon got a good verbal going over during Thursday night's meeting of the Amalgamated Lower Island Sportsmen's Association.

Guest speaker Dr. Don Milne of the Nanaimo Biological Station of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada answered questions for almost three hours and while the answers provided a lot of useful and interesting information, they didn't paint a very bright picture for sports fishing.

Dr. Milne indicated the provincial salmon harvest may have to be watched with care in the future. Speaking of the total catch, he said we are "getting up toward the danger point."

Commercial catches last year were reasonably good and the coho harvest was the second highest since the record year of 1951. However, numbers of spring and coho salmon taken off the east coast of Vancouver Island and off the lower mainland, where the bulk of sports fishermen operate, were down 50 per cent.

"Spring and coho populations are a concern in many individual areas," said Dr. Milne, "but not over the B.C. total."

Cowichan Is One of Problem Streams

Unfortunately, some of the individual areas appear to be ones which greatly affect island sports fishermen. Just what the future holds for this area is hard to tell, but a great deal undoubtedly depends on conditions in spawning streams.

"Natural conditions," he said, "have more effect on salmon populations than fishing." And speaking of island spawning areas, he stated, "I believe all the streams have deteriorated over the years." One of the streams now posing a problem is the Cowichan River.

Although sports fishermen are estimated to have taken only about 10 per cent of the spring and coho catch last year, and have not yet been considered a major factor in conservation matters, it was reassuring to learn that biologists realize that sports fishing will play an increasingly important role in the salmon picture as they map their long-range plans.

"We know that each pound of salmon caught by sports fishermen has four times the value of a pound taken commercially," Dr. Milne summed it up.

Although grise fishing continues to hold up in most Lower Island waters, good-sized spring salmon have been hard to find during the past week.

Several of the grise anglers have picked up springs of four to six pounds, but the bigger specimens haven't been causing any excitement.

Things have been a bit better farther up the coast and big springs have been hitting with fair consistency between Northwest Bay and Union Bay. Best reports come from waters around Northwest Bay, where anglers have been bringing in salmon in the 18-20 pound class.

Action has cooled off at Oak Bay after the run of good fishing two weeks ago. However, Pete Coleman came in with a 17-pounder Sunday and Ted Parry had a losing tussle with a big one a couple of days back, so there is still some chance of connecting in that area.

Liveliest action has been with the grise at Saanich Inlet or off Crofton, with the latter spot holding the edge in angler success.

Limit catches have been common at Crofton with small spoons, used with a fair amount of weight, apparently producing the best results. George Gunniss and Jerry Cruickshank found most of the fish down deep off Crofton Wednesday, but came back with 13 grise and an eight-pound spring after four hours.

At Saanich Inlet, limit catches have not been as common but few boats have returned without at least a few grise. Best area appears to be between Willis Point and McKenzie Bay with the fish showing no particular preference for either lures, depth or a time for lunch.

Although the grise have been hitting in streaks, Jim Haslam has had no trouble tempting them with bucktail flies.

Fishing from Goldstream down to McKenzie Bay, Haslam shared a limit with D. Mickelson Saturday, took another full quota with Mrs. Haslam Sunday and went back out Monday for another limit catch with D. Bradford.

Tuesday, he was out for another limit catch with C. Carlson, but Wednesday Haslam stayed ashore to work on his boat.

Monster Arena New York Plan

NEW YORK (AP)—The world's largest sports arena, enclosed for year-around use and seating 150,000 persons, was proposed Thursday and drew immediate approval of Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

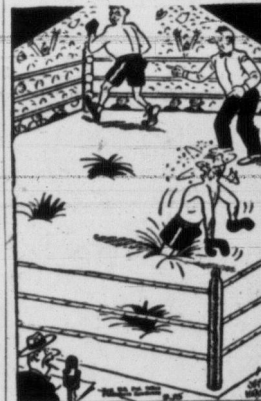

Location of the project, to be called Olympic City, was not disclosed but its sponsors said the aluminum-domed building covering approximately 15 city blocks was planned for a site in either the Bronx or Queens. Estimated cost of Olympic City, to be privately financed, is $57,425,000. Of this amount, $27,000,000 will be for enclosure of the all-weather arena.

Sponsors are Richard D. Gittlin, real estate broker, and Joseph Nelson, a cotton planter from Memphis, Tenn. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., is counsel for the group, the Greater New York Sports Arena, Inc.

Sponsors said the arena would be suitable for trotting races, track meets, baseball, football, ski jumping, ice shows, auto, motorcycle and bike races, hockey, concerts, political conventions and other attractions.

There would be parking space for 15,000 cars, and the roof of the arena would tower 250 feet—equivalent to a 25-story building.

Saanich Socred Urges Restraint In Increasing MLA's Indemnities

The B.C. government was urged to exercise restraint in raising cabinet ministers' salaries and MLA's sessional indemnities by John D. Tisdalle (S.C. Saanich) in an address to the legislature Thursday.

"I believe the government should exercise a good deal of restraint in this matter in view of the present tight money situation and the fact that labor contracts are coming up for renewal."

"Everywhere today there is a feeling of restraint in respect of salaries and wages and I believe this government should be guided by it."

At the same time, Mr. Tisdalle believed MLAs should be able to visit different parts of the province and acquaint themselves with local institutions and local conditions prevailing.

At present MLAs receive $3,600 a year in sessional indemnities. Cabinet ministers are paid $7,500 and the premier $9,000 a year.

DRAGGING FEET

CCF Opposition members applauded the Saanich Social Credit

when he said the B.C. Power Commission should look into every potential field of hydro-electric power.

"We have not declared ourselves in respect of the B.C. Power Commission, we are dragging our feet," Mr. Tisdalle said.

"I don't understand why we are not more emphatic about giving the Mica Creek development on the Columbia River to the Power Commission."

"I believe the Power Commission should look into every field of hydro-power development and see if they cannot save the people of this province a few dollars and give them the power they need so badly."

Mr. Tisdalle believed B.C. was selling too much of its resources to the United States and that Canadians should be given more opportunity to invest in their country.

Mr. Tisdalle commended the government on its go-ahead policies but said he wished the cabinet would be "more considerate" in keeping its MLAs informed as to what legislation it planned.

Patricia Bay Highway should be widened to a four-lane route from Victoria to Beaver Lake, Mr. Tisdalle said.

PHONEY BOMB SCARE CLEARS OTTAWA SCHOOL

OTTAWA (CP) — A public school was emptied Thursday by the fourth phoney bomb scare in the capital since Jan. 13. Pupils were let out of Gleshan Public School on Arlington Street in south-central Ottawa 15 minutes before normal school closing time after an anonymous caller phoned police to say a bomb would explode in the building.

Eventually the highway should contain four lanes for its entire length, he added.

He called the present road a "bottleneck", often hopelessly obstructed by funeral processions. He also urged co-operation of the highways department with the Saanich plan for

Tisdalle Urges Jail, Lashings To Curb Drunken Drivers in B.C.

Jail sentences or lashings might be a possible solution to the problem of curbing drunken drivers, John D. Tisdalle (S.C. Saanich) told the legislature Thursday.

"A fine of $250 is of little use after a drunken driver has caused an accident and possibly a death," Mr. Tisdalle said.

He believed young people might be saved from developing into drunken drivers if they receive psychiatric treatment earlier in life.

"The man who drives dangerously must be unbalanced mentally, and this may be due to maladjustments in early life which could be remedied with the proper treatment."

CP AIRLINES GRANTED MONTREAL-LISBON RUN

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Pacific Airlines has been given government permission to operate a scheduled airline service between Montreal and Lisbon and to extend this service to Madrid when necessary arrangements can be made, Transport Minister Marler announced today.

Farmers Hit, House Told By Shelford

A Burns Lake area cattle rancher told the legislature Thursday that B.C. agriculture is "in its worst way since the early 30's."

Cyril Shelford, government member for Omineca, said falling prices to the producer were the main reason.

The farmer is also faced by rising costs of labor, machinery, parts, gas and freight.

HITS OTTAWA

Mr. Shelford accused the federal government of giving farmers a "bad time."

He criticized the Board of Transport Commissioners for granting a freight rate increase when the railroads were making big profits.

Railway freight rates now are so high "you can ship feed from China cheaper than you can from Alberta."

The provincial and federal governments should get together and set up an inquiry into the farm problem, Mr. Shelford said.

"The spread between the producer and the consumer is far too much," he said.

Mr. Shelford illustrated his point by outlining the price he received for a carload of beef and the costs involved in shipping it to Vancouver.

As an afterthought, he admitted he didn't put "all" his expenses down for income tax records.

"I dare any farmer to put all expenses down and still come out on top," he told the legislature.

Mr. Shelford also called for a special fall session of the legislature to study the findings of the Sloan royal commission on forestry.

Russ Hockey Squad Defeats Japanese
LONDON (AP) — The Russian sports club Lokomotiv defeated the Japanese national hockey team 4-3 Thursday, the Moscow radio announced.

The game, played in Moscow, was a warm-up to the world hockey championships beginning Feb. 24.

By any standard... CANADA'S MOST MODERN SIX

CUSTOM 300 FORDOR SEDAN

POWER: Ford's road-proved Mileage Maker Six—the most modern Six in the industry—delivers 144-Hp. of brilliant performance. It's the most powerful Six in its field. Like every Ford engine, the Mileage Maker takes nothin' from nobody!

RESPONSIVENESS: A touch on the gas pedal and you're away in a flash with the Mileage Maker Six. Compression ratio of 8.6-to-1 and new low-silhouette carburetor contribute to the Mileage Maker's flashing getaway, eager responsiveness!

SMOOTHNESS: The Mileage Maker Six is quality-engineered right down to the finest detail, to give you the smoothest, quietest performance of any Six on the Canadian road!

ECONOMY: Here's a powerplant with a midget's appetite for gas! Because the Mileage Maker Six is the only true short-stroke engine in its class, it squeezes more miles out of every gallon of regular gas, delivers more punch per piston-stroke than any competitive Six!

DURABILITY: The Mileage Maker's short-stroke design saves engine wear by reducing the amount of piston travel for every mile of road travel... so you get longer wear—and that means a better return on your investment when you come to trade!

RELIABILITY: The same kind of engineering advancements that have made Ford V-8 the world's best-seller give the Mileage Maker Six its outstanding reputation for consistently dependable performance! But try it yourself. Take a drive in the new kind of Ford with a Mileage Maker Six—at your Ford-Monarch Dealer's right now!

SIX OR V-8 — THE GOING IS GREAT!

Pick your own brand of ginger in the new kind of Ford! You can have the world's best-selling V-8 in any of Ford's 18 styled-for-tomorrow models. Or you can choose the Mileage Maker Six in any Custom or Custom 300 model, in the Ranch Wagon, the Del Rio Ranch Wagon or the Six-Passenger Country Sedan.

DEBATE Questions, Answers in House Debate

these people out in Canada, what's wrong with that?"

"And if there is any conflict of interest he will resign one or the other or both. He's that kind of man."

Mr. Gunderson is not financial advisor to the government any more, the premier said, and when he was just in the field of federal-provincial relations.

Turning to Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren, backer of the billion-dollar plan, the premier said critics were "trying to smear a great industrialist."

The opposition was attacking personalities, "while we fight our elections on principles—and the people have given their answer," the premier declared.

The premier also turned his fire on CCF member Dowding.

In the course of his speech, Mr. Dowding said the plan had been "conceived at a cocktail party" attended in London a few years ago by E.C. Agent-General W. A. McAdam and a Wenner-Gren director.

"I didn't take kindly to the snide remark made about the agent-general," the premier said. "Mr. McAdam is a man who has served this province well."

The agent-general "took the responsibility of introducing these people to us."

"When you criticize these people you are criticizing the judgment of Mr. McAdam."

CNR Interested in Buying PGE

The premier said the announcement of the scheme had caused great interest in the PGE.

"Today common shares which you couldn't get a dollar for a few years ago now are worth millions of dollars."

The premier said CNR president Donald Gordon had told him during conferences last week he knew the PGE wasn't for sale.

"But if you ever come to the time you want to sell," the premier quoted Mr. Gordon as saying, "let me know as president of the CNR. Just give us a chance to buy it."

Mr. Bennett said that "never has there been such action" as that taken so rapidly by the Wenner-Gren interests.

"And we haven't given them a single thing."

The reser on land and timber described in the memorandum of intention "was not made in their name, but in the name of the people of B.C."

"People ask why they can't go in. Well, I ask what's been holding them back for the last 1,000 years."

"If Consolidated Mining and Smelting or any other firm thought great riches were there why didn't they go in before?"

The premier criticized opposition members for their lack of vision.

"This government has courage. That's perhaps why it has luck."

His voice softening, the premier said:

"I don't blame the Opposition, the newspapers, and the public for being suspicious. They're used to these land deals. They want to know 'is it really true'."

"I can tell them it really is true."

BINDING

Mr. Strachan charged that the memorandum of intention is "to all intents a binding agreement to grant a forest management licence—despite an agreement not to issue any more until after the Sloan Report is received."

"This is an insult to the Chief Justice of British Columbia," he said.

The CCF is the only party in B.C. "that has clean hands when it comes to resources," Mr. Strachan said.

"The CCF was right about Alcan and the premier was wrong there and on the Kaiser deal."

"Who's to say he's not wrong again?"

Mr. Strachan charged that the premier resented the very existence of the Opposition in the House.

"But no matter how often the premier calls us carping critics, we will continue to carry out our duties as members of Her Majesty's loyal Opposition," the CCF leader said.

The premier had failed to give the answers to the people, he said.

Mr. Strachan claimed that under the memorandum of intention the government would get the results of only the water resources survey from the Wenner-Gren interests.

Mr. Williston retorted that the government would get the information from all the surveys.

COMPANY TOURS

Mr. Strachan said it was inherent in an agreement of this type that there will be company tours.

"The premier didn't say how he could prevent company tours and under what authority."

The premier's eagerness to accept the Wenner-Gren proposal "indicates he thinks it's too big for them and they want to get it off their hands," he said.

Mr. Gregory said the only consideration of any importance was whether or not the scheme was good for British Columbia.

"If it is a good one, it deserves support from all sides even though the credit would go to the government."

Mr. Gregory said the memorandum of intention implied that Wenner-Gren, in exchange for an undertaking to spend at least $5,000,000 in developing the scheme, had had a reserve placed for his benefit on almost 40,000 square miles of B.C.'s northland, containing untold natural wealth.

"The flaw in the arrangement, from B.C.'s viewpoint, was that as long as Wenner-Gren has a reserve for his company's benefit, no one else will have an adequate opportunity, if any opportunity at all, to explore and ascertain the true value of the natural resources in the area under reserve."

"The result will inevitably be that, when competitive tenders are called, the only person who will be in possession of evidence as to the true value of these resources will be Wenner-Gren himself."

"Under these circumstances, it is self-evident that the prices offered will be no more than technically competitive."

Mr. Gregory said he was "not happy" concerning Einar Gunderson's association with the Wenner-Gren Development Company.

COUNSEL SOUGHT

"It seems he just happens to have been around when a witness was required for this memorandum of intention. And I think the only reasonable conclusion that can be drawn is that his counsel was sought concerning the whole scheme."

Mr. Gregory said it appeared that Mr. Gunderson had not disclosed interest in the Wenner-Gren organization either to the premier or the lands and forests minister.

"And now Mr. Gunderson is caught with his directorship showing."

"I don't like Mr. Gunderson's associations with the Wenner-Gren company," Mr. Gregory continued.

"I don't like Wenner-Gren or what he stands for, and I have the most serious doubts as to whether this project is truly in the best interests of British Columbia."

Mr. Williston stated that no one in the area at the present time had any claim, any stake or any interest in the resources available.

"At the moment we do not know what future tenure and organization of timber management will take place. But we intend that it shall be controlled by the statutes and regulations of the province."

Mr. Williston said the present inventory of forestry resources in the area was based on aerial photography since no one had ever explored it on the ground.

FIRE DAMAGE

"Experts who flew over the area told us much of the timber had been damaged by fire. For that reason we need transportation so that fire-fighters can go in there and protect our resources."

Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East) said British Columbia was becoming "a haven" for big corporations who were trying to control its resources "forever and a day."

"We of the CCF are in favor of industrial development, but we are skeptical about the future of this plan under an organization of this kind. We don't want any more industrial kingdoms in this province."

Rising to support the government, W. J. Asselstine (SC-Atlin) predicted the project would advance British Columbia's development by at least 50 years.

He recalled that B.C.'s hemlock was rapidly becoming a waste product when the Alaska Pine Company came into B.C. and introduced a method of curing and marketing the hemlock.

"Many would have stopped that company from coming into this province, just as they are trying to keep out the Wenner-Gren interests today," Mr. Asselstine declared.

He said he was satisfied with the premier's assurance there would be no company towns in the area.

"His word is good enough for me—he has never broken it yet," the Atlin member said.

John Squire (CCF-Alberni) called the premier's speech a "tirade" and accused him of attempting to intimidate opposition members from speaking out by accusations of "smear."

"This is a nice deal," Mr. Squire said. "In fact it's so good they don't intend to keep it."

The government should not attempt to industrialize the province "overnight," he said.

New Light System Asked at Entrances To Ladysmith

LADYSMITH—Lights at both entrances to Ladysmith, and a turning lane at the south entrance, will be recommended to the provincial highways department by the Chamber of Commerce as essential safety measures.

Chamber members agreed at a meeting this week that lights are needed at both the north and south entrances from the highway because both are difficult to see against the lights of cars approaching on the highway.

At the junction of First Avenue and the highway north of the city there now is a small island and three separate traffic lanes joining the highway. Even motorists who are familiar with the pattern of the junction find it confusing at night, members said.

CCF leader Robert Strachan listed a number of questions during Thursday night's debate which he wanted the government to answer about the Wenner-Gren agreement.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray-Williston replied to some of the questions in the course of his rebuttal later. Questions and paraphrases of Mr. Williston's answers follow:

QUESTION: Who made the first approach and who asked whom who could have northern British Columbia?

ANSWER: The scheme originated in England when a young engineer-architect saw the possibilities of developing the northern B.C. area. He consulted with B.C. agent-general in London, W. A. McAdam, and subsequently worked out a plan without the assistance of any capital or financial interests. Later Mr. McAdam and his advisors looked around for some group that might be interested in the project outlined, and this came to the attention of Bernard Gore, London representative of the Wenner-Gren interests.

QUESTION: Is this agreement binding on both parties and do both parties put the same interpretation on it?

ANSWER: It is binding on both parties, but all plans of development suggested by the company must be satisfactory to the B.C. government before any action whatsoever proceeds.

QUESTION: Has the federal government been approached to discuss these proposals?

ANSWER: Not directly, but we have comments from two ministers of the Crown saying that, if the interests of B.C. and its resources are properly safeguarded, it will be a wonderful development for this province and all of Canada.

"It can't be done and it shouldn't be tried."

"It's like building a home—the quicker you do it the more it costs."

UNDER UMBRELLA

Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) charged the Wenner-Gren interests were going into the area "under an umbrella."

"Other companies in B.C. cannot get the same protection and reserves," he said.

"You can read any amount of interpretations into this agreement," Mr. Nimsick said.

"These agreements live out premiers and governments," he warned, "and you have to abide by them for all time to come."

Mr. Gargrave said the government "had been taken in before," and mentioned the Kaiser dam deal of a few years ago.

BRIBERY CHARGES

"And there have been charges of bribery in the department of lands and forests that have never been cleared up to the satisfaction of the people."

The government was giving Wenner-Gren—"a man you don't even know"—two years in the area while everybody else is kept out.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said there has been no development whatsoever in the area to date.

"Not a single mineral operation is recorded there," he said. "To have the area developed, it is first necessary to have transportation. The government was limited in its ability to find capital for such a large undertaking, Mr. Kiernan said."

"The project is neither more nor less than what is contained in the letter of intent," he said.

VALUABLE DEBATE

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who brought the sitting to an end at midnight, said it had been a "historic debate and a valuable one for the province."

He said the government had concluded the preliminary agreement was a good one "only after very careful consideration."

"Until concrete plans are put forward not one inch of this province will be alienated to anyone," Mr. Bonner said. "We have preserved freedom for the province to examine every proposal."

With that the House moved to a vote on Mr. Dowding's amendment and it was defeated 37-11.

The House was adjourned at two minutes past midnight.

QUESTION: Why was the announcement made at this time?

ANSWER: The project was disclosed at the first opportunity when a policy address could be given by a government member.

QUESTION: Is it advisable to handle our resources in this way?

ANSWER: Four years from now (at the next election) the things we are talking about tonight will be accomplished fact and the people will be able to judge whether we are right or wrong. We are not ashamed to stand and be judged on the record of the job we intend to do.

QUESTION: What does the province receive in return for its natural resources?

ANSWER: It expects a railroad will be provided enabling all enterprisers to go up there and establish themselves in the area. We shall get taxes from the railroad, from the industries that are established and the resources that will be developed. We expect to provide jobs not only for the people of B.C. but for Canadians everywhere.

Four other questions asked by Mr. Strachan were not answered specifically by Mr. Williston in his address. They were:

1. What promises verbal or otherwise were made to the principals regarding prior claim on the resources?
2. What effect will this agreement have on companies already established in British Columbia?
3. What is the extent of the natural resources involved?
4. What does the agreement do to the province?

'THERE IS NO JUSTICE'

Eden Criticizes UN On Mid-East Action

LONDON (UP)—Former prime minister Sir Anthony Eden denounced the United Nations Thursday night for permitting "bullies and braggarts to get their way" in the Middle East dispute while it condemns Israel.

In a radio message Eden said "there is no justice" in UN suggestions that sanctions be applied against Israel for failing to withdraw from Egyptian territory.

"If peace is to endure it must be related to justice," Eden said. "Therefore it is dangerous when the United Nations treats obedient and small countries with harshness and allow bullies and braggarts to get their way."

"There is no case whatever for sanctions against Israel when she asks for guarantees of free passage of the Gulf of Aqaba," Eden added.

"For years Egypt has denied Israel free passage through the (Suez) Canal, defying repeated UN resolutions. Why then should not the sanctions be against Egypt?"

"Is Russia to be invited to join in imposing sanctions despite her brutality in Hungary?" he asked.

"There is no justice in all this. The nation which crosses the frontier is not always the aggressor."

Power Body

Answers Federal Critic

B.C. Power Commission officials today answered a statement reported in The Times as being made by David Hurn, federal fisheries biologist, in speaking to the Alberni District Fish and Game Association.

Mr. Hurn stated that: "We must not have a repetition of the Elsie Lake situation, when fishing interests were not considered in the granting of a water licence."

"This statement is completely contrary to the pattern of co-operation which has been established," said a spokesman of the commission. "Close co-operation has been maintained with senior officials of both the federal and provincial fisheries departments."

8% Pay Boost

Rejected In Esquimalt

Esquimalt's 15 municipal inside workers, dissatisfied with an offer of salary increases up to 8 per cent, will continue negotiations with a council committee Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The workers have asked a 10 per cent increase.

No date has been set for further negotiations with 34 outside workers, who have rejected an offer of a 5 per cent across-the-board wage increase.

The offer is equivalent to eight cents an hour on the basic wage of $1.60 an hour. Coun. W. E. A. Barclay, head of the council committee, said.

The outside staff has asked for a 25-cent-an-hour increase.

Mayor Returning

To City-March 5

Mayor Percy Scurrah will go direct to Arnprior, Ontario, for a civil defence course for mayors late this month following a California holiday.

Acting-mayor Arthur Dowell said this morning he will preside at the next regular meeting of council on February 28 as Mayor Scurrah is not expected back in the city until March 5, on completion of the five-day CD course.

Driver Acquitted In Nanaimo Death

NANAIMO (CP)—An Assize Court jury returned a verdict Thursday of not guilty in the trial of Irvin Emil Waite, New Westminster, charged with criminal negligence.
Waite had been charged in connection with the highway death of James Jorgenson last Nov. 2. His car is alleged to have hit an abutment near the Nile Creek Bridge, 40 miles north of here. No other car was involved.
There were three other passengers in the car, all travelling from work at Duncan Bay. Waite was driving.

30 Inches of Snow At Copper Canyon Logging Camp

CHEMAMOUS—Crews who started work this week ploughing out logging roads in the area of Copper Canyon camp have reported an average of 30 inches of snow, with about two feet near camp.
Four sets of fallers started work Wednesday and logging operations at MacMillan & Bloedel's Copper Canyon division will start up on Monday. This will put about 70 loggers back to work. The number will increase as good weather continues.
Log dump repairs have been completed and the log pond, being dredged.

Price Elected By Rotarians At Chemainus

CHEMAMOUS—George Price was elected president of Chemainus Rotary Club at the annual election of officers.
Other officers are: Vice-president, Jack Jameson; secretary, Frank Dyer; treasurer, Arthur Bird; directors, Robert Bennie, Thomas Beggs and James Gordon. Robert Hossack was appointed sergeant-at-arms.

$7,000 Waterworks Program Approved For Ladysmith

LADYSMITH—A waterworks improvement program requiring pipe and fittings to the value of approximately $7,000 will be undertaken by the city waterworks department this year.
The program was recommended by the waterworks committee under the chairmanship of Ald. Allan Carey, and was approved by the council at its regular meeting Wednesday night.

Work done this year will be part of a long term program to replace much of the city's distribution system with new and larger pipe. It is the council's belief, supported by the opinion of A. R. Colby, consulting engineer, that lack of water pressure in some parts of the city results not from any shortage of water, but from lack of sufficient capacity in the distribution system.
Small diameter pipes, laid at a time when they were only a few houses to be served, are now serving many houses and they will not carry enough water to maintain pressure for them all.

8.5 Million Feet Of Lumber Shipped

CHEMAMOUS—A total of 8,514,000 board feet of lumber was loaded aboard 12 deep-sea ships that cleared the ports of Chemainus and Crofton last month. Lumber shipments in firm were: U.S.A., 2,447,000; Australia, 2,063,000; South Africa, 2,134,000; United Kingdom, 1,552,000; Puerto Rico, 318,000.
Other shipments included 6,535 tons of pulp chips and 19 tons of clams to American markets.

Socreds at Ottawa Defend Wenner-Gren Deal for B.C.

Times Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA — Suggestions in the Commons Thursday that the Social Credit administration of B.C. was entering into arrangements for "handing over" exclusive first rights to minerals, timber and water power resources to the Wenner-Gren Development Company, were vigorously denied by Social Credit members of parliament.

E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) raised the matter on the floor of the Commons. He asked Prime Minister L. S. St. Laurent whether he or any member of the government had any information concerning the deal between the British Columbia government and the Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Company.

Mr. St. Laurent said all he knew about the deal was what he had read in the newspapers: and to his knowledge the matter had not been brought to the attention of any of his colleagues, except through the newspapers.

QUERIES MARLER

Mr. Fulton directed another question to the cabinet, this time to Hon. George Marler, minister of transport. The B.C. member asked whether the construction of the proposed line of railway, if proceeded with, would require approval under the Railway Act?

Mr. Marler said he had not seen the press reports. He was therefore unable to comment on the question. Mr. Fulton suggested the minister take the question as notice and bring forward an answer later.

Mr. Marler said he saw no reason why purely speculative reports should occupy the time of his officials.

Mr. Fulton said this was not a speculative report. It was based on facts.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-MacLeod) objected to what he described as a "serious implication" left by Mr. Fulton in his questions.

Mr. Hansell on a question of privilege, suggested that Mr. Fulton had cast some reflection upon the British Columbia provincial government.

"And upon members of this House," interjected C. E. Johnston (SC-Bow River).

Mr. Fulton had left the impression, said Mr. Hansell, that the proposal to build the railway in British Columbia was on the basis of "giving away some of the natural resources" of that province.

"That implication is entirely untrue. I was in touch with the premier of British Columbia by telephone . . . he said, and then he was interrupted by Mr. Speaker Rene Beaudoin.

Mr. Speaker said the matter raised by the member for Mac-

Leod was not a proper question of privilege.

The member for Kamloops, he said, had put a question based on a newspaper report. If there was to be a correction of the newspaper report, Mr. Speaker suggested that it should be done by the premier of British Columbia in his own Legislature.

Colin Cameron (CCF-Nanaimo) addressed a question to Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of trade and commerce. He asked:

"Since it is reported that the plans of this group headed by this notorious international financier include the diversion of waters of an international river would the minister care to comment on the possible position of the federal government in regard to this scheme?"

HOWE SILENT

Mr. Howe replied, I am in the same position as the Prime Minister. I have read the newspaper reports.

"I have also met Mr. Wenner-Gren and know something about his activities in the past. But I know nothing about the transaction referred to in the House other than what I have read in the newspaper, and that is not sufficient to draw any comment from me at this time."

F. G. Hahn (SC-New Westminster) addressed a question to the Prime Minister. He asked: "Is he aware that the statement in respect of this matter is that the company has asked for no special concessions other than protection covering their proposed right-of-way as was indicated by the minister of trade and commerce for the Province of British Columbia?"

Mr. St. Laurent replied, "I know nothing whatsoever about this project beyond what I have read in the newspapers."

Six Boys Held After Brutal Beating Of Watchman at Brannan School

The beating of a 59-year-old General Hospital for treatment night watchman Sunday by inmates of concussion and spine injuries, according to hospital records, near Nanaimo, is under "intensive investigation," a spokesman for the provincial health and welfare department said today.

George Bamford, victim of the attack, drove his car two miles to his home after the attack, and the next day drove to town with his wife to see a doctor.

Following medical examination he was sent to Nanaimo until Thursday, when word of the attack began to spread through the up-island city.

Little has been revealed of the occurrence beyond confirmation of rowdiness at the school Sunday night, and that the RCMP have an investigation under way.

A full report had been sent to the welfare department in Victoria, according to F. G. Hassard, school superintendent.

Mr. Bamford lives in Pleasant Valley, within two and one-half miles of the school, and according to his wife "He seemed in a kind of daze and didn't know what had happened."

"He had marks on his forehead and wrists," Mrs. Bamford said today. "He's a strong guy and didn't want to give in, but after a sleepless night he drove to Nanaimo to see a doctor. The doctor sent him to the hospital."

Formerly in the truck transport business in Nanaimo, Mr. Bamford has been employed at the school for about nine months.

RADIO STILL TV TOPPER IN AUDIENCE

Radio still has the widest listening audience compared with television, Herbert Backman, general manager of station KEX, Portland, Ore., told the B.C. Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters in convention here today.

In the United States in 1956, there were 8,300,000 radio sets sold, 1,500,000 more than the previous year.

As a result of TV, radio has concentrated on improved radio shows, many with a local and personal flavor.

The 18 radio station representatives present endorsed a "library program tape" which will be heard in free time over most stations.

The tape was prepared by the B.C. Library Commission.

FIRE HALL VOTE DELAY 'DEFINITE'

Site Choice, Cost Stumbling Blocks

A proposed $325,000 fire hall money by-law will be delayed in its presentation to Victoria property-holders, acting-mayor Arthur Dowell said today.

The decision brought announcement from chairman of Greater Victoria School Board W. H. Golby the board will again attempt to set polling hours for the March 9 school by-law from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

It was proposed originally that Victorians would vote on both questions on the same date. The city broke custom and agreed to a Saturday vote (elections are regularly held on Thursdays in Victoria) and the school board agreed to 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. polling hours, which are required for city voting by statute.

AT OLD BANK

Polling place in Victoria will be the recently vacated Royal Bank building on Douglas at Cormorant. Usual 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. hours and usual polling centres will apply in surrounding municipalities.

Decision to abandon the idea of a March 9 vote on a new city fire hall was reached Thursday night.

Ald. Austin I. Curtis, chairman of the city fire wardens committee has so far been unable to make a firm recommendation for site. Precise estimates of cost have also not been completed.

Edgelow Recommendation Follows SPCA Discussion

Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow will recommend against a zoo for the Thetis Lake area, he told the Times today following a conference with SPCA officials.

Ald. Edgelow is acting as a one-man committee, appointed by Victoria city council to investigate possibility of moving a collection of animals from Port Alberni and starting a zoo here.

At his invitation, Tom Hughes of Vancouver, executive director of the British Columbia SPCA, and W. A. Leach, president of the Victoria Branch, discussed the matter with him today.

"Their advice was to drop the whole matter unless a fund of at least five million dollars was available to make a wildlife park," Ald. Edgelow said.

Mr. Hughes pointed out that zoos of the type we were considering are things of the past. "From the time I was asked by council to look into the matter, I have worked closely with the SPCA. They are the experts on anything to do with animals."

"I intend to follow the advice of Mr. Hughes and Mr. Leach, and at the next council meeting, will recommend Victoria turn down the offer of Paul Hertel to move his zoo to this area."

Following the meeting with Ald. Edgelow, Mr. Hughes said "packing case zoos" are a thing of the past.

"The public doesn't like them. And certainly the animals don't like them," he said.

"If you started on a small scale, you would not attract the public. You would only arouse a demand for bigger facilities."

NATURAL SURROUNDINGS

"The modern trend is away from zoos, as we used to know them, and toward wildlife parks, where animals can roam in something approaching their natural habitat."

"To create a wildlife park which would be a tourist attraction, and an attraction for your own citizens, would require at least five million dollars."

"This is the amount sought by the Vancouver Parks Board to develop such an attraction in the Central Park area," he said.

Mr. Hughes added that the upkeep of such a park would be expensive. "There are only a few men on this continent qualified to run such an operation," he said. "And they are in a position to demand high salaries."

He pointed out that a zoo which was not adequately equipped was not only unfair to the animals, but actually brought about their deaths through inattention. "A specimen brought in at great cost can die overnight through a window being left open," he said.

Ald. Edgelow was appointed to investigate the matter early this year, and made a personal visit to the Alberni zoo before today's final conference with the SPCA.

Man Admits Retaining Stolen Goods

Douglas P. Kay, New England Hotel, pleaded guilty in city police court today to being in possession of stolen articles worth $250, taken in a break-in Tuesday night of Seventh Day Adventist Church, Pandora and Vancouver.

Taken from a utility room were a floor polisher, and two vacuum cleaners and from the church welfare room a metal cash box containing $65-$70. Kay was charged with having the polisher and vacuum, knowing them to be stolen. He was remanded to Monday for sentence.

Chimney Fire Brings $25 Fine

Saanich resident W. M. Hiron, 981 Annie, was fined $25 in Saanich court Thursday for permitting his chimney to take fire.

Fire chief Joseph Law said the chimney was so dirty it took firemen two hours to extinguish a blaze which started in the chimney.

School Discussion Planned by PTA

Central Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association will conduct a public meeting at the school auditorium Tuesday for panel discussion on the topic, "Why Our Schools Are Cheaper Today."

Moderator is Victoria alderman Hugh Ramsay and speakers are optometrist Ronald F. Jeune, school trustee Richard H. Reeve, personnel director A. C. Newton Smith and architect John H. Wade.

There was this husband, see. And his wife asked him to go out and buy a loaf of bread, see.

So two hours later, he hadn't come back. But the wife didn't worry, see.

She figured it was a long loaf he was looking for.

So My Favorite Wife received an urgent message to telephone a certain young lady whom we both know very well.

So MFW took considerable trouble and 10 cents and telephoned the young lady.

So the young lady said, the reason she had left an urgent message for MFW, she had a wonderful funny story for Monte's column.

So MFW asked what the wonderful story was, and the young lady laughed and laughed and said she was sure Monte would be laughing, too, and so would all his constituents.

So MFW started laughing, too, and asked again what the wonderful story was, and the young lady laughed some more and said it was too bad, she had forgotten it, but she was sure Monte would be laughing and so would his constituents if they hadn't forgotten the story.

And then there was the nine-year-old girl who lived in a household with parents and grandma and aunts and several dogs.

And one night she overheard the parents and grandma saying that one of the aunts was going to be married.

And the little girl, later on, took grandma to one side and said:

"Is it true Auntie is going to be married?"

And grandma said, "Yes auntie is going to be married."

"Then Auntie is going to have a baby?" the little girl stated, rather than asked.

"Well, no, I don't think so," said grandma.

"Why not?" asked the little girl. "Has she been spaded?"

... no wonder I often think of trying to get into some other line of work.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Mrs. Elmer Hodgson, 1358 Hillside, gave her husband a healthy baby boy on Valentine's Day Thursday—for the second time.

The baby was born at Royal Jubilee Hospital at 11 p.m. His brother Steven was a Valentine present on the same day two years ago.

Dale Carnegie Club International will meet Monday at 7.45 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce board room in the Black Ball Terminal building.

All main roads on Vancouver Island were reported in fair condition today, with a few icy patches between Parksville and Alberni. Construction is still under way on the northern slope of the Malahat.

The ex-servicemen's branch of the Canadian Legion holds a rummage sale Saturday in the city market building, starting at 7.30 a.m.

All types of clothing and many other articles will be sold. Proceeds go towards legion work.

Persons wishing to donate merchandise can have it picked up by telephoning 9-2041 during the day, or 2-0567 after 5.30 p.m.

Persons who broke into coffee and barber shops at Veteran Stages, 728 Herald, about 12.50 a.m. today, stole several packages of cigarettes and caused damage to furnishings. Entry was made by smashing a window in a rear door and releasing the lock.

Wayne Robertson of Victoria was sentenced in city court today to three months in jail on conviction for taking an auto without the owner's consent earlier in the week.

"It's too bad to see a young fellow like you in this continual round of trouble," Magistrate H. C. Hall said, in passing sentence.

Robertson was picked up by Chemainus RCMP Wednesday night driving a car stolen from in front of a View Street paint shop.

A "brush-up" course for district swim instructors or beach supervisors will be started Feb. 20 by Victoria city and district branch, Canadian Red Cross. Any persons interested in taking the course should contact Mrs. Shirley Brimblecombe, chairman of the Red Cross Water Safety Committee at 3-8373.

A special Victoria council committee on municipal sharing of costs involved in a new $1,400,000 Royal Jubilee wing will meet with the hospital board Tuesday at 9 a.m.

Acting-mayor Arthur Dowell, Ald. E. D. McEwen and city manager C. C. Wyatt will represent the city. Reeves of Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich will be present in dual capacity representing their councils and as hospital board members.

Two boys have been charged and were to appear in Oak Bay juvenile court today in conjunction with a fire Wednesday at 518 Beach.

An estimated $250 damage was sustained by an unoccupied summer house on the property when fire broke out.

Four Victoria delegates will attend the 28th annual meeting of the B.C. division, Canadian Red Cross, at Vancouver, Feb. 26 and 27.

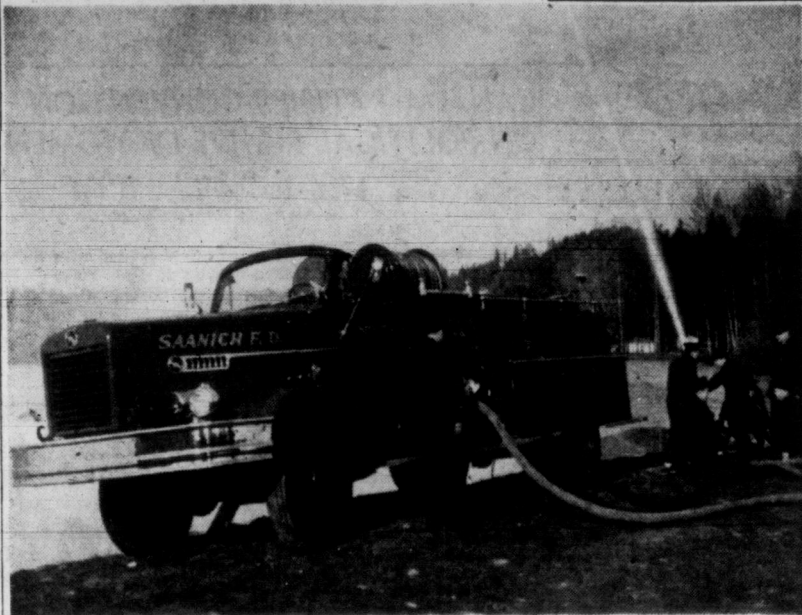

They are Dr. Olga Jardine, president, Victoria and District branch; Col. J. Q. Gillan, Denis Brown, and B. P. Alley, immediate past president. The two-day session will be opened by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross. Guest speaker will be Dr. Norman A. McKenzie, president of UBC.

Conventions in Victoria this year will be up more than 200 per cent compared with 1956, figures assembled to date indicate.

Close to 60 conventions are scheduled, most at the Empress Hotel, which will see nearly 12,000 delegates in Victoria as visitors.

Spending of each delegate while here averages out to about $100 each.

SAANICH GETS FOUR-WHEEL DRIVE PUMPER

Saanich firemen today proudly tested new $27,000 fire truck, that will go into service immediately. Its four-wheel drive will give access to roughest terrain, also is responsible for high engine mounting that puts radiator far beyond and above front axle. It carries water tank, and pump that will deliver 840 gallons per minute. It was delivered here today from Wisconsin.

38 Overseas Missionaries Sought By Short-Handed United Church

By DINAH KERR

Canadian "apathy" and "loss of vision" has put a serious crimp in missionary work overseas, a former United Church agricultural missionary charged here today.

Dr. Kenneth Prior, newly-appointed field secretary for the board of overseas missions, contended the widespread disinterest has led to an extreme shortage of "missionary workers on all fields."

He blamed the disinterest, in part, on ministers who have failed to give their congregations "up to date and accurate information" about the missionary program.

Only hope Apart from missionaries home on furlough, the ministers are "our only hope," Dr. Prior said. "Every church group ought to spend some time in studying our overseas work. If people are challenged they will respond."

The United Church is looking for 38 recruits, including doctors, nurses, ministers, deaconesses, agriculturalists, engineers and teachers, he said, and unless ministers and their congregations lend more support in "these important and strategic days," the work on several missionary fields will suffer.

The Toronto-based field secretary conducted a one-day conference on missions for ministers and laymen today at First United Church when he reviewed mission work in Korea, Japan, Hong Kong, Trinidad, Africa and India.

Before his appointment, he served for 18 years as an agricultural missionary in Angola and Nigeria.

SOILS POOR

African agriculture is "very backward" in most parts of the country, he said. The soils are poor and the tools are primitive. There is a great need for instruction and experimentation."

Dr. Prior stated that agriculture in Africa is "shot through with spiritual implications," that missionaries have not entirely erased.

"Agriculture is a part of life, there," he said. "No African farmer would ever attempt to make a new farm without a blood sacrifice. The sacrifice is usually animal now. Before it was always human."

Motorist Dies At Wheel of Car

John Youson Traffic Death Trial Ordered

Belton Frank Turner, 5021 Santa Clara, was committed for trial today in a manslaughter case arising from the death, January 5, of John William Youson, 76, 748 Esquimalt.

Preliminary hearing on the case, in which Turner was charged after his car and the deceased were in collision on Esquimalt Road, was concluded in city court Thursday.

Remanded to next Friday to set a date for a preliminary hearing for manslaughter was Herbert A. Roberts, 20, 997 Dunsmuir, charged after the traffic death Nov. 16, 1956, of Mrs. Grace White, 58, 429 Quebec, at Douglas and Herald.

Mothers March Against Polio In Hour Blitz

Booming gun and whistles will be the signal Saturday night for 3,000 mothers-to-be in their march on Greater Victoria in an effort to raise $75,000 for the B.C. Polio Fund.

Send-off for the one-hour "porchlight blitz" will be the sounding of the nine o'clock gun and brewery whistle at 6.30 p.m.

At the same time, the polio drive, sponsored by 63 B.C. Kinsmen clubs, will be carried to homes throughout B.C. Provincial goal, higher this year to incorporate several new projects, is $400,000. Major portion of the money will be used to build a child rehabilitation centre in conjunction with the school of medicine at UBC, and a school of rehabilitation, also at UBC, to train badly-needed personnel.

Volunteer mothers will canvass homes in 36 districts here. Last year more than 3,000 mothers turned out to reap a total of $45,000 in donations.

Volunteers are still needed for Vancouver to Wharf Street south of View, and in View Royal from Four Mile House to Helmcken, campaign secretary Miss Beryl Wilson said today.

Mothers may phone the B.C. Polio Fund headquarters at 5-4489.

Canvassers will carry an official badge and will issue receipts for donations. The campaign, which has been started with $300 in donations from local businesses, is not expected to close until mid-March.

HOW TO LOSE GRACEFULLY

Come hail, snow, ice or high water the hat must go through, acting-mayor Arthur Dowell told "ambassador plenipotentiary" John Fisher Thursday. Mr. Fisher, Canadian Travel Association director was chosen to deliver "Copper

SHOPPING GUIDE

Sugar Crystals in Colors Decorate Cakes, Desserts

By PENNY SAVER

Sugar crystals for decorating your puddings and cakes are now available in a new and colorful form. For 19 cents, you can buy a jar of either red or green crystals that will perk up the appearance of even the plainest dishes.

For soups or whipped potatoes or anything that calls for onions, the dried, shredded green onions, also in a bottle, are what you want. They come in 85-cent bottles, put out by a well-known company.

From England are the new grease-proof paper rounds that fit into your deep cake tins. They come in two sizes, and are 30 for 25 cents and 30 for 19 cents. The fluted edges and surface make removing the paper easy. Of the same type of paper are cupcake-size papers at 20 for 39 cents.

Waxed jelly dishes are six for 15 cents, and trifle or fruit trays of the same waxed material are six for 19 cents. They are patterned all over in blue, pink or green. They're just the thing for parties or for everyday use for they're attractive and just the right size. When they've served their purpose, just burn them.

In vegetables this week I noticed that both cello-packed carrots and bunched carrots were down in price. You can now buy two packages or two bunches for 29 cents. Green beans are 19 cents a pound, and cauliflower, 23 cents a pound. Broccoli is down a little, now 19 cents a pound. I saw sweet potatoes at two pounds for 39 cents, and new potatoes at three pounds for a quarter.

Sure choy Chinese chard costs 19 cents, and egg plant, 25 cents a pound. For a change, try some corn on the cob. It's selling at 29 cents for three cobs. Romaine lettuce is 19 cents. For your sweet tooth, here's rhubarb at 29 cents a pound, and bananas, two pounds for 45 cents.

Here's something very new... ready-made cake fillers. To me they seem to be the epitome of something or other. No, you don't mix, stir, or cook a thing. In plastic bags come two quarter-inch rounds of marshmallow in pink, green or white. You simply dampen the surfaces of the marshmallow slabs, place them between your cakes, and there you have a delicious filling. What with cake mixes and ready-made fillings, I think that even I could bake successfully! The fillings, two per bag, are 29 cents.

Call me at 2-331 and I'll tell you where to buy any of the articles mentioned in the column.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Broiler Tuna Sandwiches

Clip this recipe for a piping hot broiler tuna sandwich. These sandwiches are ideal for "something hot" needed for light lunches or evening snacks. The same mixture placed on tiny toast rounds makes excellent hot hors d'oeuvres.

One can (7-ounces) albacore tuna, drained and flaked, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/4 cup chili sauce, 1/4 cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 8 slices bread, crusts off. Combine spread ingredients. Toast one side of bread (use broiler for fast toasting job). Butter untoasted side. Top broiled side with spread. Place on broiler rack. Broil about 5 inches from source of heat until bubbling. Watch carefully so the sandwiches will scorch.

ARE WOMEN INTRIGUED BY THE 'FROSTING'?

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—The housewife is more interested in nicely packed produce than in its price, an economist from the University of British Columbia agriculture department said Friday.

"The consumer is sovereign in the market," E. L. Menzie told a meeting here of vegetable growers and packing-house managers. "The housewife calls the tune."

There were three roads for the grower: the one they now are on, "which is going downhill"; throw out the common selling organization and "go back to the free enterprise system; stick with the interior vegetable marketing board, put in a strong manager and make it work."

He recommended that the selling organization should be strengthened and that farmers be encouraged to have larger acreages and fewer kinds of vegetables.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q—"I have a problem. I have lost a great deal of weight. I now weigh 114 pounds and am 5 feet 3 inches tall. I have a job of fat on my upper thighs and would like an exercise to help me lose these pouches."

A—Stand tall with your left side toward the wall and place your left hand on the wall. Raise your right leg sideways upward with a stiff knee. Lower right leg! Do not raise the leg forward but straight up at the side. Continue. After a while turn the right side toward the wall and raise and lower the left leg.

Clubwomen's News

Opens Tea—Mrs. Lloyd Morgan opened a tea given by the Multiple Sclerosis Society in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company, Saturday. Guests were welcomed by chairman of the local chapter, Mrs. O. H. Lamont. Proceeds amounted to $270, which will be used to further medical research to help those afflicted with Multiple Sclerosis. A display of millinery was a feature.

Plan Ridotto—Members of the Auxiliary to Family and Children's Service made plans for a spring ridotto at a recent meeting. Children from Seven Oaks Foster Home were taken to the Ice Cycles as guests of J. Dukowski and the auxiliary provided treats for them. Music lessons will be provided for a foster girl. Gifts will be sent to a former foster girl now on the mainland.

Lie on the floor on your back. Bend both knees and place the feet on the floor close to the hips. Raise the heels and keep the toes on the floor as you roll from side to side, slapping the thighs at the end of each roll.

Q—"I am 13 years old, 5 feet 4 1/2 inches tall and weigh 111 pounds. Am I underweight?"

A—Not much. If you have a small build you are not underweight at all. Otherwise you might gain four or five pounds.

Q—"I am 40 years old and 'soria' short. I have dark brown hair which is greying slightly. I weigh 175 pounds but am very firm. My friends tell me that I do not look like I weigh that much. My bust measures 36A, waist 32 and hips 43 inches. I would like to know how much I should weigh and what my measurements should be. How should I lose this weight in the right way and the right places?"

A—Since you did not give me your height I cannot be accurate about what you should weigh. If by "soria" short you mean 5 feet and 1 or 2 inches, you should weigh about 120 to 125 pounds. However, if you are stockily built and firm you can add another 10 to 15 pounds.

Count your calories and do not consume more than 1,400 a day. Take waist and hip reducing exercises.

Q—"I am 15 1/2 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 137 pounds. My bust measures 34, waist 24 and hips 26 1/2 inches. I would like to know if I am overweight."

A—Yes, you are overweight, around 15 pounds if you have an average build.

Q—"Do you think I would need mascara? I have heavy dark brows which I keep well groomed and put a little petroleum jelly on the brows to give them a sheen. All my friends wear mascara and think I should, too. What do you think?"

A—I think you are fortunate to have naturally what your friends achieve with makeup. Your brows are probably much more attractive with the vaseline.

CANADA RATIFIES CONVENTION ON POLITICAL RIGHTS OF WOMEN

The Canadian delegation to the 11th session of the United Nations General Assembly announced this week Canada's decision to accede to the convention on the political rights of women.

The instrument of accession will be deposited with the secretary-general of the United Nations in New York.

The convention was adopted by the General Assembly at its seventh session in 1952. It came into force on July 7, 1954. Canada will be the 24th country to have ratified or acceded to the convention. Eighteen other countries have signed but not yet ratified it.

Nurses Meet In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Nursing education and a pension plan for nurses are slated for discussion at a three-day meeting of the Canadian Nurses Association's executive committee that started here yesterday.

Headed by CNA president Trema Hunter of Vancouver, the 35-member committee also will study plans for the association's 50th anniversary convention to be held here June 23-27, 1958.

Need Women's Help To Clean Up Politics

TORONTO (CP)—If they think politics is "dirty," women should become politicians if only to help clean up the profession, says Lisa Sergio, United States news analyst, lecturer and editor.

Women who used the term "dirty politics" as an excuse to stay out of public life "infuriated" her.

"If they have a dirty, mouse-infested closet, they go right in and clean it out," she said in an interview.

The same spirit should apply to their entry into public life, said Miss Sergio who recently spoke at an "International Night" dinner sponsored by the Toronto Council of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Risk of defeat keeps many women out of political and business competition," she said. Men have the advantage because they are more accustomed to competition, but women are gaining experience.

Their instinct for social good is stronger, and Miss Sergio said social reform would eventually depose totalitarianism, not sheer military, economic or financial power.

LOSE SOCIAL SENSE

"Men become so politically involved they tend to disregard the social elements," she said. "The Russians have caught on and that is why they have made such influential inroads on the Asian and African countries."

"I'm not a feminist. I simply believe that nature is all based on the concept of partnership."

"Men and women are so different they could never be equal."

Their roles in life are different," Mrs. Sergio urged co-operation to bring in a new sense of human values to materialistic policies. "We must help the new nations whose concept of freedom is based on a foundation of social and human values."

Social elements needed to combat totalitarianism were education, health, security in the home and proper administration of community life.

Born in Italy, Miss Sergio became a leading radio commentator in Europe. In 1937 she came to an "International Night" dinner sponsored by the Toronto Council of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

She now is editor of World Around Press, a news service that deals with international affairs.

ABOUT A BREAD AND BUTTER NOTE PROBLEM

A month ago my husband became president of a company and we will soon move to another city. Recently when my husband and the chairman of the board were together on a plane trip, the latter invited us to dinner at his home, which is still in another city. A few days later he verified the invitation by long distance telephone. The wife, whom we have never met, was in Mexico at the time, but we accepted the invitation and flew there for the occasion. It was a beautifully appointed party, which included the host's daughter, his son and daughter-in-law. He then rejoined his wife in Mexico, and I am in a quandary about a bread and butter letter. Should it be written to the man or to both, even if the wife wasn't present? In the future, we will be seeing much of them; so would it be all right if I include the wife when writing the letter?

Louise Davis Answers:

Even though the wife was away at the time, you can consider her as "hostess in absentia," as circumstances prevented her presence. Write your note to both, stressing of course the husband's hospitality. Your message can say that your one regret is that Mrs. Harris was absent, but that you are eagerly looking forward to meeting her. In this way, you are primarily thanking the husband, and, inasmuch as you were entertained in their house, it would be a nice and friendly gesture to include her in your appreciation of the pleasant evening.

Bureau Girls Set Pattern For Centennial Apparel

Audrey McCormick, of the Government Travel Bureau, models a gown Mrs. James Douglas wore as first lady of British Columbia. She proposes to eliminate the train but does not think that crinolines will interfere with work at the enquiry counter or at the desks.

Half the fun of a party is getting ready for it, as every girl knows, and with the biggest party in British Columbia's history only 10 months away there's no time to lose if you really want to dress for the occasion.

At least, that's the way the young ladies of the British Columbia Government Travel Bureau feel about it, as evidenced by the above picture.

In 1958, the four pretty travel counsellors in the bureau office in Victoria will be gowned in the style of 100 years ago to welcome the thousands of visitors who will come into the bureau for holiday advice during B.C.'s Centennial Celebration.

The girls will replace their customary forest-green jackets and grey skirts with the long gowns, bustles, lace frills and parasols of the Victorian era.

Some of the costumes actually worn by prominent women in the pioneer period of British Columbia's eventful history are at present on display in the Provincial Archives at Victoria.

The girls appreciate the appeal of unique attractions to the visiting holiday-maker as they answer some 35,000 tourist enquiries annually and meet many more across the counter at the B.C. Government Travel Bureau.

Empress Hotel Smorgasbord A Happy Valentine's Party

It was St. Valentine's Night in the dining room at the Empress Hotel, Thursday evening, where ice carvings for the popular smorgasbord dinner were created in a Cupid and heart motif.

Imaginative chefs had decorated hams, turkeys and fish with valentines and hearts and the huge ice valentine in the centre of the buffet table had even been tinted a glowing pink.

Adding a touch of interest for the gourmet who enjoys something different in good foods was a hot dish of spaghetti and buffalo stew.

BUFFALO STEW

The buffalo meat had been brought in from the Prairies two weeks ago. It had been seasoned and then marinated in spices and good wines before being cooked to a delicious brown.

Many family parties were enjoying the novelty of the smorgasbord dinner. Anniversaries were being celebrated, too. Dinner guests visited from table to table and the dignified dining room with its dark wood panelling had an air of camaraderie in keeping with the decorations.

Celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jeune. With them were a son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Ronald Jeune, and a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Restell were celebrating a 22nd wedding day with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Glazen and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horne. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Paterson were marking a wedding anniversary with a family party.

Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Kjekstad were there with their sons, Paul and Richard, and Dr. Kjekstad's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Kjekstad.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Beatty were at a table for two. With Mr. Louis Nelson were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Norton, Miss Ruth Nordquist.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Heybroek were there with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Heybroek.

Members of a bridge club were enjoying their annual dinner at the smorgasbord. They included Mrs. Mary Lampert, Mrs. Vera McKenzie, Mrs. Malcolm Moore, Miss Edith Parsell, Mrs. Doris Walls, Mrs. Mary Webb, Miss Nona Rich, Miss Winnifred Ellis and Miss Marjorie Trotter.

At a table for three were Dr. and Mrs. Sam Janowsky and Miss Anna Mottram. Mr. and Mrs. W. K. McCarter Sr. were with Mr. and Mrs. W. K. McCarter Jr., Mr. C. E. Rush, Vancouver, and Mr. W. Acomb, Seattle.

Mr. George Laird's birthday was being celebrated at a table for eight. Others in the party were Mrs. Laird, Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Ford, Major and Mrs. R. S. Dyer and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon E. Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. K. English were with Mr. and Mrs. J. Meredith and Mr. Robinson, a visitor from Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Timp had with them Mr. and Mrs. James Burchett and Mr. and Mrs. L. Swemle, formerly of Indonesia and South America.

Mr. Frank Hunter, Dr. John A. Linton, Toronto, and Mr. Robert D. Spears, Vancouver, were dining together.

ANNUAL DINNER MEETING

Education, Aid for Underprivileged Stressed by Royal Bride Chapter

Royal Bride Chapter, IODE, held its annual dinner meeting in the Terra Cotta Room, Dominion Hotel, Thursday evening, when special guests were Mrs. Warren Smith, municipal regent; Mrs. T. Lumsden, municipal organizing secretary; Mrs. P. E. Corby, the chapter's honorary regent; Mrs. W. R. Freethy, honorary vice-regent; Mrs. F. Green, West Vancouver, life member; Mr. Stephenson, principal of Belmont High School, and Mrs. Stephenson.

BURSARIES GIVEN

Regent, Mrs. R. Hadfield, presided. Mrs. F. Gray, secretary, reported on the year's work stressing education as the primary interest. A $75 bursary, three book prizes and a citizenship trophy were donated to students of the adopted school, Belmont High. The chapter also contributed a selection of silk screens to the art department. A $100 bursary was presented to a drama student to enable her to attend a special summer course at Banff.

Major money-making projects included a fashion show and tea, flannel dance, luncheon-bazaar, sale of cards and holly and a raffle. Subscriptions for magazines were sent to the Veterans' Hospital, 22 ditty bags were made and filled for Hungarian refugees; food hampers were given needy families; a $50 donation given for the decoration of the new Veterans' Hospital chapel and a "jolly jumper" was given the Cerebral Palsy Association. A new project is the assisting with providing furnishings for the Home for Emotionally Disturbed Children.

One of the highlights of the year for this chapter as sponsors was the chapter presentation to the Junior Oakleaf Chapter, IODE.

Treasurer's report given by Mrs. D. Kerley showed total receipts as $2,015.28 and disbursements, $1,956.85. Through entertainments, $1,729.25 was raised. Donations were made to the British and European Relief Fund, $20; Educational work, $275, and services at home and abroad, $111.50.

Other reports were: Educational secretary, Mrs. G. Sullivan; Echoes secretary, Mrs. H. Parrott; standard bearer, Mrs. R. Clarke; Canadianization and immigration, Mrs. L. Muirhead; empire and world affairs, Miss L. Langley; services at home and abroad, Mrs. E. Crane; press, Mrs. F. Ritchie; films, Mrs. P. Littlewood and membership, Mrs. C. Saunders.

Mrs. C. R. Saunders was elected regent for the coming year. Other officers are: First vice-regent, Mrs. L. J. Muirhead; second, Mrs. W. P. McColl; secretary, Mrs. F. E. Gray; treasurer, Mrs. D. R. Kerley; standard bearer, Mrs. R. J. Clarke; educational secretary, Mrs. G. Sullivan; Echoes, Mrs. J. T. Dunn; assistant secretary, Mrs. F. Petrie and services at home and abroad, Mrs. G. Langdon.

A Wedding In Vancouver

TO WED IN MARCH

Mr. and Mrs. T. Stumph, 3176 Balfour Avenue, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Jennie, to Mr. Douglas Bambrugh, only son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Bambrugh, 2747 Graham Street. The wedding will take place March 15 at 8 p.m. in St. Mark's Church. Canon R. Willis will officiate. (Photo by Campbell Studio.)

This morning in St. Augustine's Church, Vancouver, Miss Sylvia Laurean Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Stone, 1021 McClure Street, and Peter A. Leismester of Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Leismester of Preble, Sask., were wed in a ceremony performed by Father R. Kelly.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a silver sheath styled with a cowl neckline. She complemented her bridal dress with a small silver hat of blue and silver accented with a blue veil. Her corsage was of pale blue stephanotis.

Only bridal attendant was Miss Margaret Kovach who wore a chargrey suit with pink cloche hat and a corsage of pink rosebuds. The groom had Anthony Darnell as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception party was held in the Astor Hotel, where Mrs. Stone, in a Swiss brocade sheath in fuchsia shade with matching hat and corsage of white freesia and carnations assisted in receiving guests.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip to Portland, Ore., the bride wore a pale blue knitted suit with blue coat, a tiny sequin hat and parchment shade accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Leismester will make their home at 2513 Marlborough Avenue, South Burnaby.

Vancouver Teachers Get 11% Pay Hike

(From The Canadian Press)
VANCOUVER—School teachers here have won salary increases ranging from 10.9 to 11.9 per cent. Elementary school teachers, now receive $2,600 to $4,200 for conditional class; $2,800 to $4,800 for basic class and $3,000 to $5,000 for advanced classifications.

Secondary or high school teachers now receive a wage scale from $3,200 to $5,800 for conditional; $3,500 to $6,500 for basic, and $3,700 to $6,700 for the advanced category.

Negotiations went to arbitration after the Vancouver School Board would not go beyond a 10.5 per cent increase for teachers.

KIMBERLEY PAY RAISE

KIMBERLEY—Elementary school teachers here will receive from $2,350 annually, an increase of 9½ per cent, to a maximum of $4,750, also a 9½ per cent increase as result of an arbitration award. Senior teachers will receive from a minimum of $3,100, a rise of 7 per cent, to $3,300, an increase of 9½ per cent over 1956. Principals' salaries are unchanged.

KILLED BY CAR

WHALLEY—Mrs. Agatha Swell, 65, was killed Thursday night when she was struck down by an automobile as she walked along the Trans-Canada Highway here.

NO SMOKING

VANCOUVER—Police here have orders to beat the tobacco habit—at least while in uniform. As of Feb. 1, uniformed officers are prohibited from smoking in public. The order also applies to any office to which the public might have access. Detectives face the same prohibition in their offices and cars.

HUGE SHOPPING CENTRE

KELOWNA—Construction of a shopping centre at Five Bridges outside Kelowna, which when fully developed will represent an investment of nearly $1,000,000, was announced Thursday afternoon.

FLOOD RELIEF VETOED

VANCOUVER—The provincial government has vetoed North Vancouver district's $25,000 flood relief plan which called for a $25,000 fund from which compensation would be paid residents for structural damage to homes hit by the Mosquito Creek, Capilano and Seymour River floods in November, 1955.

SIX YEARS FOR THEFT

VANCOUVER—William Charles Mould, 22, was sentenced Thursday to six years in B.C. Penitentiary for the robbery of a Vancouver drug store last Thursday.

PARKING COSTLY

VANCOUVER—The city's parking commission was told Thursday new parking facilities for the downtown area would cost $16,000,000 in the next 20 years. Tempest de Wolf, managing director of Downtown Parking Corporation, said his firm must provide between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 and another $9,000,000 will be earmarked for purchasing property for parking lots.

POLICE SCORED

VANCOUVER—Possible homicide in the death of a 73-year-old woman was suggested by city coroner Glen McDonald as he adjourned an inquest Thursday. "But no one seems to be interested except the jury and me," he said, criticizing city police for failure to have two witnesses at the inquest of Mrs. Julianne Kabush, who was savagely beaten last November.

Swami to Lecture All Next Week

Swami Agehananda Bharati, Viennese-born monk of the Saanyasi order, and the order's only white swami, will open a course of lectures at the Universal Fellowship Centre starting Monday at 8 p.m.

They will be given nightly to the following Saturday, and will deal with eastern music, arts, philosophies, temples, and his own experiences.

Rev. Marc A. Norman, Fellowship director, has advised persons wanting reservations for the course to call him at 2-3245.

PTA NEWS

Miniature Drama Fete Tonight

Miniature drama festival will be held at Lampson Street School PTA meeting tonight when members will present skits and plays in competition for money prizes.

Judges will be Miss G. A. Hewlings, well-known in city drama circles, Dr. J. W. Smith and John Wood, teacher at Lampson Street School. Prizes will total $50.

Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students. Candy will be sold by the women's auxiliary to the school band.

Cloverdale PTA will meet at the school next Monday at 8 p.m. Film on the Cariboo country, "Legend of the West," will be shown and a buzz session will follow.

Student leaders will describe their extra-curricular activities at a meeting of the Oak Bay Senior High School PTA Wednesday at 8.15 p.m. Program of music will be presented by the school choir. Play-reading program will highlight a meeting of the Metchosis PTA in the school next Wednesday at 8.15 p.m.

To commemorate the founding of the first PTA in B.C. at their school in 1915, Craigflower PTA held a candle-lighting ceremony Tuesday night.

Participating were Frank Tether, PTA president; Mrs. A. B. Thompson, president of the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council; Mrs. W. J. Dentith, president of Mount View High PTA; Mrs. J. H. Brooks, president of Tillicum PTA; Mrs. G. W. Lister, president of Burnside PTA, and Mrs. E. V. Pollock, vice-president of View Royal PTA.

Minutes of the first meeting, signed by founder and first president, Mrs. Elsie Lorimer, were read.

Following the ceremony, PTA members heard talks by Miss E. K. Riley, Sanich health nurse, and Miss Joan Groves, nutritionist. Refreshments included a large 42nd anniversary cake decorated in school colors of yellow and green.

Child development at the grade four level will be discussed at a meeting of Victoria West PTA in the school auditorium next Tuesday at 8 p.m.

PROUD OF HER BARGAIN—After buying a painting for $1 in a curio shop, Miss Carolyn Alson took it to a Chicago gallery to be cleaned. The painting of four boys eating watermelon proved to be an original oil by Winslow Homer, and it is now valued at $10,000. (NEA Telephoto.)

Death-Row Author Says Third Book Smuggled Out

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—state banning Chessman's writing for publication.

Convict-author Caryl Chessman was put in solitary confinement Thursday after a manuscript of his third book was found in his death row cell.

Warden Harley O. Teets said Chessman said he had smuggled one manuscript of the 160,000-word book—"The Face of Justice," which deals with his lawyers—out of prison to his New York literary agent.

Chessman, since 1948, has written two books—"Cell 2455 Death Row," a best seller, and "Trial by Ordeal."

THIS SCREWBALL WORLD

Courtroom Objection Removed

COMPTON, Calif. (AP)—A civil suit was in progress in municipal court, a lawyer was questioning a witness on the stand.

"I object!" cried counsel for the witness.

"I object!" cried yet another lawyer.

"I object too," came a voice from the rear of the courtroom.

The owner of the last voice, despite protests, was hauled off to jail on a drunken charge.

***

CARTHAGE, Tex. (AP)—Two men telephoning for fish in the Sabine River got on the wrong party line. Game warden Joe Riggs answered. The men were using an old-time telephone generator, which when cranked and with wire terminals dropped into the water, electrified the fish. The men were fined $117.50.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Eric R. Foster, 2632 Fernwood, $35 for careless driving resulting in a collision on Blanshard near Johnson causing $110 total damage. His license was suspended.

Isaac Seginovich, 606 Francis, $50 for failing to report an accident in which a pedestrian was injured.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—An official of the National Restaurant Association says cafe operators should apply psychology in their business.

For one thing, said Phil Johnson, signs saying "Waitress Wanted" tend to drive away potential customers "because they feel that they won't be able to get good service."

Johnson said better psychology would be to use a sign saying "Another Waitress Wanted."

DOG SAVES EIGHT, DIES

CUMBERLAND, R.I. (AP)—Skipper joined the company of dog heroes Thursday by barking, and possibly saving the lives of eight persons. But the tiny, three-month-old cocker with the family only two days, will receive no reward. He died in the fire.

Shepilov Out, Gromyko In As Soviet Foreign Minister

Sudden Switch Puts Stalinist In Key Post

(From UP and CP Dispatches)
MOSCOW—The Soviet Union dropped Dmitri Shepilov as foreign minister today after only nine months in office—the nine months of Hungary and Poland.

Andrei Gromyko was promoted to replace him. Action was taken following a secret meeting of the Soviet Communist Party central committee Wednesday and Thursday. Shepilov, 51-year-old former editor of the Communist party organ Pravda, replaced V. M. Molotov only last June. Gromyko was first deputy to both. Shepilov now becomes one of the eight secretaries of the Communist party central committee under party chief Nikita Khrushchev. The official Tass News Agency announcement of Shepilov's removal gave no reason. It said only that he was transferred to other work. Gromyko is regarded as a Stalinist. He rose to prominence in the Soviet hierarchy under former foreign minister V. M. Molotov. Nikolai Patolichev replaces Gromyko. Patolichev has been deputy foreign minister since July. He is a member of the Communist party Central Committee.

BAIL SET AT $10,000 FOR HOLD-UP SUSPECT

Bank robber suspect Barry Irwin Keele, 26, of Victoria, was granted $10,000 bail and remanded without plea today to appear Monday in city police court.

He is charged with the armed hold-up last Monday of Canadian Bank of Commerce James Bay branch, from which $3,000 was taken.

Bail bond was not expected to be filed before next week.

A second suspect, detained after Keele was arrested in his company early Thursday in Saanich, was released after questioning by city detectives. Lawyer J. Ronald Grant represented Keele.

Socreds Win House Vote On Wenner-Gren Deal

By PETER MURRAY and NORMAN CRIBBENS

Mounting public concern over a multi-million-dollar plan to industrialize B.C.'s northland reached a climax in the legislature Thursday night, as opposition members hurled criticism and questions at the government.

The decision to enter an agreement with Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren was defended by Premier W. A. C. Bennett in a fiery, election-style speech and by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston.

The heated debate ground on until a few minutes past midnight, and closing moments brought back memories of the epic all-night sitting last year over government handling of accusations against former lands and forests minister R. E. Somers.

Premier Bennett accused critics of "smear" tactics, and made a fighting defence of Einar Gunderson, under fire for taking a directorship on the B.C. Wenner-Gren company while executive vice-president of the government-operated PGE.

"This could be the greatest thing that ever happened to this province," the premier said. CCF leader Robert Strachan, in a restrained speech, said: "Until all the questions are answered we will refuse to support an agreement which would turn the clock back in B.C."

"Something more important than money is involved here. There is a duty to protect the province. The people must have the right to control their own destiny."

Session, was precipitated by the CCF. At the start of the afternoon sitting, Mr. Strachan proposed that the House adjourn the Throne Speech debate and take up a full discussion of the development plan.

He was ruled out of order by Speaker Thomas Irwin, who was upheld by the government in a vote.

Later in the course of his speech, fledgling CCF member Gordon Dowding of Burnaby moved that:

"This House regrets that matters arising out of disclosures by the lands and forests minister... were not disclosed in the Speech from the Throne."

At the conclusion of the night session the CCF amendment to the Throne Speech reply, which amounted to a motion of no-confidence in the government, was defeated 37-11 in a recorded vote.

All the CCF members voted for the amendment, supported by Independent Labor member Thomas Uphill of Fernie and Liberal George Gregory. The other Liberal member of the House, P. A. Gibbs of Oak Bay, was absent because of illness.

After a brief defence of government dealing with the Wenner-Gren interests, the premier called a night sitting to stage the debate.

Premier Bennett denied the Wenner-Gren interests had been given any special privileges. In a charged voice he said: "There are no deals. There are no concessions. There are no giveaways."

Then, shooting a fiery glance at the Opposition group: "If this is true—and it is—how can you be against it? I challenge you to vote against it."

Just before sitting down, the premier repeated "there are no deals of any kind and there will be none as long as I am premier of this province."

"I assure you there won't be," he urged the Opposition to "rise above partisanship and carping criticism and give support to this project."

The premier said of Mr. Gunderson: "There is no finer man in British Columbia tonight."

Mr. Gunderson, "a great Canadian," has been the victim of "snide remarks," Mr. Bennett said.

The premier said he had sought out Mr. Gunderson for

TOO MUCH MIXER

Flays Liquor Profits

Cyril Shelford's rum pispole business is "on the rocks."

What put it there? The government's increase in liquor prices last fall.

The genial Social Credit member for Omicame, who never hesitates to castigate the government when he thinks it needs it, explained the situation to a highly amused legislature Thursday.

Last year Mr. Shelford brought the House down with a story of how a couple of bottles of rum froze in the trunk of his car during sub-zero weather in his far north riding, and his only recourse was to make pispoles.

This year, what with the increased prices, it just isn't profitable.

He hoped the Attorney-General would take a "second look" at the decision to boost prices.

The distillers should be told, Mr. Shelford said, that unless they reduce the price the Liquor Control Board would cancel all orders and import all liquor from outside the province.

Both the distillers and LCB hiked liquor prices "when it looked like they were making out all right and we were too." Both reported record profits.

And don't think that increasing the price will stop people drinking, Mr. Shelford said.

"It won't. It will only take more money away from the families of those that do."

Mr. Shelford clinched his argument by saying that now he can understand why there is such a fight over B.C.'s water resources:

"If you will divide up last year's profit of the Liquor Control Board you will find that the water contents were sold for $14,430,000 (of profit) and the alcohol contents for $7,700,000."

"In fact with that much water in the liquor I don't see how these Vancouver police sniffing stations can ever detect any liquor on anyone's breath."

Mr. Speaker Cracks Down

OTTAWA (CP)—Speaker Rene Beaudoin Thursday cracked rules like a whip in an apparent move to subdue a pre-election restiveness in the Commons.

His sharp application of the rules cut the daily question period to a bare 20 minutes. Both Liberal and Opposition members were brought up short.

Later, as debate got under way, he ruled a statement by John Blackmore (SC, Lethbridge) unparliamentary and ordered the offending word retracted: It was.

But he was never in Korea. When Laskey went to jail Monday he asked for his books, his Bible and his crochet needles.

"We didn't let him have the needles," said Pringle.

Regarded by West as Tough Bargainer

Gromyko is 47 and grew up in the Soviet foreign service under Stalin. He is regarded by western diplomats as a tough bargainer.

Gromyko knows the West well. He served as Soviet ambassador in Washington from 1943 to 1946 and then as the permanent Soviet representative in the United Nations Security Council.

In 1952-53 he was ambassador to Britain. Earlier this week, Shepilov, 52, called for a Middle East agreement among the Big Four powers. In his term as foreign minister, he travelled extensively.

He was known as a leading champion of a vigorous Soviet policy in the Middle East.

Gromyko is a career diplomat who has been close to Molotov through the post-war period. He became as well known as Molotov for repeatedly saying "no" to Western proposals in the United Nations.

Square-jawed, unsmiling and rarely ruffled, Gromyko lacks the verbal pyrotechnics of the late Andrei Vishinsky.

Shepilov's last major task was the launching of the new Soviet "hands off" doctrine for the Middle East.

The shake-up came as a complete surprise to Moscow observers. Shepilov had been regarded as the leading Communist spokesman on foreign policy even before he was named to replace Molotov.

Since his appointment Tito's relations with the Soviet Union again become strained. Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal and war burst in the Middle East. Revolution wracked Hungary and Poland threw off its Stalinist leadership.

UN Approves 5-Power Talks On Disarmament

CITY GIRL TELLS SATURDAY OF HER AMAZING ESCAPE

Sole survivor of a shipwreck on the coast of Spain which took the lives of her father, photographer Helmut Goertz of Victoria and the rest of her family, 13-year-old Anita Goertz believes "it must have been a miracle that saved me."

She tells the story of the tragic wreck, in her own words, in Weekend Magazine, to be distributed with Saturday's editions of the Victoria Daily Times.

DEMARA PLEADS GUILTY, MINISTER SENTENCED

ELMDALE, Kan. (AP)—Who is Calvin Laskey, Canadian whose masquerade as minister and war hero melted away to expose a 29-year career of thievery, army desertion and jail breaking?

"He has a genuine humanitarian drive—he wants to do good for people," says William Pringle who prosecuted Laskey to six months in jail on a charge of illegally marrying a couple while posing as a minister.

Police in Calgary said Laskey passed himself off as U.S. air force colonel there in 1945... that he flew in the Doolittle air raid on Tokyo in 1942... and that they believe he is a native of Saint John, N.B.

The Elmdale Church thrived under his ministry. He was in great demand as a speaker and told a gripping story of his experiences as a prisoner of war in Korea.

But he was never in Korea. When Laskey went to jail Monday he asked for his books, his Bible and his crochet needles.

"We didn't let him have the needles," said Pringle.

Maggie Pulls Tug Under; Two Drown

HALIFAX—A navy tug helping to moor the aircraft carrier Magnificent on its return from Europe was capsized and sunk today by a line attached to the carrier.

Two men lost their lives. Seven were rescued by other tugs.

The accident occurred opposite the navy's dockyard in Halifax's north end where the Angus L. MacDonald bridge connects Halifax and Dartmouth.

The Magnificent arrived in port about 6:30 a.m. PST probably for the last time, after a rough-and-tumble trip across the Atlantic.

Part of her starboard bow was battered in during the trip but her deck load of 49 Sabre jets escaped with a salt water drenching.

About a dozen light floats had been washed overboard by high-running seas that destroyed one motor cutter, damaged two others and a steel barge used for in-shore work.

The jets, 49 of them on the deck and 11 in below-deck hangars, were brought here from Glasgow, after service in Europe with the RCAF. They will be taken to an aircraft plant at nearby Eastern Passage.

The Magnificent is scheduled to return to the Royal Navy and will be replaced by HMS Bonaventure, now on trials out of Belfast.

Canada Proposes UNEF Expansion

OTTAWA (CP)—Far-reaching Canadian proposals, involving the possible addition of naval or air components to the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East, are under discussion in New York, it was learned today.

Canada already has about 1,100 administrative and service troops in the force, dispatched to help restore peace to the area.

Under the new Canadian proposals the UN would maintain either air or sea patrols, or both, to meet Israel's insistence upon freedom of navigation through the Gulf of Aqaba, a southern approach to the Suez Canal.

Canada is said to have expressed willingness to supply naval or air components, or both, should the idea prove acceptable.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States, Britain, France and Norway have agreed on a temporary arrangement for the Suez Canal but Egypt firmly refuses to take any action, diplomatic sources reported here today.

Canadian Impostors Unfrolocked

Augusta, Me. (AP)—An imposter who has posed as a Canadian surgeon in Korea, among other roles, pleaded guilty today to a charge of false pretences in getting a Maine teaching job.

Ferdinand Waldo Demara Jr., 35, a native of Lawrence, Mass., said he wished to have his case disposed of quickly. Sentence is scheduled this afternoon.

Desk officer at Augusta city jail said he received several telephone calls, all expressing sympathy for Demara, from Texas, Florida, California, New York and Canada.

The charge resulted from his role as Martin Daniel Godgart, an instructor of "superior qualifications" who taught North Haven, Me., youngsters English, Latin and French, instituted recreation programs, organized a sea scout unit and won praise from his colleagues and superiors.

Demara gave a statement admitting he was the man who, as Dr. Joseph C. Cyr, served with the Canadian Navy and performed surgery despite only elementary medical training.

He said he went to North Haven, 12 miles off the Maine coast because of its isolation, and that he half expected to be unmasked.

Imposter Ferdinand Demara, right, is questioned by detective Millar Nickerson, after arrest Thursday. (AP Wirephoto.)

HITLER WAS PIKER SAYS MINING HEAD

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ozdie MacDonald, president of the Cowichan Copper Co., said Thursday when asked to comment on the Wenner-Gren development project: "This guy Hitler was crazy. He went to war for a country. He should have come to B.C. (Premier) Bennett would have given him one."

IN COMMONS

'Expenditure' Key to B.C. Plan—Harris

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Harris said today impact of a reported big development program in central British Columbia on the national economy would depend on the rate of expenditure.

"Until we know when it is proposed to proceed with the development one could not express any intelligent opinion as to the possible effect on the economy," he told Colin Cameron (CCF, Nanaimo) in the Commons.

Mr. Harris said he doesn't know whether there is anything substantial about the reports. There was much untapped wealth in British Columbia and the government welcomed foreign capital for developing Canadian resources. But effect on the national economy would depend on rate of expenditure on such a project.

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Gunderson Caught With Directorship Showing—Gregory

Temper erupted in the legislature Thursday for the first time since the session opened and the clash of viewpoints over the multi-million dollar development plan for northern B.C. produced scenes reminiscent of the famous all-night sitting on the Somers case last year.

But the battle, which lasted until two minutes after midnight, was also peppered with humorous sallies and rapid-fire exchanges of wit.

Einar Gunderson has been caught with his directorship showing," quipped George Gregory, Liberal member for Victoria, in a criticism of Mr. Gunderson's association with the Wenner-Gren company.

The House laughed explosively, as if surprised at hearing this sort of thing from one of its most serious legislators.

The next sally came from Bob Strachan, leader of the CCF Opposition, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston (enraged for his equanimity) assured the House they would see the full fruits of the northern project in four years time.

"You'd better call another election next year just in case," urged Mr. Strachan. "Remember you launched the PGE with the last one."

Watered Whisky Worries Northern Member

Earlier in the day, the House heard a dissertation on watered whisky from lanky Cyril Shefford from Omineca, one of the original members of the Socred government.

He complained that in spite of the recent price increase approved by the government, contemporary whisky was compounded of 35 per cent alcohol and 65 per cent water.

Mr. Shefford had the temerity to ask that these figures be reversed.

"I don't see how the police, when they set up these sniffling stations of theirs, can tell whether a driver has been drinking whisky or water," he said.

Premier Shows Flash Temper to House

A flash of temper by Premier Bennett touched off the first night sitting of the session.

IN NANAIMO

Judge's Wig Solution For Drafts?

NANAIMO—Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane expressed regrets—but not many—at the fact the Assize Court concluded Thursday will be the last to meet in the old court house.

At the end of the sitting, Crown counsel A. G. McCulloch said the new federal building now nearing completion likely will be in ready for the next assizes.

"I would like to bring the fact to your worship's attention that you are the last judge to preside in this court," he said.

"In many ways I regret that we will no longer hold court here," Mr. Justice Macfarlane said. "I've come here for 14 years, but I am glad to get away from these drafty windows."

"I caught cold and laryngitis last week, and swore then that I would borrow someone's wig and wear it. But I am happy to hear of the new accommodation," he said.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane was unable to preside at the first three cases heard because of his laryngitis attack.

The present court house was built in 1885, and the large new addition at the rear is expected to be fully occupied by late summer. Some offices in the new wing already are occupied.

KINGSTON (CP)—A national campaign to raise $4,000,000 for Queen's University will open March 11, N. R. Crump, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and general chairman of the campaign, said Thursday night.

U.K. to Cut NATO Troops By 30,000

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP)—Britain formally told her NATO allies on Thursday she must cut the number of British troops in Western Germany.

A strained economy and a new nuclear concept of military strategy lay behind the move, details of which are still secret. But it is reported the measures will reduce the number of British troops in Germany to about 50,000 from the present 80,000.

Britain's decision was announced as French Defence Minister Maurice Bourges-Maunory arrived in London and told reporters that France too desires to streamline her military set-up.

NATO CHIEF OPPOSED

Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme allied commander in Europe, opposed the proposed defence cuts as "dangerous."

Sandys who returned a short while ago from the United States was reported to have convinced American officials of the need to revamp the British military setup.

The British decision to change the pattern of her military program went simultaneously to the Atlantic Treaty members in Paris, the permanent council of the Western European Union in London and West German Foreign Minister Von Brentano in Bonn.

Britain's 80,000 troops now in West Germany are in three armored divisions and one infantry division. Speculation has been that she would cut the number to 50,000 but seek to maintain present firepower by streamlining the divisions and adding weapons obtained from the U.S.

The first British steps likely will be the cut in manpower—with universal conscription replaced by a form of selective service.

But Sandys has said the changeover will not come overnight despite talk in the British press of ballistic missiles and guided rockets.

Girl, 14, Murders 4-Year-Old Brother

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters)—A 15-year-old girl was found guilty of murdering her four-year-old brother here Thursday and ordered to be sent to a reformatory.

The prosecution said the girl had put insecticide into sugar and cocoa drunk by her brother.

The grackle, an all-black bird as big as a robin, is sometimes called the "crow blackbird."

Proposal Called 'Non-Essential' By Councillor in Clash With Ash

Victoria-Saanich committeemen Thursday advanced planning toward joint municipal hall construction and integration of some municipal services despite a spoke-in-the-wheel move by Saanich Councillor Leslie Passmore.

"A majority of people in Saanich are not in favor of a joint hall," he stated.

Saanich voters in a December referendum registered 2,154 yes votes and 919 no votes on the question of whether the two municipalities should continue studies of possible construction of a joint municipal hall.

Coun. Passmore pointed out there were three questions to be voted on—building of an addition to the present hall, building a new hall or continuing city-Saanich talks.

He said 798 voters favored a new hall in Saanich, 1,543 favored an addition, and these together totalled more than the 2,154 who voted for the joint hall.

Joint Municipal Hall Non-Essential

He said he felt a joint hall was a non-essential.

Saanich has to borrow for a sewer by-law ($800,000), and must meet its share of school by-law costs, as well as prepare for a share of Royal Jubilee Hospital costs of extension.

He said the municipality has the money to build an extension to the present hall suitable for 10 or 15 years' use.

The federal government had asked municipalities refrain from borrowing for non-essentials, he said.

"In view of these considerations, I don't feel justified in going ahead with these investigations," although, he added, there was merit in co-operation in protective services.

He suggested a new committee which would include as advisers the city and Saanich police and fire chiefs.

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash said he was amazed at Coun. Passmore's stand.

"After the December elections... Coun. Passmore said he would co-operate 100 per cent... and at the first meeting he violently opposes doing anything about it."

The reeve added he had put Coun. Passmore on the committee because he knew he opposed the project and wanted to be fair.

"We are not here to interpret votes," he told the councillor and reminded him, "We don't know if it is a minimum vote... only 23 per cent voted."

The committee decided to invite Capital Region Planning Board official Brahm Wiesman...

planners to the next meeting, set for Tuesday at 7.30 p.m., to discuss possible sites.

Municipal engineers, police...

HANDY RELAXATION

A movie theatre seating 450 people is to be built in the main railway station at Zurich, Switzerland.

and fire chiefs will also be on hand.

The two Saanich members argued again when Coun. Passmore pointed out Saanich was entitled to three delegates to the joint hall committee. Since the resignation of Coun. T. P. O'Neill, there were only two.

The reeve said a third member would be appointed following by-elections to be held March 9.

"Someone who has never been on council before and does not know what it's all about?" asked Coun. Passmore.

"I know you don't look kindly on us greenhorns, as you call us," said the reeve, "but if someone who approaches it with some common sense..."

Ald. Dowell interrupted with a request discussions of integration of services get underway.

"We both have equipment which is used only 50 per cent of the time."

Coun. Passmore also objected that all sites so far recommended for a joint hall had been located in the city.

"Aren't we anticipating the heaviest growth in Saanich?" "We might be glad to have it in Saanich—to avoid having more tax-free lands in the city," joked Victoria's Ald. Austin Curtis.

BOY TAKES DARE, DROWNS

NEW YORK (AP)—Eight-year-old Roscoe Hodge was the victim of a dare to jump fully clothed into the Harlem River. Schoolmates challenged Roscoe during the noon school recess Thursday. The boy's body was recovered several hours later by police using grappling hooks.

Veteran CBC Radio, TV Figure Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Dick MacDowall, veteran radio and television personality best known for his early-evening CBC TV show, Tabloid, died early today from his second heart attack in five weeks. He was 41.

Death came at his home in nearby Richmond Hill.

His wife, Evelyn, appeared on Tabloid Thursday night together with the wives of other long-standing personalities on the show. She remarked how happy she and the children were over his apparent recovery from the first seizure.

Four children also survive—Ina, 16; Sandra, 13; Ian, 10, and Donald, six.

FROM RESIGNING MANAGER

Rea Buys 21% Share In City's CHEK-TV

Former New Westminster radio station owner, William Rea, has purchased a 21 per cent interest in CHEK-TV from Station president Dave Armstrong will take over as manager on a temporary basis, Mr. Rea will not be active in station management.

Mr. Rea was the only opponent in application for Victoria's TV licence. The sale, for an undisclosed amount, is subject to approval of the CBC board of governors and the federal transport department.

Other shareholders are Mr. Armstrong, who holds the majority, and Dr. Martin Mathison, New Westminster.

My Psychological Blocks

WHEN we were youngsters learning new dives from the 10-foot board we followed one cardinal rule. If we took a bust, we tried the same dive again immediately.

The theory was simple. If we quit just after we'd smashed flat out on the water, front or back, we figured the stunt would have us baffled. So we'd stagger back up to the board and go through the routine again. Our hope was that the repeated attempt would produce a non-painful dive and convince us that we could do it.

That way, we figured, we'd avoid a psychological block.

I didn't then, and don't now, know exactly what a psychological block is. I have the general idea, though, that it implies a sort of mental hurdle which can grow so high you can't get over it. It's sort of reverse Couesism. You're sure you can't do a thing—and, by golly, if you're sure enough, you can't.

Suppose, for instance, you're a kid trying to learn a two-and-one-half front somersault. For that dive you hit the board hard, ride high, spin just before you get to the top of your lift, keep your chin in and slide out of your tuck with your head down. If you come out with your head up and a little too soon, you hit the water with your face about PAINFUL LESSON as hard as Ted Williams clouts a baseball.

It's infinitely distressing and you can't disguise your pain even by saying it's the force of the water on your eyeballs that cause the tears.

Obviously you have to try it again. Might get a psychological block if you didn't. So you climb onto the board and repeat the performance. Chances are you'll look up too soon on the second effort. Eventually you'll learn.

If you don't, your coach will haul you out and say to you, "Wipe that silly grin off your face, quit looking cross-eyed, stop walking on your heels and don't say 'Da-a-a' when somebody speaks to you."

When your coach says that, you're on your way to something worse than a psychological block. But you tried to overcome it, anyhow.

It isn't only physical punishment that can cause that block. It can emerge from acute embarrassment. I got one from a receiving line episode. I was floating along in the queue with my mind as vacant as usual. Suddenly I found myself being presented to our very distinguished host. My place was to acknowledge his greeting with a subdued and mannerly "How do you do, Sir?" Instead, and for no reason, I yelled, "Hello! Hello! Hiya? How ya doin'?" I don't know why, but I did it. And I've never been back to see the gentleman. Never been invited again, for that matter.

BLOCKS IN QUEUES

Queues and blocks seem to go together for me. Once I followed along a cafeteria line in this town, picking myself out a sumptuous luncheon as we moved from station to station. It was a lovely meal. I had to keep dabbing my chin with my hankie to stop drooling.

Just as I got to the cashier, I put my hand in my pocket and found my wallet gone. I had no money.

There must be more embarrassing experiences than going back to the waitresses at the different stations, replacing pie, soup, cold plate and rolls with the repeated explanation, "Suddenly I'm not hungry any more," and going out with a falsetto laugh. There must be, but I've never suffered them.

That gave me a block that kept me out of the place for night on a year. This week I decided to conquer it. I did. I went to the same place, picked up the same meal, paid my cheque and gulped down my food so fast I've had indigestion ever since. Still, I haven't got a psychological block on that point any more.

Mind you, there are psychological blocks and psychological blocks—some of them quite useful. Ordinarily, I like my job. It's the kind of work that pleases me. But every now and then, like everybody else, I want to walk up to the boss and tell him what he can do with the job. That's where one of my beneficial psychological blocks comes in. For some reason I never make my dramatic statement—just can't do it.

Probably that's bad for my psyche—must be an inhibition like that. Still, it keeps me eating regularly.

YOUR HEALTH

New Multiple Sclerosis Drug

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

A number of people have been asking me where they could get the Russian vaccine of Margoulis and Shouladze for multiple sclerosis. I just received a letter from Dr. Thomas L. Willman, medical director of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society of 270 Park Avenue, New York, 17, who tells me that they have had some studies made of the Russian vaccine and the results were not encouraging. Also, the Multiple Sclerosis Society has heard from research workers at Botenborg in Sweden—men who have studied the vaccine, and have not been well impressed with it. They thought it unlikely that the vaccine has any value. They said that some medical travellers who, when in Russia, visited Margoulis and Shouladze, were not impressed with what they had seen.

DRUG TO HELP BLEEDERS

I am happy to learn that one of America's fine drug houses is now producing for sale the fibrinogen fraction of human blood, for lack of which some persons with a hereditary defect in their blood-clotting mechanism, nearly bleed to death. Unfortunately, it is very expensive since the amount necessary for the treating of one patient is derived from blood taken during 25 bleedings, and the processing and testing of the material takes three months of ticklish work. But it is very good to know that this life-saving material is now available.

A RUG WITH TOYS ON IT

I often marvel when I see people come up with a new idea that no one had even thought of before. One of the problems that mothers with small children face when they go into a hospital to see someone or to be examined is that of parking one or more children. Usually hospital rules forbid their entering a sick room; the child can so easily bring in a bad virus of some kind. I was just reading that in a New York hospital some bright person put down a rug with plenty of toys on it and got some good volunteers to oversee the activities of the children placed on that rug. The women distribute the toys; they wipe noses, they dry tears, and they stop fights. Now, with the children playing on the rug, one doesn't hear the constant admonitions of "Don't touch, don't run, don't shout." There are so many things to do on the rug—what with toys, paper and scissors for cut-outs and plastics for moulding—that the children are happy. The mothers are happy because they know the children are being well cared for.

One point about such a project is that the hospital wouldn't have to buy a lot of expensive new toys. Anything that looks like a toy is likely to be fascinating if it is new to a particular child.

FOOTBALL NOT FOR YOUNG BOYS

In the opinion of the American Academy of Pediatrics—a group of physicians who specialize in the care of children—teen-age boys are not ideal subjects for football. Most persons do not know that our long bones in the legs and arms grow from two ends, called epiphyses. If one of these epiphyses should get knocked off in a football game, the bone is likely to stop growing, and that will mean a short arm or leg.

Many a boy is not built ruggedly enough to stand the severe blows he must take on the football field. Any surgeon of experience knows of boys who, in a football game, have had their spleen or a kidney torn in two. Many get their knees badly injured. Those boys who have inherited a tendency to fibrosis or arthritis are poor candidates for football teams because, with any bad blow, they are likely to be laid up for a while with painful muscles, tendons and joints.

All of this advice is probably of no value because most fathers haven't the heart to deny their sons the coveted right to play football.

Stephenson Named Chief of Sooke Volunteer Firemen

SOOKE—W. S. Stephenson was elected chief of Sooke Volunteer Fire Department at a recent meeting held in the fire hall.

New assistant chief is Jubel Wickheim, and captains are Wesley Carlow and Eric Phillips, Jr. President is L. Rumsby and secretary is Mr. Wickheim.

Mr. Stephenson said a new constitution has been adopted and that from now on elections will be held annually. Don Morrison, retiring chief, held that office for eight years with Bill Stephenson as assistant.

The department now has 24 firemen. Recently a pool table was purchased for their recreation room, made possible by donations from residents in appreciation of their services.

Mr. Stephenson says the department will sponsor a dance in the near future to augment its funds.

Last Horse Trough Vanishes From City

Last of Victoria's horse-watering troughs, where small boys of years past delighted to splash about, has just been removed.

The sole remaining relic of the horse era was on the "island" at Oak Bay Junction. It was installed as a generation ago, but has been dry as a wooden god the past 10 years.

Second-last horse trough to go the way of all horse troughs was one at the Roundabout, hoisted and dumped about 1936.

Only evidence of horses on city streets now is during the summer months operation of trolley-hos.

'Alcohol-Sick Persons' Need Aid From National Drive, Says Baptist

A strong temperance movement should be initiated across Canada to help cure "alcohol-sick citizens," Dr. John A. Linton, Toronto, told a meeting at First Baptist Church Thursday.

General secretary of the Canadian Temperance Federation and a field secretary in Ontario, he charged that Canada has done nothing for work among alcoholics.

Other countries, such as Switzerland, India and Turkey, allot government grants for such projects," he said.

"The people of the Mohammedan world (where drinking is against the religion) feel very superior to us," he said.

They say drink is a part of our whole culture—our movies, literature, poetry, even our religion."

The former Baptist minister claimed Canada has been selling

Coin Designer Otto Hahn Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Emanuel Otto Hahn, 76, German-born Toronto sculptor who designed the Canadian 25 and 10-cent pieces, died Thursday.

Mr. Hahn was born in Reutlingen, Germany, but moved to Canada in his childhood and received his early training at the Central Ontario School of Art and Design.

WILLIAMS LAKE — Father Thomas, 88, beloved pioneer missionary of the Cariboo, died at St. Joseph's Villa in Edmonton. He lived and worked among the people of this north country from the time he was first posted here in 1897.

Labor Victory in U.K. Stirs Election Demand

LONDON (Reuters) — A cabinet disturbed by Labor's by-election victory in London's North Lewisham district conferred urgently today on the causes of defeat.

The result was: Niall Macdermont, Labor—18,516.

Norman Farmer, Conservative—17,406.

Miss Leslie Greenie, Empire Loyalist—1,487.

This turned a previous Conservative majority of 3,236 votes in a straight fight against Labor into a Conservative defeat by 1,110 votes.

The standing in the Commons now is 340 Conservatives or allies in the 630-seat House with 277 Labor members, five Liberals, one Independent and seven vacancies.

Labor, jubilant over its first victory since the Conservatives returned to power in 1951, said the outcome is a demonstration of public anger over the government's plan to allow higher house rents throughout Britain. Although the issue of Britain's armed intervention in Egypt started as a key topic, it was overshadowed by the domestic controversy as the campaign developed.

TORY HOPES SHATTERED

The verdict shattered Conservative hopes that the switch from the former Eden administration to the new government of Prime Minister Macmillan already has helped restore party prestige.

The government is facing seven more by-elections, and in six contests is defending seats. Labor said the drop of more than 7 per cent in the government's share of the total North Lewisham vote, if repeated throughout the country in a general election, would bring the Opposition to power with a majority of more than 150 seats.

Both the Labor Daily Herald and the right-wing Daily Express agree a general election should be called as a result of the Labor victory.

"North Lewisham has done what the nation wants to do," the Herald says. "The by-election, fought on national issues, proves that the country wants a general election to turn this government out."

"Macmillan has been a prime minister without a mandate," The Express says. "He has only one course. He should appeal to the electors with no further delay."

Six Boys Held After Brutal Beating Of Watchman at Brannan School

The beating of a 59-year-old night watchman Sunday by inmates at Brannan Lake School for boys, near Nanaimo, is under "intensive investigation," a spokesman for the provincial health and welfare department said today.

George Bamford, victim of the attack, drove his car two miles to his home after the attack, and the next day drove to town with his wife to see a doctor.

Following medical examination he was sent to Nanaimo General Hospital for treatment of concussion and spine injuries, and according to hospital authorities his condition today is "considerably improved."

SIX HELD

Six boys inmates of the corrective institution for juveniles are being held at the school under close detention for their part in the affair.

The incident, first of its kind since the school was opened Jan. 22, 1955, was kept quiet until Thursday, when word of the attack began to spread through the up-island city.

Little has been revealed of the occurrence beyond confirmation of rowdiness at the school Sunday night, and that the RCMP have an investigation under way.

A full report had been sent to the welfare department in Victoria, according to F. G. Hassard, school superintendent.

Mr. Bamford lives in Pleasant Valley, within two and one-half miles of the school, and according to his wife "He seemed in a kind of daze and didn't know what had happened."

"He had marks on his forehead and wrists," Mrs. Bamford said today. "He's a strong guy and didn't want to give in, but after a sleepless night he drove to Nanaimo to see a doctor. The doctor sent him to the hospital."

Formerly in the truck transport business in Nanaimo, Mr. Bamford has been employed at the school for about nine months.

RADIO STILL TV TOPPER IN AUDIENCE

Radio still has the widest listening audience compared with television, Herbert Backman, general manager of station KEX, Portland, Ore., told the B.C. Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters in convention here today.

In the United States in 1956, there were 8,300,000 radio sets sold, 1,500,000 more than the previous year.

As a result of TV, radio has concentrated on improved radio shows, many with a local and personal flavor.

The 18 radio station representatives present endorsed a "library program tape" which will be heard in free time over most stations.

The tape was prepared by the B.C. Library Commission.

Thetis Zoo Plan Due for Discard

Edgelow Recommendation Follows SPCA Discussion

Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow will recommend against a zoo for the Thetis Lake area, he told the Times today following a conference with SPCA officials.

Ald. Edgelow is acting as a one-man committee, appointed by Victoria city council to investigate possibility of moving a collection of animals from Port Alberni and starting a zoo here.

At his invitation, Tom Hughes of Vancouver, executive director of the British Columbia SPCA, and W. A. Leach, president of the Victoria Branch, discussed the matter with him today.

"Their advice was to drop the whole matter unless a fund of at least five million dollars was available to make a wildlife park," Ald. Edgelow said.

THINGS OF PAST

"Mr. Hughes pointed out that zoos of the type we were considering are things of the past. From the time I was asked by council to look into the matter, I have worked closely with the SPCA. They are the experts on anything to do with animals."

"I intend to follow the advice of Mr. Hughes and Mr. Leach, and at the next council meeting, will recommend Victoria turn down the offer of Paul Hertel to move his zoo to this area."

Following the meeting with Ald. Edgelow, Mr. Hughes said "packing case zoos" are a thing of the past.

"The public doesn't like them. And certainly the animals don't like them," he said.

NATURAL SURROUNDINGS

"The modern trend is away from zoos, as we used to know them, and toward wildlife parks, where animals can roam in something approaching their natural habitat."

"To create a wildlife park which would be a tourist attraction, and an attraction for your own citizens, would require at least five million dollars."

"This is the amount sought by the Vancouver Parks Board to develop such an attraction in the Central Park area," he said.

Mr. Hughes added that the upkeep of such a park would be expensive. "There are only a few men on this continent qualified to run such an operation," he said. "And they are in a position to demand high salaries."

He pointed out that a zoo which was not adequately equipped was not only unfair to the animals, but actually brought about their deaths through inattention. "A specimen brought in at great cost can die overnight through a window being left open," he said.

Ald. Edgelow was appointed to investigate the matter early this year, and made a personal visit to the Alberni zoo before today's final conference with the SPCA.

Man Admits Retaining Stolen Goods

Douglas P. Kay, New England Hotel, pleaded guilty in city police court today to being in possession of stolen articles worth $250, taken in a break-in Tuesday night of Seventh Day Adventist Church, Pandora and Vancouver.

Taken from a utility room were a floor polisher and two vacuum cleaners and from the church welfare room a metal cash box containing $65-$70.

Kay was charged with having the polisher and vacuum, knowing them to be stolen. He was remanded to Monday for sentence.

Chimney Fire Brings $25 Fine

Saanich resident W. M. Hiron, 981 Annie, was fined $25 in Saanich court Thursday for permitting his chimney to take fire.

Fire chief Joseph Law said the chimney was so dirty it took firemen two hours to extinguish a blaze which started in the chimney.

School Discussion Planned by PTA

Central Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association will conduct a public meeting at the school auditorium Tuesday for panel discussion on the topic, "Why Our Schools Are Cheaper Today."

Moderator is Victoria alderman Hugh Ramsay and speakers are optometrist Ronald F. Jeune, school trustee Richard H. Reeve, personnel director A. C. Newton Smith and architect John H. Wade.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—How much is paid Victoria aldermen for their civic services?—P.D.T.

A.—Remuneration of $750 a year and an expense allowance of $350, making a total of $1,100 a year.

Q.—Has Dawson, Y.T., a newspaper?—M.N.

A.—Yes. That far northern publication is The Dawson News, a weekly which is independent in politics.

MONTE ROBERTS

... things which people tell me I should put in the column. ...

There was this husband, see. And his wife asked him to go out and buy a loaf of bread, see.

So two hours later, he hadn't come back. But the wife didn't worry, see.

She figured it was a long loaf he was looking for.

So My Favorite Wife received an urgent message to telephone a certain young lady whom we both know very well.

So MFW took considerable trouble and 10 cents and telephoned the young lady.

So the young lady said, the reason she had left an urgent message for MFW, she had a wonderful funny story for Monte's column.

So MFW asked what the wonderful story was, and the young lady laughed and laughed, and said she was sure Monte would be laughing, too, and so would all his constituents.

So MFW started laughing, too, and asked again what the wonderful story was, and the young lady laughed some more and said it was too bad, she had forgotten it, but she was sure Monte would be laughing and so would his constituents if only she hadn't forgotten the story.

And then there was the nine-year-old girl who lived in a household with parents and grandma and aunts and several dogs.

And one night she overheard the parents' and grandma saying that one of the aunts was going to be married.

And the little girl, later on, took grandma to one side and said:

"Is it true Auntie is going to be married?"

And grandma said, "Yes auntie is going to be married."

"Then Auntie is going to have a baby?" the little girl stated, rather than asked.

"Well, no, I don't think so," said grandma.

"Why not?" asked the little girl. "Has she been spaded?"

... no wonder I often think of trying to get into some other line of work.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Mrs. Elmer Hodgson, 1358 Hillside, gave her husband a healthy baby boy on Valentine's Day Thursday—for the second time.

The baby was born at Royal Jubilee Hospital at 11 p.m. His brother Steven was a Valentine present on the same day two years ago.

Dale Carnegie Club International will meet Monday at 7.45 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce board room in the Black Ball Terminal building.

All main roads on Vancouver Island were reported in fair condition today, with a few icy patches between Parksville and Alberni. Construction is still under way on the northern slope of the Malahat.

The ex-service women's branch of the Canadian Legion holds a rummage sale Saturday in the city market building, starting at 7.30 a.m.

All types of clothing and many other articles will be sold. Proceeds go towards legion work.

Persons wishing to donate merchandise can have it picked up by telephoning 9-2041 during the day, or 2-0567 after 5.30 p.m.

Persons who broke into coffee and barber shops at Veteran Stages, 728 Herald, about 12.50 a.m. today, stole several packages of cigarettes and caused damage to furnishings.

Entry was made by smashing a window in a rear door and releasing the lock.

Wayne Robertson of Victoria was sentenced in city court today to three months in jail on conviction for taking an auto without the owner's consent earlier in the week.

"It's too bad to see a young fellow like you in this continual round of trouble," Magistrate H. C. Hall said, in passing sentence.

Robertson was picked up by Chemainus RCMP Wednesday night driving a car stolen from in front of a View Street paint shop.

A "brush-up" course for district swim instructors or beach supervisors will be started Feb. 20 by Victoria city and district branch, Canadian Red Cross. Any persons interested in taking the course should contact Mrs. Shirley Brimblecombe, chairman of the Red Cross Water Safety Committee at 3-8373.

A special Victoria council committee on municipal sharing of costs involved in a new $1,400,000 Royal Jubilee wing will meet with the hospital board Tuesday at 9 a.m.

Acting-mayor Arthur Dowell, Ald. E. D. McEwen and city manager C. C. Wyatt will represent the city. Reeves of Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich will be present in dual capacity representing their councils and as hospital board members.

Two boys have been charged and were to appear in Oak Bay juvenile court today in conjunction with a fire Wednesday at 518 Beach.

An estimated $250 damage was sustained by an unoccupied summer house on the property when fire broke out.

Four Victoria delegates will attend the 38th annual meeting of the B.C. division, Canadian Red Cross, at Vancouver, Feb. 26 and 27.

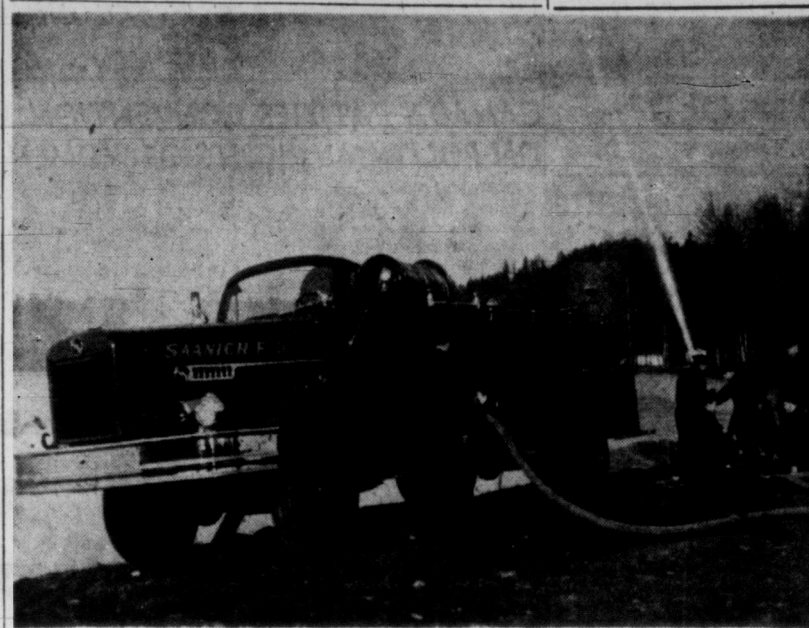

They are Dr. Olga Jardine, president, Victoria and District branch; Col. J. Q. Gillan, Denis Brown, and B. P. Alley, immediate past president. The two-day session will be opened by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross. Guest speaker will be Dr. Norman A. MacKenzie, president of UBC.

Conventions in Victoria this year will be up more than 200 per cent compared with 1956, figures assembled to date indicate.

Close to 60 conventions are scheduled, most at the Empress Hotel, which will see nearly 12,000 delegates in Victoria as visitors.

Spending of each delegate while here averages out to about $100 each.

SAANICH GETS FOUR-WHEEL DRIVE PUMPER

Saanich firemen today proudly tested new $27,000 fire truck, that will go into service immediately. Its four-wheel drive will give access to roughest terrain, also is responsible for high engine mounting that puts radiator far beyond and above front axle. It carries water tank, and pump that will deliver 840 gallons per minute. It was delivered here today from Wisconsin.

38 Overseas Missionaries Sought By Short-Handed United Church

By DINAH KERR

Canadian "apathy" and "loss of vision" has put a serious crimp in missionary work overseas, a former United Church agricultural missionary charged here today.

Dr. Kenneth Prior, newly-appointed field secretary for the board of overseas missions, contended the widespread disinterest has led to an extreme shortage of missionary workers on all fields.

He blamed the disinterest, in part, on ministers who have failed to give their congregations "up to date and accurate information" about the missionary program.

ONLY HOPE

Apart from missionaries home on furlough, the ministers are "our only hope," Dr. Prior said.

"Every church group ought to spend some time in studying our overseas work. If people are challenged they will respond."

The United Church is looking for 38 recruits, including doctors, nurses, ministers, deaconesses, agriculturalists, engineers and teachers, he said, and unless ministers and their congregations lend more support in "these important and strategic days," the work on several missionary fields will suffer.

The Toronto-based field secretary conducted a one-day conference on missions for ministers and laymen today at First United Church when he reviewed mission work in Korea, Japan, Hong Kong, Trinidad, Africa and India.

Before his appointment, he served for 18 years as an agricultural missionary in Angola and Nigeria.

SOILS POOR

African agriculture is "very backward" in most parts of the country, he said. "The soils are poor and the tools are primitive. There is a great need for instruction and experimentation."

Dr. Prior stated that agriculture in Africa is "shot through with spiritual implications," that missionaries have not entirely erased.

"Agriculture is a part of life, there," he said. "No African farmer would ever attempt to make a new farm without a blood sacrifice. The sacrifice is usually animal now. Before, it was always human."

Motorist Dies At Wheel of Car

John Youson Traffic Death Trial Ordered

Belton Frank Turner, 5021 Santa Clara, was committed for trial today in a manslaughter case arising from the death, January 5, of John William Youson, 76, 748 Esquimalt.

Preliminary hearing on the case, in which Turner was charged after his car and the deceased were in collision on Esquimalt Road, was concluded in city court Thursday.

Remanded to next Friday to set a date for a preliminary hearing for manslaughter was Herbert A. Roberts, 20, 997 Dunsuir, charged after the traffic death Nov. 16, 1956, of Mrs. Grace White, 58, 429 Quebec, at Douglas and Herald.

FOG-DIVERTED AIRLINERS LAND AT PATRICIA BAY

A trans-Pacific and two trans-continental passenger planes bound for Vancouver landed at Patricia Bay airport Thursday night when the mainland became fog-bound.

The planes were a Canadian Pacific Air Lines DC6B, a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star and a TCA Super Constellation.

The CPA plane was from Australia via Hawaii, the other two from eastern Canada. Aboard were a total of 76 passengers who were put up at a hotel here overnight.

Air service to the mainland was resumed at 9.15 a.m. today when fog cleared.

Mothers March Against Polio In Hour Blitz

Booming gun and whistles will be the signal Saturday night for 3,000 mothers to begin their march on Greater Victoria in an effort to raise $75,000 for the B.C. Polio Fund.

Send-off for the one-hour "porchlight blitz" will be the sounding of the nine o'clock gun and brewery whistle at 6.30 p.m.

At the same time, the polio drive, sponsored by 63 B.C. Kiwanis clubs, will be carried to homes throughout B.C. Provincial goal, higher this year to incorporate several new projects, is $400,000. Major portion of the money will be used to build a child rehabilitation centre in conjunction with the school of medicine at UBC, and a school of rehabilitation, also at UBC, to train badly-needed personnel.

Volunteer mothers will canvass homes in 36 districts here. Last year more than 3,000 mothers turned out to reap a total of $45,000 in donations.

Volunteers are still needed for Vancouver to Wharf Street south of View, and in View Royal from Four Mile House to Helmcken; campaign secretary Miss Beryl Wilson said today.

Mothers may phone the B.C. Polio Fund headquarters at 5-4489.

Canvassers will carry an official badge and will issue receipts for donations. The campaign, which has been started with $800 in donations from local businesses, is not expected to close until mid-March.

HOW TO LOSE GRACEFULLY

Come hail, snow, ice or high water the hat must go through, acting mayor Arthur Dowell told "ambassador plenipotentiary" John Fisher Thursday. Mr. Fisher, Canadian Travel Association director was chosen to deliver "Copper

SHOPPING GUIDE

Sugar Crystals in Colors Decorate Cakes, Desserts

By PENNY SAVER

Sugar crystals for decorating your puddings and cakes are now available in a new and colorful form. For 19 cents, you can buy a jar of either red or green crystals that will perk up the appearance of even the plainest dishes.

For soups or whipped potatoes or anything that calls for onions, the dried, shredded green onions, also in a bottle, are what you want. They come in 85-cent bottles; put out by a well-known company.

From England are the new grease-proof paper rounds that fit into your deep cake tins. They come in two sizes, and are 30 for 25 cents and 30 for 19 cents. The fluted edges and surface make removing the paper easy. Of the same type of paper are cupcake-size papers at 20 for 39 cents.

Waxed jelly dishes are six for 15 cents, and trifle or fruit trays of the same waxed material are six for 19 cents. They are patterned all over in blue, pink or green. They're just the thing for parties or for everyday use for their attractive and just the right size. When they've served their purpose, just burn them.

In vegetables this week I noticed that both cello-packed carrots and bunched carrots were down in price. You can now buy two packages or two bunches for 29 cents. Green beans are 19 cents a pound, and cauliflower, 23 cents a pound. Broccoli is down a little, now 19 cents a pound. I saw sweet potatoes at two pounds for 33 cents, and new potatoes at three pounds for a quarter.

Suey choy Chinese chard costs 19 cents, and egg plant, 25 cents a pound. For a change, try some corn on the cob. It's selling at 23 cents for three cobs. Romaine lettuce is 19 cents. For your sweet tooth, here's rhubarb at 23 cents a pound, and bananas, two pounds for 45 cents.

Here's something very new... ready-made cake fillers. To me they seem to be the epitome of something or other. No, you don't mix, stir, or cook a thing. In plastic bags come two quarter-inch rounds of marshmallow in pink, green or white. You simply dampen the surfaces of the marshmallow slabs, place them between your cakes, and there you have a delicious filling. What with cake mixes and ready-made fillings, I think that even I could bake successfully! The fillings, two per bag, are 29 cents.

Call me at 2-331 and I'll tell you where to buy any of the articles mentioned in the column.

Broiler Tuna Sandwiches

Clip this recipe for a piping hot broiler tuna sandwich. These sandwiches are ideal for "something hot" needed for light lunches or evening snacks. The same mixture placed on tiny toast rounds makes excellent hot hors d'oeuvres.

One can (7-ounces) albacore tuna, drained and flaked, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ cup chili sauce, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 8 slices bread, crusts off.

Combine spread ingredients. Toast one side of bread (use broiler for fast toasting job). Butter untoasted side. Top with tuna mixture. Place on broiler rack. Broil about 5 inches from source of heat until bubbling. Watch carefully or the sandwiches will scorch.

ARE WOMEN INTRIGUED BY THE 'FROSTING'?

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—The housewife is more interested in nicely packed produce than in its price, an economist from the University of British Columbia agriculture department said Friday.

"The consumer is sovereign in the market," E. L. Menzie told a meeting here of vegetable growers and packing-house managers. "The housewife calls the tune."

There were three roads for the grower: the one they now are on, "which is going downhill"; throw out the common selling organization and go back to the free enterprise system; stick with the interior vegetable marketing board, put in a strong manager and make it work.

He recommended that the selling organization should be strengthened and that farmers be encouraged to have larger acreages and fewer kinds of vegetables.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q.—"I have a problem. I have lost a great deal of weight. I now weigh 114 pounds and am 5 feet 3 inches tall. I have a job of fat on my upper thighs and would like an exercise to help me lose these pouches."

A.—Stand tall with your left side toward the wall and place your left hand on the wall. Raise your right leg sideways upward with a stiff knee. Lower right leg. Do not raise the leg forward but straight up at the side. Continue. After a while turn the right side toward the wall and raise and lower the left leg.

This one, too, is a favorite:

GIRL GUIDES

Cedar Hill—District commissioner, Mrs. F. G. P. Maurice, attended a meeting of Girl Guides and Brownies at Gordon Head, where she enrolled the following Brownies in the 27th Victoria Cedar Hill pack: Dorothy Watkins, Jeanette Sankey, Cheryl Druce, Eileen Smith, Brown Owl is Mrs. R. H. Hervey. Alleen Ritz "flew up" from Brownies to Guides, where Miss A. M. Williamson will be her captain. Mrs. A. McKilligan was enrolled as lieutenant in the guide company.

Clubwomen's News

Opens Tea—Mrs. Lloyd Morgan opened a tea given by the Multiple Sclerosis Society in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company, Saturday. Guests were welcomed by chairman of the local chapter, Mrs. O. H. Lambert. Proceeds amounted to $270, which will be used to further medical research to help those afflicted with Multiple Sclerosis. A display of millinery was a feature.

Pian Ridotto—Members of the Auxiliary to Family and Children's Service made plans for a spring ridotto at a recent meeting. Children from Seven Oaks Foster Home were taken to the Ice Cycles as guests of J. Dukowski and the auxiliary provided treats for them. Music lessons will be provided for a foster girl. Gifts will be sent to a former foster girl now on the mainland.

CANADA RATIFIES CONVENTION ON POLITICAL RIGHTS OF WOMEN

The Canadian delegation to the 11th session of the United Nations General Assembly announced this week Canada's decision to accede to the convention on the political rights of women.

The instrument of accession will be deposited with the secretary-general of the United Nations in New York.

The convention was adopted by the General Assembly at its seventh session in 1952. It came into force on July 7, 1954. Canada will be the 24th country to have ratified or acceded to the convention. Eighteen other countries have signed but not yet ratified it.

Nurses Meet In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Nursing education and a pension plan for nurses are slated for discussion at a three-day meeting of the Canadian Nurses Association's executive committee that started here yesterday.

Headed by CNA president Treanna Hunter of Vancouver, the 35-member committee also will study plans for the association's 50th anniversary convention to be held here June 23-27, 1958.

Lebanon Said Ready to Take Hanna

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says Lebanese officials have promised to readmit Christian George Hanna to their country if he is denied entry to Canada.

The newspaper says Lebanon would ask only that an affidavit be signed by the captain of the Norwegian freighter Gudveig stating that Hanna stowed away while the ship was in Beirut 17 months ago.

Project Area Open to Mine Claims

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said in an interview today anyone who wishes can prospect and stake claims in approximately 85 per cent of the Wenner-Gren development area in Northern British Columbia. Excluded is prospecting for iron and manganese, which are under province-wide reserve.

British Atom Power Output to Zoom

VANCOUVER (CP)—Atomic power output in Britain will reach 5,000,000 horsepower in electrical energy by 1965, the United Nations Association was told here Thursday.

David Brower, regional information officer for the United Kingdom Information Service, said many atomic-powered projects are already feeding electricity into public power lines in Britain.

U.S. Entry Wins The Pas Dog Derby

Trail Sports Editor Attacked

TRAIL (CP)—Sports editor Ivor McLaren of the Trail Times said today he was attacked by Smoke Eater executive member Louis Demore Thursday night after entering the hockey club's dressing room to get pictures.

The Smokies had just defeated Spokane Flyers to move into a tie with them for first place in the Western International Hockey League.

McLaren said he was ordered out of the room once by Demore and left, but later reconsidered and re-entered. Demore, who packs almost 300 pounds on his five-foot-seven frame, attacked him, McLaren said.

Socreds Charged With McCarthyism

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Harris said today the Social Credit Party is tinged with McCarthyism. Speaking at the opening session of the Canadian University Liberal Federation convention, he criticized the party for its opposition to the proposed Canada Council in the Commons.

Truman Expectant Grandfather

NEW YORK (AP)—Clifton Daniel said today he and his wife, the former Margaret Truman, are expecting a child "about July."

Daniel, a member of the New York Times staff, said his wife is getting along "fine."

They were married April 21, 1956.

BAIL SET AT $10,000
FOR HOLD-UP SUSPECT

Bank robber suspect Barry Irwin Keele, 26, of Victoria, was granted $10,000 bail and remanded without plea today to appear Monday in city police court.

He is charged with the armed hold-up last Monday of Canadian Bank of Commerce James Bay branch, from which $3,000 was taken.

Bail bond was not expected to be filed before next week.

A second suspect, detained after Keele was arrested in his company early Thursday in Saanich, was released after questioning by city detectives. Lawyer J. Ronald Grant represented Keele.

HALIFAX—A navy tug helping to moor the aircraft carrier Magnificent on its return from Europe was capsized and sunk today by a line attached to the carrier.

Two men lost their lives. Seven were rescued by other tugs.

The accident occurred opposite the navy's dockyard in Halifax's north end where the Angus L. MacDonald bridge connects Halifax and Dartmouth.

The Magnificent arrived in port about 6.30 a.m. PST probably for the last time, after a rough-and-tumble trip across the Atlantic.

Part of her starboard bow was battered in during the trip but her deck load of 49 Sabre jets escaped with a salt water drenching.

About a dozen light floats had been washed overboard by high-running seas that destroyed one motor cutter, damaged two others and a steel barge used for in-shore work.

The jets, 49 of them on the deck and 11 in below-deck hangars, were brought here from Glasgow, after service in Europe with the RCAF. They will be taken to an aircraft plant at nearby Eastern Passage.

The Magnificent is scheduled to return to the Royal Navy and will be replaced by HMCS Bonaventure, now on trials out of Belfast.

'Expenditure'
Key to B.C.
Plan—Harris

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Harris said today impact of a reported big development program in central British Columbia on the national economy would depend on the rate of expenditure.

"Until we know when it is proposed to proceed with the development one could not express any intelligent opinion as to the possible effect on the economy," he told Colin Cameron (CCF-Nanaimo) in the Commons.

Mr. Harris said he doesn't know whether there is anything substantial about the reports. There was much untapped wealth in British Columbia and the government welcomed foreign capital for developing Canadian resources. But effect on the national economy would depend on rate of expenditure on such a project.

'Bad Character'—Gregory

Victoria Liberal George Gregory, who termed Wenner-Gren a "bad character," said:

"I have the most serious doubts as to whether this project is truly in the best interests of British Columbia."

The hottest words came from CCFer Tohy Gargrave who said the scheme was "a minerals grab with the railway thrown in as a gimmick."

Mr. Gargrave said he doubted the 400-mile monorail railroad the firm has agreed to start by 1960 will ever be built.

The government should spend $5,000,000 itself to survey the area and should extend the

Stalinist in Key Job
After Sudden Switch

(From UP and CP Dispatches)

MOSCOW—The Soviet Union dropped Dmitri Shepilov as foreign minister today after only nine months in office—the nine months of Hungary and Poland.

Andrei Gromyko was promoted to replace him.

Action was taken following a secret meeting of the Soviet Communist Party central committee Wednesday and Thursday.

Shepilov, 51-year-old former editor of the Communist party organ Pravda, replaced V. M. Molotov only last June. Gromyko was first deputy to both.

Shepilov now becomes one of the eight secretaries of the Communist party central committee under party chief Nikita Khrushchev.

The official Tass News Agency announcement of Shepilov's removal gave no reason. It said only that he was transferred to other work.

Gromyko is regarded as a Stalinist.

He rose to prominence in the Soviet hierarchy under former foreign minister V. M. Molotov.

Nikolai Patolichev replaces Gromyko. Patolichev has been deputy foreign minister since July. He is a member of the Communist party Central Committee.

Gromyko is 47 and grew up in the Soviet foreign service under Stalin. He is regarded by western diplomats as a tough bargainer.

Gromyko knows the West well.

He served as Soviet ambassador in Washington from 1943 to 1946 and then as the permanent Soviet representative in the United Nations Security Council.

In 1952-53 he was ambassador to Britain.

Earlier this week, Shepilov, 52, called for a Middle East agreement among the Big Four powers. In his term as foreign minister, he travelled extensively.

He was known as a leading champion of a vigorous Soviet policy in the Middle East.

Gromyko is a career diplomat who has been close to Molotov through the post-war period. He became as well known as Molotov for repeatedly saying "no" to Western proposals in the United Nations.

Square-jawed, unsmiling and rarely ruffled, Gromyko lacks the

Shepilov's last major task was the launching of the new Soviet "hands off" doctrine for the Middle East.

Shepilov had been regarded as the leading Communist spokesman on foreign policy even before he was named to replace Molotov.

Since his appointment Tito's relations with the Soviet Union again became strained. Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal and war burst in the Middle East.

Revolution wracked Hungary and Poland threw off its Stalinist leadership.

RUM POPSICLES FROZEN OUT

Sacred Flays Gov't
On Liquor Profits

Cyril Shelford's rum pop-sicle business is "on the rocks."

What put it there? The government's increase in liquor prices last fall.

The genial Social Credit member for Omineca, who never hesitates to castigate the government when he thinks it needs it, explained the situation to a highly amused legislature Thursday.

Last year Mr. Shelford brought the House down with a story of how a couple of bottles of rum froze in the trunk of his car during sub-zero weather in his far north riding, and his only recourse was to make popsicles.

This year, what with the increased prices, it just isn't profitable.

He hoped the Attorney-General would take a "second look" at the decision to boost prices.

The distillers should be told, Mr. Shelford said, that unless they reduce the price the Liquor Control Board would cancel all orders and import all liquor from outside the province.

Both the distillers and LCB hiked liquor prices "when it looked like they were making out all right and we were too." Both reported record profits.

And don't think that increasing the price will stop people drinking, Mr. Shelford said.

"It won't. It will only take more money away from the families of those that do."

Mr. Shelford clinched his argument by saying that now he can understand why there is such a fight over B.C.'s water resources: "If you will divide up last year's profit of the Liquor Control Board you will find that the water contents were sold for $14,430,000 (of profit) and the alcohol contents for $7,700,000."

"In fact with that much water in the liquor I don't see how these Vancouver police sniffing stations can ever detect any liquor on anyone's breath."

Sacred Cyril Shelford: "The water's worth more than the alcohol."

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Gunderson Caught With Directorship Showing—Gregory

Temper erupted in the legislature Thursday for the first time since the session opened and the clash of viewpoints over the multi-million dollar development plan for northern B.C. produced scenes reminiscent of the famous all-night sitting on the Sommers case last year.

But the battle, which lasted until two minutes after midnight, was also peppered with humorous sallies and rapid-fire exchanges of wit.

"Einar Gunderson has been caught with his directorship showing," quipped George Gregory, Liberal member for Victoria, in a criticism of Mr. Gunderson's association with the Wenner-Gren company.

The House laughed explosively, as if surprised at hearing this sort of thing from one of its most serious legislators.

The next rally came from Bob Strachan, leader of the CCF Opposition, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston (envied for his equanimity) assured the House they would see the full fruits of the northern project in four years time.

"You'd better call another election next year just in case," urged Mr. Strachan. "Remember you launched the PGE with the last one."

Watered Whisky Worries Northern Member

Earlier in the day, the House heard a dissertation on watered whisky from lanky Cyril Shelford from Omnica, one of the original members of the Soerod government.

He complained that in spite of the recent price increase approved by the government, contemporary whisky was compounded of 35 per cent alcohol and 65 per cent water.

Mr. Shelford had the temerity to ask that these figures be reversed.

"I don't see how the police, when they set up these sniffling stations of theirs, can tell whether a driver has been drinking whisky or water," he said.

Premier Shows Flash Temper to House

A flash of temper by Premier Bennett touched off the first night sitting of the session.

IN NANAIMO

Judge's Wig Solution For Drafts?

NANAIMO—Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane expressed regrets, but not many—at the fact the Assize Court concluded Thursday will be the last to meet in the old court house.

At the end of the sitting, Crown counsel A. G. McCulloch said the new federal building now nearing completion likely will be in ready for the next assizes.

"I would like to bring the fact to your worship's attention that you are the last judge to preside in this court," he said.

"In many ways I regret that we will no longer hold court here," Mr. Justice Macfarlane said. "I've come here for 14 years, but I am glad to get away from these drafty windows."

"I caught cold and laryngitis last week, and swore then that I would borrow someone's wig and wear it. But I am happy to hear of the new accommodation," he said.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane was unable to preside at the first three cases heard because of his laryngitis attack.

The present court house was built in 1885, and the large new addition at the rear is expected to be fully occupied by late summer. Some offices in the new wing already are occupied.

U.K. to Cut NATO Troops By 30,000

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP)—Britain formally told her NATO allies on Thursday she must cut the number of British troops in Western Germany.

A strained economy and a new nuclear concept of military strategy lay behind the move, details of which are still secret. But it is reported the measures will reduce the number of British troops in Germany to about 50,000 from the present 80,000.

Britain's decision was announced as French Defence Minister Maurice Bourges-Maunory arrived in London and told reporters that France too desires to streamline her military set-up.

NATO CHIEF OPPOSED

Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme allied commander in Europe, opposed the proposed defence cuts as "dangerous."

Sandys who returned a short while ago from the United States were reported to have convinced American officials of the need to revamp the British military setup.

The British decision to change the pattern of her military program went simultaneously to the Atlantic Treaty members in Paris, the permanent council of the Western European Union in London and West German Foreign Minister Von Brentano in Bonn.

Britain's 80,000 troops now in West Germany are in three armored divisions and one infantry division. Speculation has been that she would cut the number to 50,000 but seek to maintain present firepower by streamlining the divisions and adding weapons obtained from the U.S.

The first British steps likely will be the cut in manpower—with universal conscription replaced by a form of selective service.

But Sandys has said the changeover will not come overnight despite talk in the British press of ballistic missiles and guided rockets.

Girl, 14, Murders 4-Year-Old Brother

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters)—A 15-year-old girl was found guilty of murdering her four-year-old brother here Thursday and ordered to be sent to a reformatory. The prosecution said the girl had put insecticide into sugar and cocoa drunk by her brother.

Passmore Balks On Joint Hall

Proposal Called 'Non-Essential' By Councillor in Clash With Ash

Victoria-Saanich committeemen Thursday advanced planning toward joint municipal hall construction and integration of some municipal services despite a spoke-in-the-wheel move by Saanich Councillor Leslie Passmore.

"A majority of people in Saanich are not in favor of a joint hall," he stated.

Saanich voters in a December referendum registered 2,154 yes votes and 919 no votes on the question of whether the two municipalities should continue studies of possible construction of a joint municipal hall.

Coun. Passmore pointed out there were three questions to be voted on—building of an addition to the present hall, building a new hall or continuing city-Saanich talks.

He said 796 voters favored a new hall in Saanich, 1,543 favored an addition, and these together totalled more than the 2,154 who voted for the joint hall.

Joint Municipal Hall Non-Essential

He said he felt a joint hall was a non-essential, and fire chiefs will also be on hand.

The two Saanich members argued again when Coun. Passmore pointed out Saanich was entitled to three delegates to the joint hall committee. Since the resignation of Coun. T. P. O'Neill, there were only two.

The reeve said a third member would be appointed following by-elections to be held March 9.

"Someone who has never been on council before and does not know what it's all about," asked Coun. Passmore.

"I know you don't look kindly on us greenhorns, as you call us," said the reeve, "but if someone who approaches it with some common sense..."

Ald. Dowell interrupted with a request discussions of integration of services get underway.

"We both have equipment which is used only 50 per cent of the time."

Coun. Passmore also objected that all sites so far recommended for a joint hall had been located in the city.

"Aren't we anticipating the heaviest growth in Saanich?" "We might be glad to have it in Saanich—to avoid having more tax-free lands in the city," joked Victoria's Ald. Austin Curtis.

Veteran CBC Radio, TV Figure Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Dick MacDougall, veteran radio and television personality best known for his early-evening CBC TV show, Tabloid, died early today from his second heart attack in five weeks. He was 41.

Death came at his home in nearby Richmond Hill.

His wife, Evelyn, appeared on Tabloid Thursday night together with the wives of other long-standing personalities on the show. She remarked how happy she and the children were over his apparent recovery from the first seizure.

Four children also survive—Ina, 16; Sandra, 13; Ian, 10; and Donald, six.

Rea Buys 21% Share In City's CHEK-TV

Former New Westminster radio station owner, William Rea, has purchased a 21 per cent interest in CHEK-TV from Station president Dave Armstrong will take over as manager Charles R. White, it was announced Thursday.

Mr. Rea was the only opponent in application for Victoria's TV licence.

The sale, for an undisclosed amount, is subject to approval of the CBC board of governors and the federal transport department.

Other shareholders are Mr. Armstrong, who holds the majority, and Dr. Martin Mathison, New Westminster.

DEBATE

Questions, Answers in House Debate

PGE through northern B.C. to the Yukon.

The night sitting, first of the session, was precipitated by the CCF.

At the start of the afternoon sitting, Mr. Strachan proposed that the House adjourn the Throne Speech debate and take up a full discussion of the development plan.

He was ruled out of order by

Speaker Thomas Irwin, who was upheld by the government in a vote.

Later in the course of his speech fledgling CCF member Gordon Dowling of Burnaby moved that:

"This House regrets that matters arising out of disclosures by the lands and forests minister... were not disclosed in the Speech from the Throne."

Premier Jumps to Defence

That brought the Premier leaping to his feet.

"Members of this House know full well you cannot explain matters of this nature in the Speech from the Throne," he said. "It was kept secret so that members of this House could be the first to be informed."

After a brief defence of government dealing with the Wenner-Gren interests, the premier called a night sitting to stage the debate.

At the conclusion of the night session the CCF amendment to the Throne Speech reply, which amounted to a motion of no-confidence in the government, was defeated 37-11 in a recorded vote.

All the CCF members voted for the amendment, supported by Independent Labor member Thomas Uphill of Fernie and Liberal George Gregory. The other Liberal member of the House, P. A. Gibbs of Oak Bay, was absent because of illness.

No Deals, No Giveaways—Premier

Premier Bennett denied the Wenner-Gren interests had been given any special privileges.

In a charged voice he said: "There are no deals. There are no concessions. There are no giveaways."

Then, shooting a fiery glance at the Opposition group:

"If this is true—and it is—how can you be against it? I challenge you to vote against it."

acceptance of the Wenner-Gren post, Premier Bennett said, "if Mr. Gunderson wanted to help these people out in Canada, what's wrong with that?"

"And if there is any conflict of interest he will resign one or the other or both. He's that kind of man."

Mr. Gunderson is not financial advisor to the government any more, the premier said, and when he was it was just in the field of federal-provincial relations.

Just before sitting down, the premier repeated "there are no deals of any kind and there will be none as long as I am premier of this province."

"I assure you there won't be," he urged the Opposition to "rise above partisanship and carping criticism and give support to this project."

The premier said of Mr. Gunderson: "There is no finer man in British Columbia tonight."

Mr. Gunderson, "a great Canadian," has been the victim of "snide remarks," Mr. Bennett said.

The premier said he had sought out Mr. Gunderson for help when the Social Credit administration was about to be formed in the province in 1952.

"Ever since that day he has had nothing but ridicule and criticism. Now they're starting to smear him again."

The premier described Mr. Gunderson as a "real Canadian" and "a brilliant man."

"I am proud to be able to stand here for him," Mr. Bennett said.

Referring to Mr. Gunderson's

Turning to Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren, backer of the billion-dollar plan, the premier said critics were "trying to smear a great industrialist."

The opposition was attacking personalities, "while we fight our elections on principles—and the people have given their answer," the premier declared.

The premier also turned his fire on CCF member Dowling.

In the course of his speech, Mr. Dowling said the plan had been "conceived at a cocktail party" attended in London a few years ago by B.C. Agent-General W. A. McAdam and a Wenner-Gren director.

"I didn't take kindly to the snide remark made about the agent-general," the premier said. "Mr. McAdam is a man who has served this province well."

The agent-general "took the responsibility of introducing these people to us."

"When you criticize these people you are criticizing the judgment of Mr. McAdam."

CNR Interested in Buying PGE

The premier said the announcement of the scheme had caused great interest in the PGE.

"Today common shares which you couldn't get a dollar for a few years ago now are worth millions of dollars."

The premier said CNR president Donald Gordon had told him during conferences last week he knew the PGE wasn't for sale.

"But if you ever come to the time you want to sell," the premier quoted Mr. Gordon as saying, "let me know as president of the CNR. Just give us a chance to buy it."

Mr. Bennett said that "never has there been such action" as that taken so rapidly by the Wenner-Gren interests.

"And we haven't given them a single thing."

The reserve on land and timber described in the memorandum of intention "was not made in their name, but in the name of the people of B.C."

"People ask why they can't go in. Well, I ask what's been holding them back for the last 1,000 years."

"If Consolidated Mining and Smelting or any other firm thought great riches were there why didn't they go in before?"

The premier criticized opposition members for their lack of vision.

"This government has courage. That's perhaps why it has luck."

His voice softening, the premier said:

"I don't blame the Opposition, the newspapers, and the public for being suspicious."

"They're used to these land deals. They want to know 'is it really true.'"

"I can tell them it really is true."

Mr. Strachan charged that the memorandum of intention is "to all intents a binding agreement to grant a forest management licence—despite an agreement not to issue any more until after the Sloan Report is received."

"This is an insult to the Chief Justice of British Columbia," he said.

The CCF is the only party in B.C. "that has clean hands when it comes to resources," Mr. Strachan said.

"The CCF was right about Alcan and the premier was wrong there and on the Kaiser deal."

"Who's to say he's not wrong again?"

Mr. Strachan charged that the premier resented the very existence of the Opposition in the House.

"But no matter how often the premier calls us carping critics, we will continue to carry out our duties as members of Her Majesty's loyal Opposition," the CCF leader said.

The premier had failed to give the answers to the people, he said.

Mr. Strachan claimed that under the memorandum of intention the government would get the results of only the water resources survey from the Wenner-Gren interests.

Mr. Williston retorted that the government would get the information from all the surveys.

COMPANY TOURS

Mr. Strachan said it was inept in an agreement of this type that there will be company tours.

"The premier didn't say how he could prevent company tours and under what authority."

The premier's eagerness to accept the Wenner-Gren proposal "indicates he thinks it's

CCF leader Robert Strachan listed a number of questions during Thursday night's debate which he wanted the government to answer about the Wenner-Gren agreement.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston replied to some of the questions in the course of his rebuttal later.

QUESTION: Who made the first approach and who asked whom who could have northern British Columbia?

ANSWER: The scheme originated in England when a young engineer-architect saw the possibilities of developing the northern B.C. area. He consulted with B.C. agent-general in London, W. A. McAdam, and subsequently worked out a plan without the assistance of any capital or financial interests. Later Mr. McAdam and his advisors looked around for some group that might be interested in the project outlined, and this came to the attention of Bernard Gore, London representative of the Wenner-Gren interests.

QUESTION: Is this agreement binding on both parties and do both parties put the same interpretation on it?

ANSWER: It is binding on both parties, but all plans of development suggested by the company must be satisfactory to the B.C. government before any action whatsoever proceeds.

QUESTION: Has the federal government been approached to discuss these proposals?

ANSWER: Not directly, but we have comments from two ministers of the Crown saying that, if the interests of B.C. and its resources are properly safeguarded, it will be a wonderful development for this province and all of Canada.

too big for them and they want to get it off their hands," he said.

Mr. Gregory said the only consideration of any importance was whether or not the scheme was good for British Columbia.

"If it is a good one, it deserves support from all sides, even though the credit would go to the government."

Mr. Gregory said the memorandum of intention implied that Wenner-Gren, in exchange for an undertaking to spend at least $5,000,000 in developing the scheme, had had a reserve placed for his benefit on almost 40,000 square miles of B.C.'s northland, containing untold natural wealth.

"The flaw in the arrangement, from B.C.'s viewpoint, was that as long as Wenner-Gren has a reserve for his company's benefit, no one else will have an adequate opportunity, if any opportunity at all, to explore and ascertain the true value of the natural resources in the area under reserve."

"The result will inevitably be that, when competitive tenders are called, the only person who will be in possession of evidence as to the true value of these resources will be Wenner-Gren himself."

"Under these circumstances, it is self-evident that the prices offered will be no more than technically competitive."

Mr. Gregory said he was "not happy" concerning Einar Gunderson's association with the Wenner-Gren Development Company.

COUNSEL SOUGHT

"It seems he just happens to have been around when a witness was required for this memorandum of intention. And I think the only reasonable conclusion that can be drawn is that his counsel was sought concerning the whole scheme."

Mr. Gregory said it appeared that Mr. Gunderson had not disclosed interest in the Wenner-Gren organization either to the premier or the lands and forests minister.

"I don't like Mr. Gunderson's associations with the Wenner-Gren company," Mr. Gregory continued.

"I don't like Wenner-Gren or what he stands for, and I have the most serious doubts as to whether this project is truly in the best interests of British Columbia."

QUESTION: Why was the announcement made at this time?

ANSWER: The project was disclosed at the first opportunity when a policy address could be given by a government member.

QUESTION: Is it advisable to handle our resources in this way?

ANSWER: Four years from now (at the next election) the things we are talking about tonight will be accomplished fact and the people will be able to judge whether we are right or wrong. We are not ashamed to stand and be judged on the record of the job we intend to do.

QUESTION: What does the province receive in return for its natural resources?

ANSWER: It expects a railroad will be provided enabling all enterprisers to go up there and establish themselves in the area. We shall get taxes from the railroad, from the industries that are established and the resources that will be developed. We expect to provide jobs not only for the people of B.C. but for Canadians everywhere.

Four other questions asked by Mr. Strachan were not answered specifically by Mr. Williston in his address. They were:

1. What promises verbal or otherwise were made to the principals regarding prior claim on the resources?
2. What effect will this agreement have on companies already established in British Columbia?
3. What is the extent of the natural resources involved?
4. What does the agreement do to the province?

Mr. Williston stated that no one in the area at the present time had any claim, any stake or any interest in the resources available.

"At the moment we do not know what future tenure and organization of timber management will take place. But we intend that it shall be controlled by the statutes and regulations of the province."

Mr. Williston said the present inventory of forestry resources in the area was based on aerial photography since no one had ever explored it on the ground.

FIRE DAMAGE

"Experts who flew over the area told us much of the timber had been damaged by fire. For that reason we need transportation so that fire-fighters can go in there and protect our resources."

Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East) said British Columbia was becoming "a haven" for big corporations who were trying to control its resources "forever and a day."

"We of the CCF are in favor of industrial development, but we are skeptical about the future of this plan under an organization of this kind. 'We don't want any more industrial kingdoms in this province.'"

Rising to support the government, W. J. Asselstine (SC-Atlin) predicted the project would advance British Columbia's development by at least 50 years.

He recalled that B.C.'s hemlock was rapidly becoming a waste product when the Alaska Pine Company came into B.C. and introduced a method of curing and marketing the hemlock.

"Many would have stopped that company from coming into this province, just as they are trying to keep out the Wenner-Gren interests today," Mr. Asselstine declared.

He said he was satisfied with the premier's assurance there would be no company towns in the area.

"His word is good enough for me—he has never broken it yet," the Atlin member said.

John Squire (CCF-Alberni) called the premier's speech a "tirade" and accused him of attempting to intimidate opposition members from speaking out by accusations of "smear."

"This is a nice deal," Mr. Squire said, "in fact it's so good they don't intend to keep it."

The government should not attempt to industrialize the province "overnight," he said.

UNDER UMBRELLA

Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) charged the Wenner-Gren interests were going into the area "under an umbrella."

"Other companies in B.C. cannot get the same protection and reserves," he said.

"You can read any amount of interpretations into this agreement," Mr. Nimsick said.

"These agreements live out premiers and governments," he warned, "and you have to abide by them for all time to come."

Mr. Gargrave said the government "had been taken in before," and mentioned the Kaiser deal of a few years ago.

BRIBERY CHARGES

"And there have been charges of bribery in the department of lands and forests that have never been cleared up to the satisfaction of the people."

The government was giving Wenner-Gren — "a man you don't even know"—two years in the area while everybody else is kept out."

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said there has been no development whatsoever in the area to date.

"Not a single mineral operation is recorded there," he said.

To have the area developed, it is first necessary to have transportation. The government was limited in its ability to find capital for such a large undertaking, Mr. Kiernan said.

"The project is neither more nor less than what is contained in the letter of intent," he said.

VALUABLE DEBATE

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who brought the sitting to an end at midnight, said it had been a "historic debate and a valuable one for the province."

He said the government had concluded the preliminary agreement was a good one "only after very careful consideration."

"Until concrete plans are put forward not one inch of this province will be alienated to anyone," Mr. Bonner said. "We have preserved freedom for the province to examine every proposal."

With that the House moved to a vote on Mr. Dowling's amendment and it was defeated 37-11.

The House was adjourned at two minutes past midnight.

Canada Proposes UNEF Expansion

OTTAWA (CP) — Far-reaching Canadian proposals, involving the possible addition of naval or air components to the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East, are under discussion in New York, it was learned today.

Canada already has about 1,100 administrative and service troops in the force, dispatched to help restore peace to the area.

Under the new Canadian proposals the UN would maintain either air or sea patrols, or both, to meet Israel's insistence upon freedom of navigation through the Gulf of Aqaba, a southern approach to the Suez Canal.

Canada is said to have expressed willingness to supply naval or air components, or both, should the idea prove acceptable.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States, Britain, France and Norway have agreed on a temporary arrangement for the Suez Canal but Egypt firmly refuses to take any action, diplomatic sources reported here today.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Victoria District Notes -- A Centennial Pack -- Cubs receiving "first" year service under the chairmanship of Lt. Col. R. Girard was held at headquarters, 1034 Johnson St., Wednesday. R. Ken Jordan, provincial executive commissioner, addressed the meeting outlining the duties of district scouts visiting packs and troops.

Those receiving "second" year service were Andy Dehoog, Nelson Meershaw, Keith Taylor, Gerry Bains, Robert McDonald and Glen Cunningham.

Tillicum Group -- A going-up ceremony was held recently when Brian Tulloch and David Neilson went on to the troop. Glen Parrett and Ron Wilson were invested as Sixers and Bruce Bennett and Ken Sainsbury as "seconds." Team-players badges went to Ron Wilson, Bowles and Ken Black and house orderly to Ken Black.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Mary K. Owens, 14, Seattle, Wash., for her question:

Who Is Andy?

When somebody tells you a tall tale, he may warn you to take it with a pinch of salt. He means, enjoy the fanciful nonsense, but use a pinch of common sense before believing it as fact. Today, says Andy, you need a pinch of salt. For the old fellow hates to be interviewed. He warns you that he will try to get away with as much nonsense as possible.

In the first place, Andy claims to be a pixie of the pooka clan. He claims to be as old as the hills. Or at any rate as old as a small hill in Ireland where he used to live. In Ireland, he says, the people have the proper attitude towards pixies. The pooka clan has always been able to keep up its contacts with human beings.

For long ages, Andy's job was answering the questions of the younger people. He helped them to Long Division and could tell how many hairs on this or that dog. He enjoyed his work very much. Then those wonderful old style questions began to change.

His friends asked: What are atoms? How does an electromagnet work? Is there life on Mars? At first he thought they were kidding him. But no, they were serious. The Age of Science had arrived and naturally there were a billion new-style questions about it. In fact, people became more curious about everything, new and old alike.

Andy admits he was baffled. He didn't know the answers. If he tried to bluff, his friends would stop asking him questions. So he had to find those new, tricky answers or lose his job. He soon discovered that the Age of Science was most advanced in America. So, in order to get to the root of the matter, our pooka emigrated. He hoisted his mushroom onto a flying carpet, packed a pocket knife, some string and some postage stamps and landed in Cambridge, Mass.

For a number of years, our Andy studied and attended classes all over the land. He read every big book about the Age of Science he could find--

DEBATE Questions, Answers in House Debate

PGE through northern B.C. to the Yukon.

The night sitting, first of the session, was precipitated by the CCF.

At the start of the afternoon sitting, Mr. Strachan proposed that the House adjourn the Throne Speech debate and take up a full discussion of the development plan.

He was ruled out of order by

Speaker Thomas Irwin, who was upheld by the government in a vote.

Later in the course of his speech fledgling CCF member Gordon Dowding of Burnaby moved that:

"This House regrets that matters arising out of disclosures by the lands and forests minister... were not disclosed in the Speech from the Throne."

Premier Jumps to Defence

That brought the Premier leaping to his feet.

"Members of this House know full well you cannot explain matters of this nature in the Speech from the Throne," he said. "It was kept secret so that members of this House could be the first to be informed."

After a brief defence of government dealing with the Wenner-Gren interests, the premier called a night sitting to stage the debate.

At the conclusion of the night session the CCF amendment to the Throne Speech reply, which amounted to a motion of no-confidence in the government, was defeated 37-11 in a recorded vote.

All the CCF members voted for the amendment, supported by Independent Labor member Thomas Uphill of Fernie and Liberal George Gregory. The other Liberal member of the House, P. A. Gibbs of Oak Bay, was absent because of illness.

No Deals, No Giveaways—Premier

Premier Bennett denied the Wenner-Gren interests had been given any special privileges.

In a charged voice he said: "There are no deals. There are no concessions. There are no giveaways."

Then, shooting a fiery glance at the Opposition group:

"If this is true—and it is—how can you be against it? I challenge you to vote against it."

Just before sitting down, the premier repeated "there are no deals of any kind and there will be none as long as I am premier of this province."

"I assure you there won't be," he urged the Opposition to "rise above partisanship and carping criticism and give support to this project."

The premier said of Mr. Gunderson: "There is no finer man in British Columbia tonight."

Mr. Gunderson, "a great Canadian," has been the victim of "snide remarks," Mr. Bennett said.

The premier said he had sought out Mr. Gunderson for help when the Social Credit administration was about to be formed in the province in 1952.

"Ever since that day he has had nothing but ridicule and criticism. Now they're starting to smear him again."

The premier described Mr. Gunderson as a "real Canadian" and "a brilliant man."

"I am proud to be able to stand here for him," Mr. Bennett said.

Referring to Mr. Gunderson's

acceptance of the Wenner-Gren post, Premier Bennett said, "If Mr. Gunderson wanted to help these people out in Canada, what's wrong with that?"

"And if there is any conflict of interest he will resign one or the other or both. He's that kind of man."

Mr. Gunderson is not financial advisor to the government any more, the premier said, and when he was it was just in the field of federal-provincial relations.

Turning to Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren, backer of the billion-dollar plan, the premier said critics were "trying to smear a great industrialist."

The opposition was attacking personalities, "while we fight our elections on principles—and the people have given their answer," the premier declared.

The premier also turned his fire on CCF member Dowding. In the course of his speech, Mr. Dowding said the plan had been "conceived at a cocktail party" attended in London a few years ago by B.C. Agent General W. A. McAdam and a Wenner-Gren director.

"I didn't take kindly to the snide remark made about the agent-general," the premier said. "Mr. McAdam is a man who has served this province well."

The agent-general "took the responsibility of introducing these people to us."

"When you criticize these people you are criticizing the judgment of Mr. McAdam."

CCF leader Robert Strachan listed a number of questions during Thursday night's debate which he wanted the government to answer about the Wenner-Gren agreement.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston replied to some of the questions in the course of his rebuttal later.

Questions and paraphrases of Mr. Williston's answers follow:

QUESTION: Who made the first approach and who asked whom who could have northern British Columbia?

ANSWER: The scheme originated in England when a young engineer-architect saw the possibilities of developing the northern B.C. area. He consulted with B.C. agent-general in London, W. A. McAdam, and subsequently worked out a plan without the assistance of any capital or financial interests. Later Mr. McAdam and his advisors looked around for some group that might be interested in the project outlined, and this came to the attention of Bernard Gore, London representative of the Wenner-Gren interests.

QUESTION: Is this agreement binding on both parties and do both parties put the same interpretation on it?

ANSWER: It is binding on both parties, but all plans of development suggested by the company must be satisfactory to the B.C. government before any action whatsoever proceeds.

QUESTION: Has the federal government been approached to discuss these proposals?

ANSWER: Not directly, but we have comments from two ministers of the Crown saying that, if the interests of B.C. and its resources are properly safeguarded, it will be a wonderful development for this province and all of Canada.

too big for them and they want to get it off their hands," he said.

Mr. Gregory said the only consideration of any importance was whether or not the scheme was good for British Columbia.

"If it is a good one, it deserves support from all sides, even though the credit would go to the government."

Mr. Gregory said the memorandum of intention implied that Wenner-Gren, in exchange for an undertaking to spend at least $5,000,000 in developing the scheme, had had a reserve placed for his benefit on almost 40,000 square miles of B.C.'s northland, containing untold natural wealth.

"The flaw in the arrangement, from B.C.'s viewpoint, was that as long as Wenner-Gren has a reserve for his company's benefit, no one else will have an adequate opportunity, if any opportunity at all, to explore and ascertain the true value of the natural resources in the area under reserve."

"The result will inevitably be that, when competitive tenders are called, the only person who will be in possession of evidence as to the true value of these resources will be Wenner-Gren himself."

"Under these circumstances, it is self-evident that the prices offered will be no more than technically competitive."

Mr. Gregory said he was "not happy" concerning Einar Gunderson's association with the Wenner-Gren Development Company.

COUNSEL SOUGHT

"It seems he just happens to have been around when a witness was required for this memorandum of intention. And I think the only reasonable conclusion that can be drawn is that his counsel was sought concerning the whole scheme."

Mr. Gregory said it appeared that Mr. Gunderson had not disclosed interest in the Wenner-Gren organization either to the premier or the lands and forests minister.

"I don't like Mr. Gunderson's associations with the Wenner-Gren company," Mr. Gregory continued.

"I don't like Wenner-Gren or what he stands for, and I have the most serious doubts as to whether this project is truly in the best interests of British Columbia."

Mr. Williston stated that no one in the area at the present time had any claim, any stake or any interest in the resources available.

"At the moment we do not know what future tenure and organization of timber management will take place. But we intend that it shall be controlled by the statutes and regulations of the province."

Mr. Williston said the present inventory of forestry resources in the area was based on aerial photography since no one had ever explored it on the ground.

FIRE DAMAGE

"Experts who flew over the area told us much of the timber had been damaged by fire. For that reason we need transportation so that fire-fighters can go in there and protect our resources."

Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East) said British Columbia was becoming "a haven" for big corporations who were trying to control its resources "forever and a day."

"We of the CCF are in favor of industrial development, but we are skeptical about the future of this plan under an organization of this kind. We don't want any more industrial developments in this province."

Rising to support the government, W. J. Asselstine (SC-Atlin) predicted the project would advance British Columbia's development by at least 50 years.

He recalled that B.C.'s hemlock was rapidly becoming a waste product when the Alaska Pine Company came into B.C. and introduced a method of curing and marketing the hemlock.

"Many would have stopped that company from coming into this province, just as they are trying to keep out the Wenner-Gren interests today," Mr. Asselstine declared.

He said he was satisfied with the premier's assurance there would be no company towns in the area.

"His word is good enough for me—he has never broken it yet," the Atlin member said.

John Squire (CCF-Alberni) called the premier's speech a "tirade" and accused him of attempting to intimidate opposition members from speaking out by accusations of "smear."

"This is a nice deal," Mr. Squire said, "in fact it's so good they don't intend to keep it."

The government should not attempt to industrialize the province "overnight," he said.

QUESTION: Why was the announcement made at this time?

ANSWER: The project was disclosed at the first opportunity when a policy address could be given by a government member.

QUESTION: Is it advisable to handle our resources in this way?

ANSWER: Four years from now (at the next election) the things we are talking about tonight will be accomplished fact and the people will be able to judge whether we are right or wrong. We are not ashamed to stand and be judged on the record of the job we intend to do.

QUESTION: What does the province receive in return for its natural resources?

ANSWER: It expects a railroad will be provided enabling all enterprises to go up there and establish themselves in the area. We shall not taxes from the railroad, from the industries that are established and the resources that will be developed. We expect to provide jobs not only for the people of B.C. but for Canadians everywhere.

Four other questions asked by Mr. Strachan were not answered specifically by Mr. Williston in his address. They were:

1. What promises verbal or otherwise were made to the principals regarding prior claim on the resources?
2. What effect will this agreement have on companies already established in British Columbia?
3. What is the extent of the natural resources involved?
4. What does the agreement do to the province?

Mr. Speaker Cracks Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Speaker Rene Beaudoin Thursday cracked rules like a whip in an apparent move to subdue a pre-election restiveness in the Commons.

His sharp application of the rules cut the daily question period to a bare 20 minutes. Both Liberal and Opposition members were brought up short.

BRIBERY CHARGES

"And there have been charges of bribery in the department of lands and forests that have never been cleared up to the satisfaction of the people."

The government was giving Wenner-Gren — "a man you don't even know" — two years in the area while everybody else is kept out.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said there has been no development whatsoever in the area to date.

"Not a single mineral operation is recorded there," he said. To have the area developed, it is first necessary to have transportation. The government was limited in its ability to find capital for such a large undertaking, Mr. Kiernan said.

"The project is neither more nor less than what is contained in the letter of intent," he said.

VALUABLE DEBATE

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who brought the sitting to an end at midnight, said it had been an "historic debate and a valuable one for the province."

He said the government had concluded the preliminary agreement was a good one "only after very careful consideration."

"Until concrete plans are put forward not one inch of this province will be alienated to anyone," Mr. Bonner said. "We have preserved freedom for the province to examine every proposal."

With that the House moved to a vote on Mr. Dowding's amendment — and it was defeated 37-11.

The House was adjourned at two minutes past midnight.

FORT AT BLANSHARD PHONE 2-7181

CNR Interested in Buying PGE

The premier said the announcement of the scheme had caused great interest in the PGE.

"Today common shares which you couldn't get a dollar for a few years ago now are worth millions of dollars."

The premier said CNR president Donald Gordon had told him during conferences last week he knew the PGE wasn't for sale.

"But if you ever come to the time you want to sell," the premier quoted Mr. Gordon as saying, "let me know as president of the CNR. Just give us a chance to buy it."

Mr. Bennett said that "never has there been such action" as that taken so rapidly by the Wenner-Gren interests.

"And we haven't given them a single thing."

The reserve on land and timber described in the memorandum of intention "was not made in their name, but in the name of the people of B.C."

"People ask why they can't go in. Well, I ask what's been holding them back for the last 1,000 years."

"If Consolidated Mining and Smelting or any other firm thought great riches were there why didn't they go in before?"

The premier criticized opposition members for their lack of vision.

"This government has courage. That's perhaps why it has luck."

His voice softening, the premier said:

"I don't blame the Opposition, the newspapers, and the public for being suspicious."

"They're used to these land deals. They want to know 'is it really true'."

"I can tell them it really is true."

Mr. Strachan charged that the memorandum of intention is "to all intents a binding agreement to grant a forest management licence — despite an agreement not to issue any more until after the Sloan Report is received."

"This is an insult to the Chief Justice of British Columbia," he said.

The CCF is the only party in B.C. "that has clean hands when it comes to resources," Mr. Strachan said.

"The CCF was right about Alcan and the premier was wrong there and on the Kaiser deal."

"Who's to say he's not wrong again?"

Mr. Strachan charged that the premier resented the very existence of the Opposition in the House.

"But no matter how often the premier calls us carping critics, we will continue to carry out our duties as members of Her Majesty's loyal Opposition," the CCF leader said.

The premier had failed to give the answers to the people, he said.

Mr. Strachan claimed that under the memorandum of intention the government would get the results of only the water resources survey from the Wenner-Gren interests.

Mr. Williston retorted that the government would get the information from all the surveys.

COMPANY TOURS

Mr. Strachan said it was inherent in an agreement of this type that there will be company tours.

"The premier didn't say how he could prevent company tours and under what authority."

Canada Proposes UNEF Expansion

OTTAWA (CP) — Far-reaching Canadian proposals, involving the possible addition of naval or air components to the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East, are under discussion in New York, it was learned today.

Canada already has about 1,100 administrative and service troops in the force, dispatched to help restore peace to the area.

Under the new Canadian proposals the UN would maintain either air or sea patrols, or both, to meet Israel's insistence upon freedom of navigation through the Gulf of Aqaba, a southern approach to the Suez Canal.

Canada is said to have expressed willingness to supply naval or air components, or both, should the idea prove acceptable.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States, Britain, France and Norway have agreed on a temporary arrangement for the Suez Canal but Egypt firmly refuses to take any action, diplomatic sources reported here today.
